One thing was noticeable last night, as it always is when the house is in any way crowded, and that is the occupying of the sisles by the patrons of the theatre. The management of the house has no business to allow chairs to be placed in the sisles, or even to allow people to ait upon the steps in the sisles, and yet they do it time and time again, when cver a few dollars are to be gained thereby.

SUNDAY NIGHT'S TRAGEDY.

Price Still at Large, While Keves is Held for Mnrder.

The Coroner's Inquest-The Character of the Two Men Doing the Shooting.

The Sunday night tragedy created reat deal of comment yesterday on all sides, and many were the conjectures as to who really did the killing. Up to a late hour, however, nothing had definitely developed as to who is the responsible and criminal party.

Sheriff Miller and Coroner Kent mad thorough search through all the public places and bawdy houses in Council Bluffs yesterday. They were assisted by the Council Bluffs' police department, who did all in their power to help find the man Price. The search, however, was without avail, and the sheriff and coroner returned to this city about nine o'clock. A message was sent to the warden of the state penitentiary at Lincoln, asking for a full description of Price, which was immediately furnished, and in turn tele-graphed to the sheriffs at Papillion, Fremont, and in all neighboring counties. A message was also sent to the governor asking in regard to the $200 reward usu-

A large audience gathered at the opera house last evening to witness William record, which, if hung up to the public was kept in a roar of laughter, and shout after shout made the dome of the theatre to echo and re-echo as it has not done for many a long day. Barry & Fay are both improving in their respective roles of "Michael Mulcahy" and "Michael Muldoon," and the play is one which. handled by these pleasing artists, will wear well and will be a drawing card for many seasons yet to come.

THE VERDICT. The coroner's jury yesterday afternoon found a verdict to the effect that James Nugent came to his death by a pistol shot, but by whom the shot was fired the dicament in which the tragedy has placed him. On the witness stand he said that he had fired two shots, and furthermore stated that he did not know whether he killed Nugent or not, and from the expression of his hardened feature one might infer that he aidn't care.

The excitement is dying down, and soon public opinion will be back in the old rut again, careless of the causes of crime, and only awakened from lethargy by an occasional incident such as that of Sunday night.

Death of Hon, Josi'T, Griffin,

At two c'clock Sunday morning, Hon. Joel T. Griffin died at his residence Fairview farm, after an illness of scooral of age. He came to Nebraska from Michigan in 1856, and located three miles southwest of Omaha, where he took up 320 acray of land under the homestead and pre-emption laws. He cultivated this land, and engaged quite extensively in market gardening, and in time added to his occupation the business of raising and dealing in fine cattle. He also carried on for some time the business of tree-planting. Mr. Griffin became quite wealthy, and about the year 1870 he was considered one of our most solid and in-fluential citizens. The Griffin farm had grown to be a valuable property.

Mr. Griffin at one time was quite prom inent in politics, and was quite active in every republican convention and cam-psign. He served two-terms in the Nebraska legislature, and was appointed postmaster of Omaha in 1871 by. President Grant. He held the office for about two years, and then resigned. Mr. Graffin unfortunately endoused con-siderable paper for some of his friends, and when they failed to meet their obligations, he was called on to make good the demands. This caused his financial rum, and he was obliged to pass with his valuable farm, and other property, with the exception of what was allowed him.

"No department of the government shall expend in any one fiscal year any sum in excess of the appropriation made by congress for that fiscal year, or involve the government in any contract for the Future payment of money in excess of such appropriation."

Custodians with, therefore, notify all corporations-furnishing gas, electric light, or water, paid from the aloresaid appropriation, that this department will have no means available for payment of such service beyond the data above specified.

CHAS. J. F. CALEE.

Mr. Campbell: thinks, without doubt, that some means will be provided by which the postoffice building can bato lapse after the 16th of March to the encrof the fiscal year, July 1st, although no appropriation for that period of time has been made by congress.

A BOLD ROBBERY.

& Young Man is Held up by Isost Pads. Who are Rewarded: With an Empty Pocket

Between 10 an 11 o'clock Sunday night James W. Ratherford, a clerk at: Lee, Fried and Co's, was held; up by two foot pads at the corner of Eighteenth and Case streets, luckily eccaping injury in addition to robbery. As he peased the corner of the streets a powersal man throw his arms around Rutherfood whose hands were in his overcoat pockets, and another seized him by the throat with another seized him by the threat with one hand to prevent an outery and with the other took from his pockets a piece of tokacco, a buttoner and an aid pocket book. Exclaiming as he did so "All. right, pard, I've got the hoodle" and then starting off on a run. The one, who had held Ruthenford then lifted him up bodily, threw him on the aidewalk and kicked ad him viciously, the second time hitting him on the shoulder after which, like his cowardly pal, he ran away. It so happened that the young man did not have his wasch on, and the pocket book, the robbers took contained not his pint. the robbers took contained nothing

Omaha in Denver.

Denver Tribune, March 8.

There arrived in the city yesterday norning a party of gentlemen from Omaha, consisting of Chairman B. P. Knight and Commissioners R. O'Keefe and F. W. Corliss, composing the board of county commissioners of Douglas county, Nebraska, ex-Commissioner Frederik Drexel and John F. Coots, a prominent contractor of Omaha. The object of the visit is to carefully examine the county court house, and note the many meritorious details of that building. The gentlemen were met in the course of the afternoon by a representative of the Tribune, to whom they stated their mission. Their county is just about com-pleting a $200,000 court - house situated at Seventeenth and Farnam streets in Omaha. The building is now ready to be and built of sandstone, thoroughly fire proof in every respect, and the only wood work are the doors and window frames. It is expected that it will be completed by the 1st of October. All the visitors were delighted with Arapahoe's court house and its appointments.
