

THE DAILY BEE. COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Monday Morning, May 26.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES. By Carrier - 30 cents per week. By Mail - $10.00 per year.

OFFICE: No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway.

MINOR MENTION.

See J. Reiter's Spring Goods. The city council meets again this evening.

The races begin to-morrow and will continue three days.

Wm. Hickman was fined Saturday for being on a disorderly drunk.

Master Harry Walsh now wears the medal of St. Joseph's academy.

Three men and a woman slept Saturday night in the Northwestern yards.

Several prisoners will be sentenced in the district court Wednesday morning.

The Boston operatic company is to be here Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

George Brown was arrested Saturday evening for fast driving and fined $7.00.

Preparations are going on well for the observance of Decoration day next Friday.

The adjourned meeting of the workmen is to be held at the court house to-morrow evening.

Permit to be wed has been issued to B. T. Strohm and Jennie M. Claussen, both of Denison.

There are over 20,000 registered packages a month being handled at the branch postoffice at the transfer.

Burnham & Talley have put in a 6,000 pound steel safe, with time lock, and all modern improvements.

The council is considering the advisability of having the scales at the junction of Main and Pearl streets removed.

In the district court Saturday much time was spent in arguing the case of Collins vs. Collins, it being a question concerning alimony.

The social at the Ogden house netted $75, which will go far toward making the needed improvements in the rectory of the St. Paul church.

The trial of Jim Wilson, who is complained of by Jim Madden for keeping a gambling house, is to come up before Judge Aylesworth to-day.

Gathering maple seed is quite profitable to some. Mr. Covall has gathered 100 pounds in Bayliss park for which he received five cents per pound.

The drunks who are led in will now have a chance to go over a new brick sidewalk which has been laid on Bryant street, from Broadway north.

Now that the summer heat comes on, St. Paul's Episcopal church has changed the hour of its Sunday school from afternoon to 9:30 in the morning.

John Wilson, the shoemaker, was up for drunkenness Saturday, but was discharged, the court apparently getting discouraged about fining him, it seeming to do no good.

The two boys, Peter Wallace and Lewis Pennington, charged with stealing a silver watch from a laborer, who had hung his vest up in a tree, were discharged Saturday.

District Attorney Connor, who is attending court here, has a personal deposit of about $600 in the hole at Denison. The firm of which he is a member has also been depositing in the same bank.

Holly Lewis, who stabbed his roommate in Des Moines, has been granted a change of venue to Madison county. The court meets at Winterset in September, and nothing now will be done until then.

Rev. Father Clark addressed the Irish league here yesterday. He has lately severed his connection with the church at Red Oak and returned to Shenandoah, which he will make his permanent residence.

Some thief has sneaked a fine buggy cushion from George H. Beard. It was taken in day-light and from Pearl street in front of his store. Sneaks seem to have no fear of being caught in Council Bluffs.

The council has not yet decided whether to borrow money for the poor Union Pacific road or not. The matter will come up again at the meeting to-night. At the meeting Saturday evening a resolution was passed ordering the company to pave its track within three days.

The well-known wholesale drug house of Harle, McKune & Co., changed to-day. Sam Hass has purchased the interest of the late Dr. McKune, and the firm is to be Harle, Hass & Co. Mr. Arthur Cole will still retain his interest in the firm, and the business in other respects will also remain unchanged.

Rev. W. S. Kinney, of Avoca, died at his home there Friday night, of cancer. He was aged 51 years, and was for years engaged in the Methodist ministry, his poor health compelling him to leave the work, after which he engaged in the millinery business. The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Ramsey officiating.

Some of the street car employes are getting too smart for this life. One of them on being asked by a passenger, on Saturday, whether the car made connections with the dummy, or not, curtly replied, "We are running a street car, and not a dummy," and the passenger had to rest content with that sort of an answer. On the same day, while a car was standing at the transfer depot, some passengers asked the driver, whose name is Still, when he was going up town. At first he paid no attention to the query, but on it being asked again he deigned to reply. "When the car starts." It was only after some sharp words had been given him that he consented to give the information needed. It is about time that such smart fellows were given some position where they would not come in contact with the public.

The singing school which for a long time held weekly sessions in the parlors of the Congregational church are to give a sample entertainment at their place next Saturday afternoon and offer for sale some of the articles made by members of the school. This school has done much good not merely in helping those who needed help, but in helping them to help themselves, and the friends of such enterprises should gladly avail themselves of this opportunity of encouraging the work and the workers. A dime admission will be charged.

Rev. H. L. Hammond, of Chicago, brother of the late Col. Hammond and father of Prof. Hammond, superintendent of the institution for the deaf and dumb here, spent Sunday in the city. Yesterday he preached in the Congregational church, taking as his text—"Elias was a man subject to like passions as we are." He gave a very interesting biography of Elias, and made the scriptural narrative so clever and natural, that the truth to be drawn from such a life were self-apparent. The discourse was one of more than ordinary interest, and the large audience listened very attentively.

The reporters on the Nonpartisan and Globe placed their ignorance on exhibition recently by rushing into print with a description of the manner in which the "north-western" unloaded dirt from its cars. One reporter called it a Council Bluffs "improvement," and the other the newest and greatest invention of the age. The fact is that the manner of unloading cars which so surprised the Council Bluffs reporters, has been in vogue for years, and during the past five years has been used by the Rock Island road between Avoca and Council Bluffs.—Avoca Herald.

To-morrow another complimentary concert, similar to that lately given by THE BEE, will be given in Bayliss park. Mr. Mueller is the generous gentleman who gives it this time, and as the Nonpartisan said in reference to THE BEE concert, he "merits the thanks of the entire community." Chinese lanterns, flags, etc., will be used in decorating the park, and the Bayarian band will be at its best. Everybody invited. The concert will begin at 8 o'clock.

The Henshaw and Ten-Brook Comedy company, after giving three very enjoyable entertainments here, have come to Des Moines. "Tactics" is a clean comedy with much real merit, and in the hands of this company is fairly presented. The audiences were quite enthusiastic, and the company have won so much favor that they may be sure of full houses when they come this way again.

Charles Wilson, who lately forged an order on one McDermott, pleaded guilty in the district court Saturday. Norman, who with a woman, was arrested for burglary at Minden, also pleaded guilty. The case against the woman was dismissed. The fellow, named Goetz, who was found asleep in a drunken stupor in Tholl & Kracht's store, pleaded guilty to burglary.

Sweet potato plants—largest stock in the west—by W. H. Foster, Council Bluffs. Send for price list.

C. B. Russell, of Malvern, spent Sunday at the Pacific.

B. F. Crossdale, of Little Sioux, was at the Pacific over Sunday.

Col. Cochran is back from his Little Sioux ranch, and is stopping at the Ogden.

C. M. Horte is off to Chicago on a week's combination of pleasure and business.

Will A. Armstrong, of Chicago, one of the best known men on the road, spent Sunday at the Ogden.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Buckingham, of Springfield, O., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. S. T. Walker, of this city.

John Long, of Le Mars and G. R. Wylie, of Springfield, Ill., are making headquarters at Bechtel's, during the races.

L. S. Amaden, wife and daughter, of Dunlap, spent Sunday in this city and took a drive about town seeing the improvements.

J. C. Morgan, of the Buffalo Courier, Kearney, Neb., is in the city creating his many old friends again. He seems to meet with success in his new venture, and is making the Courier very readable.

W. A. Frye, who represent Read, Jones & Co., Omaha's well-known boot and shoe house, was at Bechtel's yesterday. He has a host of friends and business acquaintances and is one of the liveliest missionaries visiting Iowa in that line.

Attention Workmen. The adjourned meeting to complete the organization begun on the 13th inst., will be held at the court house, at 8 o'clock p. m., on Tuesday, May 27; all workmen should attend and join the organization.

Killed by a Rattlesnake. The most painful article we have been forced to chronicle for some time, happened at the house of Mr. W. N. Webb, who lives about four miles northwest of Elliott, several evenings since. Mr. Webb's child, a bright little girl, while playing in the yard was heard to scream, and its mother running out got there in time to see a large rattlesnake glide off. Mr. Webb was in the field a long distance off and it took the frightened mother some time to summon him, so that before the child could be got to town, something like an hour and a half or two hours had elapsed. By that time the poison had spread all over the little one and she died the next morning.—Avoca Herald.

PLUCKING A PASSENGER.

Two Confidence Men Rob an Irishman of His Roll.

Capture of One of the Pair.

A sneaking confidence game, ending in a bold robbery, occurred at the transfer Saturday. The victim was a young Irishman named Thomas Donnelly, who was en route from Kansas City to Stuart, Iowa. About ten minutes before the Rock Island train, Donnelly, having procured a ticket, secured a seat, and soon after fell in conversation with one of the sharpers, who, learning that he was going to Stuart, hoping to find employment there, represented to him that he was engaged in business there, having a large general store. He had been in Omaha buying goods, and was just on his way home. The pretended merchant wanted a man to drive his delivery wagon, and as Donnelly was anxious to secure work, the merchant engaged him for that purpose. About this time the second sharper came in, pretending to be a railway agent, and demanded of the merchant the freight charges on some goods. The merchant had not quite currency enough, but had a check, which the agent said he could not accept, the rules of the company forbidding it. He must have the currency. In this dilemma the merchant asked his new employe if he could not help him to the extent of $20. Donnelly, anxious to accommodate his new employer, pulled out his roll of money amounting to about $200, and was just about signing out a $20 bill, when conductor Fred Bliss appeared in the car, and approaching the game, the sharpers evidently concluded that it would be blocked, the "merchant" grabbed Donnelly's money, handed it to the other sharper, and both started to skip out. The conductor grabbed them and tried to hold them, but they broke from him, and started out making a lively run out into the yard and among the freight cars, followed by Bliss and a man named John Henry. In trying to get under one of the cars the "merchant" caught one foot and fell, and Henry grabbed him and held him. He was turned over to the police and locked up in jail. The other fellow who had the money made his escape.

The one who was arrested refused to give any name, but offered that of R. J. Johnson. Wright & Baldwin as attorneys for the railway, will prosecute the case and J. J. Frayne has been secured by the prisoner. Donnelly has been put under $100 bonds to appear as a witness and there seems good chances for one confidence man being convicted.

Bushnell sells railroad tickets cheap to all points.

A False Alarm.

About 2 o'clock Saturday morning Eugene Shaw, the night clerk at the Pacific house, heard a noise up stairs, and going up met a young man just coming down. Not recognizing the fellow as a guest of the house Shaw asked him what he was doing. The stranger replied that he had just been up stairs with the boys, and Shaw concluded it was some friend of the show folks who were stopping there, let him pass. A few minutes afterward the bell rang and Shaw going up stairs to see what was wanted learned that some one had been trying to break into the room of Miss Ten Broeke, one of the "Tactics" company. Suspicion fastening on the young man Shaw at once described him to Officer O'Brien, who shortly afterward found him in Ben Marks' gambling rooms and arrested him. The young man had on Thursday last registered at the Pacific but after registering did not return to the hotel until Friday evening, when he was seen hanging about there several hours before his arrest. Investigation proved that he was an insurance man which was very far from being a burglar, but who was on a little spree, and was roaming about in a dazy state. His friends got hold of him and sobered him up and the matter is dropped.
