

THE DAILY BEE.

Wednesday Morning, Jan. 14.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The subject of Dr. G. E. Harfield's lecture at the synagogue next Friday and Saturday evenings will be "Denominational Consistency."

The examination of Frank Grubbs and Mary Klus, charged with the murder of John Klus, will be held this afternoon in the police court.

Mr. John Rosecky, the editor of the Pokrok Zapadu, filed a complaint in the police court yesterday afternoon against Frank Kubovec who feloniously assaulted him Saturday evening.

James McCaffrey has issued on behalf of Patrick McNally, the O'Neill pugilist, a challenge to spar Ed Miller, the match to be for $250 a side and receipts of the house, with small, soft gloves.

The German edition of the illustrated supplement of the Bee can now be had at this office at 15 cents each or two for 25 cents. These can be mailed to any part of this country and to Germany for one cent.

Marriage licenses were issued yesterday in the county court to Frank Probrsky and Mary Wavaka, Emma Hebert and Henry Guthart, John Reppar and Maggie Johnson, Frank L. Hull and Emma W. Wallgrave.

Detective J. J. Neligh, of the Western Detective agency, returned yesterday from a successful business trip to New Orleans, in company with Detective Emery he left in the morning for Schuyler to testify in the case of Frank Heidt, the train wrecker.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary McGinn took place yesterday from the residence of Mrs. Agnes McShane, and was largely attended by the friends and relatives of the deceased. The solemn services were conducted by the Rev. Father Shaffel, high mass being celebrated in the morning at Holy Family church.

Mr. Joseph Pribosky, an employe in the office of the Pokrok Zapadu, was passing the cigars around yesterday, while his face was lighted up with a heavenly smile. The scene of all this was the arrival at his house on Saturday last of a little baby boy. Mother and child are both getting along nicely.

The police authorities have declared their intention of putting a stop to Sunday coasting on the hills on Davenport, Chicago, and Cass streets. Serious complaints have been made in that direction and it is alleged the boys making the most notorious noise, seriously interfere with devotional worship conducted in the churches situated on those streets. Consequently a police officer will be on hand next Sunday, prepared to arrest all those boys who are coasting on the hills mentioned.

Mr. Edward Walsh has received from Cincinnati, a circular letter relative to aid for the striking cigar makers' union of that city. For forty-eight weeks, three hundred of the striking cigar makers have been out, and during the last few weeks of the strike the union has been able to give each man but eighty-five cents a week on which to support his family. At the next meeting of the local trades assembly, a committee will be appointed to solicit aid for the sufferers.

Judge Bartlett married yesterday an old black couple, the husband 60 years of age, the wife 50. It seems from the story told by them that they had been married "before the war, sah," but had been separated by some violent means, she coming to Omaha, while he drifted off and lived with another woman with whom, it appears, he had previously contracted marriage. The latter wife finally died, and the old man started for the west where, by the mere accident, he met his former love. A re-marriage was proposed, the idea proved mutually agreeable, and the twain are now happy, as in ante-bellum days.

To-morrow morning will take place the grand display and street parade of the Union Pacific band. The affair promises to be one of great interest, on a scale of magnitude which will be unusual. The Union Pacific shop boys will turn out en masse, while numbers of Omaha's prominent merchants have agreed to be represented in the line of parade with carriages and wagons decorated in a manner symbolical of each trade or business. There will also be other bands in the procession to assist in furnishing the music for the occasion. There is every reason to believe, in fact, that the annual parade of the band will be a great and imposing event.

FORCASTING THE FUTURE.

The Estimate of County Expenses for 1885.

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. Includes Courts, jurors and court expenses, Jail expenses and boarding prisoners, Assessors and precinct officers, Poor farm and supplies for poor, Blank books and stationery, Salaries, county commissioners, county attorney, superintendent of public instruction, county clerk and officials, Coroners' fees, coroners' jurors, witnesses, inquests, gas, fuel, water, repairing expenses, etc.

A Brother's Revenge.

Yesterday afternoon a certain well-known citizen came into Judge Anderson's court and desired to swear out a writ of replevin against his brother for a gold-headed cane. The episode connected with this little circumstance is of quaint interest. It appears that brother No. 1 had had a bitter quarrel with brother No. 2, both parties, it may be remarked, being of the "I. I. a." In the course of the dispute No. 1 raised his gold-headed cane to threaten No. 2. His blows became so violent that he broke the instrument of chastisement on the unlucky head of No. 2. At this juncture No. 2 rose up in his wrath, and drew No. 1 out of the house, and defiantly ordered him to make himself, as a matter of sanitary precaution, much "less numerous." The gold-headed cane, broken to splinters, remained in the possession of No. 2, and No. 1 was at loss to know how to recover it. At the advice of Judge Anderson, who did not favor a resort to law, the brother sent a messenger boy with a written request for the cane. The plan was successful and the shattered implement of war is once more in the hands of the brother. The worst crisis of reconciliation has not yet arrived.

CHARITABLE DANCERS.

Preparations Progressing for the Grand Charity Ball.

The Dancing Floor Completed and the Opera House Decorated.

The arrangements for the Charity ball at the opera house tonight are fast approaching completion, and by noon all will be in readiness. The dancing floor has been completed, and is a grand, large, smooth surface 40x70 feet in size, containing 2,800 square feet. It is calculated that 100 square feet are required to dance a quadrille, and allowing these figures to be correct, twenty-eight sets can dance upon the floor at one time. When it is necessary, however, a set can comfortably dance upon sixty-four square feet, and at this rate forty-four sets can dance upon the floor in the opera house. This will give ample room for all who desire to dance to do so.

About 300 tickets had been sold up to noon yesterday, and the management confidently expect that at least 200 more will be disposed of. It is safe to say that at least $3,000 will be taken in at the ball, which will give at least a net profit of $2,500. This will make a nice little sum to be distributed among the needy poor of the city, and many a hungry mouth can be fed, and many a heartstone warmed by careful expenditure of the sum. All who desire to aid the needy ones in this city cannot do so in a better way than by buying a ticket to the Charity Ball, as the management of the affair is one in which everybody has the most implicit confidence, and they have given their personal guarantee that every dollar realized will be judiciously expended in relieving the wants of the needy ones.

The committee was engaged yesterday in decorating the opera house with flags and bunting and ignow provisions a beautiful appearance and more of the same kind is to follow. The supper room has been tastily and prettily decorated, and when the tables are loaded with the good things of earth and presided over by the fairest of God's creatures, who can refrain from spending one paltry dollar to aid the poor and at the same time indulge in a meal which will do honor to crowned heads.

The range was placed in position in the kitchen yesterday and everything is in readiness for the reception of the edibles which have been promised. All victuals sent to the opera house will be taken up through the gallery door and not through the main entrance.

If you fail to attend the Charity ball you will miss the great event of the season. "Charity covers a multitude of sins," so if you have any conscientious scruples against dancing, just bear this in mind and limber up your Methodistic limb for this occasion.

The three graces, "Fath, Hope and Charity," but the greatest of these is Charity. Just stick a pin in there and remember that "whosoever giveth a cup of cold water to the least of these," etc. "I was hungered and ye gave me meat. I was naked and ye clothed me." By attending the Charity ball you may both cloth and feed some poor unfortunate and hungry soul.

"The poor ye have with ye always." This is a fact and one too which can not be denied. The streets every day whose every look speaks of poverty and distress. Help these poor specimens of humanity by buying a ticket to the Charity ball.

One touch of nature makes the whole world kin." Remember this and let it touch your heart and pocketbook too, to the tune of $5, the price of a ticket to the Charity ball.

If you have not yet bought a ticket to the charity ball, you will find Mr. E. E. Whitmore in the box office at the opera house to-day and nothing will make him happier than to see you walk up with a $5 bill in your hand and deposit it for a piece of paste board which will admit you to the Charity ball.

AMERICAN PORK.

An Omaha Gentleman Flaunts the Banner Under Prince Bismarck's Nose.

A great deal has been said about the introduction of American pork into Germany, but an Omaha gentleman has taken the pean in bringing before the eyes of Prince Bismarck the pork-packing business in America.

Yesterday a gentleman, whose name for short we will call Mr. James Creighton, purchased an illustrated supplement of the Bee, the German edition, and after reading it through carefully (of course he read it) he wrapped it up nicely and employed a German friend to address it to Prince Bismarck, at Berlin, Germany. Before placing the paper in the wrapper he took a blue pencil and drew large lines around the stock yards engraving and also around the view of J. E. Boyd's packing house. He wrote something upon the margin of the paper, but it is not known exactly what it was or whether it was written in English or German, but it is probable that it was written in both and it is also probable that the words written, were "root hog or die," which translated in German means "shoot the American swine."

some man at the corner of Tenth street and Capital avenue and the fellow took refuge in Barney Shannon's saloon. Casey remained around the corner with a knife in his hand awaiting the coming of his victim. Officer Donovan was called and took Casey to jail. This morning he pleaded not guilty and his case was continued.

Pat Dolan, poor old Pat, was up again for being drunk. He has been up so often that a session of police court without his presence is decidedly tame. He started out as usual with an address to the court, "Now Judge," he said, "I have been before you too often and if you will only give me fifteen minutes I will get over into Iowa."

In M.M. of Geo. Chamberlain and Geo. W. Sheldon who were killed in the accident near Elkhorn on the line of the Union Pacific railroad.

They have passed the dark river And through death's iron gate. Those two men that perished, In the disaster of late, While in the discharge of duty, The engineer strove, but too late To avert the calamity That threatened Engine Number Eight.

In the sad scene that followed Mingled with anguish and pain, The engineer and his fireman Were victims of the ill-fated train. Place at my back a cushion The brave fireman said, His last words were let me die easy, Ere long his spirit had fled.

God pity the bereaved ones Who were accustomed to wait The safe home arrival Of Engine Number Eight, But there cometh no gladness To cheer the hearts weary pain, And fruitless is the watching For those who never come again.

Yet hope, like a beacon light, Flashes through the dense gloom, And lightens the spirit as the State Journal press.

The dreary part of the to-morrow, While many hearts are aching For the friends dead and gone, In Christ there is real comfort, For the string of death is well drawn.

Though the hot tears of sorrow, We endeavor vainly to check; How sad is the remembrance Of the dread Elkhorn wreck. They have passed the dark river, And through death's iron gate, For away in the distance Our country they wait.

—[Mrs. M. E. THOMER, Columbus, Neb., December, 1884.]

IRISH-AMERICAN.

A meeting of the Irish-American citizens was held in the police court room on Sunday afternoon to take into consideration the formation of an anti-free trade or protective club. Captain J. S. Wood, was elected temporary chairman, and J. I. Nichol, secretary. The chairman, on taking his seat stated the object of the meeting and read a preamble to the proposed constitution which was in itself explanatory and was therefore unanimously adopted.

MIDWINTER MORTALITY.

The December Report of the City Physician.

The December report of Dr. Leisnering, city physician, was presented to the city council last night, and contains several items of interest. Following is the record of deaths:

Table with 2 columns: Cause of death, Number of deaths. Includes Deaths, violence, Suicide, Typho-malarial and simple fever, Peripneural diseases, Infantile, Alcoholism, Consumption, Pneumonia, Heart Disease, Marasmus, Meningitis, Apoplexy, Convulsions, Bright's Disease and Nephritis, Cyanosis, Surgical operations, Lead poisoning, Anemia, Uremia, Dropsy, Old age, Obstruction of the bowels.

Total, 413. Of these forty-nine of the thirty-nine are of males, eighteen of female. Sixteen were married, twenty-eight single, and five widowed. To the First ward must be accorded the distinction of having the highest mortality for the month, the number of deaths in that ward being twelve. The number of children born during the month, as recorded by the city physician, was 97.

THE CARNIVAL OF CADAVERS.

A Paralyzing Picture Painted by a Local Artist at the State Capital.

Lincoln News, 10th. The phantom programme of exercises and tragic variety of the social bill of murderous fare during the past week has startled the citizens of Lincoln with horrifying disclosures, and like the ghost of Banquo, who wouldn't stay down, still lingers, and guests at the long drawn out banquet of death, wonder what course in the career of human events will next be served to appease the Capitol city appetite already gorged with a surfeit of blood curdling tragedies! The excitement created by one frightful occurrence and report from a coroner's jury is scarcely communicated to citizens in various portions of our narrow limits, before another gory, shrouded mystery is heralded and another investigation ordered. Within one week three orders from the coroner direct the sheriff to summon juries at as many inquests as he can get.

Suspensions from the wall were various articles of apparel for both male and female. The premises were not supplied with furniture to any extent. The several bodies were evidently those of adults. J. M. Corbin, a switchman in the employ of the B. & M., admitted the breaking in of the door and at request of the coroner he was ordered under arrest and taken in charge by the marshal.

Sheriff Melick appeared upon the scene, but what steps have been taken or thought advisable we have not learned. The fact of such an institution existing in the most frequented portion of our city is revolting.

It is no doubt necessary for scientific advancement to expose the human system for the purpose of such instruction, but the idea of locating such butcheries in a sufficiently settled portion of the city is a sufficient reason for complaint, and those in charge are subjects for severest censure.

C. C. Burr, learning of the situation, gave peremptory orders for the medical butchers to take their trappings away immediately. The professors will probably do their carving of humanity in some other office.

One of the occupants of the family rooms says that night before last one of the bodies was taken away and identifies two of the persons who acted as pal bearers. This may account for the sudden return of the victim that night to rooms of the undertaker. The officers of the school of medicine and surgery should be supplied with the state with quarters and practice their analytical investigation in a more secluded locality.

Since the above was in type we learn that parties interested, left this afternoon to ascertain if the grave of J. H. Jerome, buried last week, had been disturbed. The man Corbin, arrested for opening the professional charnel house, and standing unbidden in presence of the dead subjects for anatomical purposes, appeared before the proper authority.

Writing for the Right.

To the Editor of the Bee. I am delighted to know by the many hearty congratulations from my friends and fellow citizens, that my dictated letter published in your issue of January 2nd, is duly appreciated. This responsive feeling shows conclusively, that the people of Omaha are interested and thinking upon one or more topics set forth in my article. I know full well that it is not my forte to write for newspapers, and would have remained silent only I felt it my duty to exert my little influence for the right. I hope that many others will write upon, discuss and use their influence in extending such sentiments. P. C. HIMEBAUGH.

ANDREWS' PEARL BAKING POWDER.

DO NOT USE ANY OTHER BAKING POWDER. PURE CREAM TARTAR. $1000. GIVEN.

Monday Mr. E. Rosewater, editor of the Bee, received a telegram stating that his mother was lying dangerously ill with pneumonia at her home in Cleveland, Ohio. Mr. Rosewater, who was at Lincoln at the time, immediately left that city for Cleveland to attend at the bedside of his mother. Mr. Andrew Rosewater accompanied his brother on his eastern trip.
