COUNCIL BLUFFS. ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS. THE PANIC STRIKES DENISON. The Crawford County Bank Closes Its Doors and Makes an Assignment. The good people of Denison were taken by surprise Saturday at the closing of the doors of the Crawford county bank, a moneyed institution, which was not considered a very heavy or strong one, and yet which was thought to be doing a small safe business.

A Sunday Scorch. Shortly after 12 o'clock Sunday morning the alarm of fire was turned in on discovering flames in a little wooden building on Pierce street nearly in the rear of the O'Gen House. Three different boxes were turned in but none registered the numbers correctly but after a time the fire department got out and water was put on the burning building. The house was unoccupied it being in process of repair or making over.

Plenty of Fruit. New York Herald. Unless something unusual and unexpected in the way of storms happens within a week the fruit crop of the United States this year will be greater than any that ever was known. In spite of regular annual scare about the peach crop, there are plenty of peaches already "set" in Delaware and Southern New Jersey. The cherries were not ruined by the late rain, although some dealers are trying to make the public believe they were. Peas are as promising as usual, and almost every apple tree in the land is a marvel of bloom. Strawberries are already cheap enough to eat, and the quantity is equal to the demand; the other berries are unharmed, in bud or blossom; as for currants and grapes, nothing ever seemed to discourage them. Plenty of fruit means cheap fruit; cheapness implies large consumption, which in turn wards off diseases peculiar to the summer season. A good fruit year, such as 1884 promises to be, is a blessing to everybody except physicians and undertakers.

CURE OF RHEUMATISM. OCEANUS POST OFFICE. ROCKAWAY BEACH, N. Y., March 1, 1883. I have been a great sufferer from Rheumatism. Some six months ago I had a bad attack and was laid up for a month; nothing appeared to me of any good. I got a box of Brandreth's Pills at last, and took three and four every night for a week. I got better every day, and in a week I was well. On this beach we have no doctor, and our main reliance is on Brandreth's Pills and Alcock's Plaster Plasters.

Castle Garden. R. Wheatly in Harper's Magazine for May. Castle Garden is one of the most beneficent institutions in the world, and owes its present uses largely to Dr. Friedrich Kapp, now a member of the Imperial German Reichsrath, but formerly a resident of New York. It is under the control of nine commissioners of emigration, appointed for a term of six years by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate of the state of New York. This latter I follow a portion of the 6730 immigrants who arrived by seven different steamers on the 15th of May 1882. The name of each, the date of his arrival, place of departure, number of his family (if any), whether bonded, his business, and other particulars, are all registered. This record, together with that of the cabin passengers, is compared with the manifest of each captain, which manifest ought to exhibit the names of all the persons he had on board. It thus becomes a check on the greed of those who have brought overboard passengers; than the law permits, or than were named in the manifests. Not only do the Commissioners of Emigration protect their often helpless charges against the extortions, robberies, and unspeakable villainies of the human harpies who formerly infested the docks, and preyed upon the luckless immigrants, not only do they supply interpreters, maintain an employment bureau, assist in the exchange of funds, purchase of tickets, forward ing of emigrants and baggage—but they also license the boarding-house runners, and subject them to rigid supervision. They further provide for the sick and disabled, the lunatics, and the pregnant women whose husbands, if sick, are sent to the hospital on Ward's Island, furnish medicines to the sailors and seamen to the ruptured, and preserve recorded particulars of all thus coming under their special care by which they may be found and identified in the future. Near the Information Bureau from 2000 to 2500 people, waiting inquiringly for their friends, have sometimes been congregated at a time. The greatly beneficent work of the Emigration Commissioners deserves better medical facilities than the miserably inadequate hospital accommodations at their immediate command in Castle Garden. New York does the work and bears the expense connected with foreign immigration, but the whole country shares in its benefits. The railroads especially profit by it. The cash value of tickets purchased by inward-bound immigrants in 1881 was more than five million dollars. Money to the value of eleven millions were exchanged in Castle Garden, and the estimated amount of the drafts, bonds, and other representatives of specie value brought in during the same year was no less than one hundred million dollars. Castle Garden ought to be a national institution.

Philadelphia Record. One of the obvious lessons to be drawn from Wall Street yesterday is the old, familiar axiom, which even the most prudent investors are constantly in danger of forgetting, that securities which have merely an accidental or fictitious value are really no securities at all. In time of trial, when credit for the moment is paralyzed, they disappear like chaff before the wind, leaving ruin and sorrow in their wake. Men who have been accustomed to regard themselves as millionaires because they owned or controlled vast sums in such securities, find themselves of a sudden reduced almost to penury, their colossal fortunes—on paper—vanishing into thin air. At such a time those who have money to invest naturally ask how they may best protect themselves from risks of this character, and one of the first suggestions likely to present itself is the superiority, in point of safety, of real estate investments over almost any other class of securities. "It is an ill wind that blows nobody any good," and one of the beneficial effects which are likely to follow the crash in Wall Street, that sent a thrill of anxiety through the hearts of investors all over the country yesterday will probably be to bring into prominence a class of investments that can be seen and felt, that will not be blown about by every breath of speculation, and that can be shaken by nothing short of a physical or financial earthquake. Real estate, as a general rule, does not pay rapid and heavy profits that are sometimes realized from stock speculations, and it is for this reason that the majority of investors fail to appreciate the advantages that are to be found in the judicious expenditure of money in this direction. But if it does not make such large and quick returns, it does not slide from under the feet of those who trust their money to it, as such days as yesterday show that even the best stocks may do. Conservative people; therefore, in view of these recent lessons, will turn with fresh interest to real estate investments, which cannot take wings to themselves and fly away in a single hour with the savings and accumulations of a lifetime.
