The old city council meets for the last time this evening. The funeral service will doubtless be very impressive. Three special bargains in black cashmere, 50c, 75c and $1.00 per yard at Cocke & Morgan's. The new residence of P. Ganonde, on Third street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues, is being rapidly pushed to completion. Complaint is made that R. P. Snow & Co. are obstructing the sidewalk on Ninth avenue corner of Main street with an old counter. At the parlors of the Creston house yesterday J. C. Bloom and Theresa Geiger were joyfully joined in marriage by Justice Schurz. At the Baptist church to-morrow there will be services as usual morning and evening. Rev. D. D. Proper, of Des Moines, will preach. There are now ninety-three gasoline street lamps in this city and eight more ordered in by the council, the posts of which will be planted as soon as the frost is out of the ground. As I will positively close my business March 21st, I offer my stock of books, stationery, fancy goods, notions and store fixtures at a great sacrifice. H. E. SEAMAN, No. 341 Broadway. The new city council meets on Monday. It is expected that they will satisfy themselves fully as to the financial standing of the city and the correctness of the reports, before they take hold in earnest. The Ancient Order of Hibernians are making preparations which will insure the success of the great ball at Masonic hall Tuesday evening March 17. A large number from Omaha are expected to participate. Mrs. Kltth Hopkins complains that her husband, Patrick, abused and assaulted her Thursday night. They live on Sixth street between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets. Nelson Bros., of Cedar Rapids, are sending out the March number of their Pocket Railway Guide for Iowa. It is the simplest and most convenient and reliable reference book that the traveller in this state can get for a quarter. The amount of improvements in this city promises this year to be greater than ever before in the history of Council Bluffs. Already a large number of dwellings are being erected, and the building improvements on the outskirts of the city are especially noticeable. There are few if any carpenters in town but have all the work they can handle conveniently. There is still a little bad blood between the police and the marshal's force. Yesterday one drunken man was arrested, and taken to police headquarters, there searched, and personal effects kept there, the chief claiming that the mayor had not countermanded his order to that effect. The marshal on the other hand claimed that under the ordinance the prisoner should have been searched at the jail and the effects put in the jailer's keeping. Dan Collamer, whose sensational experience in the past-house, were made public in THE BEE, seems to be having lots of trouble. He has been unable to get the county to pay his bill for nursing a small poor patient, and had to sue Henry Neumayer, the proprietor of the Coy house for a like bill. Now Neumayer has had him arrested for threatening to set fire to the Coy house. Collamer gave bonds yesterday and the case was continued until the 17th of March. "The issue of the life to be; We weave of colors all our own." Spiritual circles to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon and evening at 2 and 7:30 o'clock in spiritual hall. Entrance via stairs two doors south of postoffice. After the evening circle will be read Robert G. Ingersoll's kind letter to George Chalmers (also Chalmers's reply to Ingersoll) asking him why he left the materialistic ranks and accepted spiritualism. George Chalmers is one of the most distinguished thinkers in America. The largest attraction yet at the rink. Be sure and see it Thursday evening, as it may be the last of the season. Beckman & Co., 525 Main street, will wash and oil your harness cheap now. Geo. Smithson, general roofing, water and fire-proof paint (the best in the market) and roof repairing. No. 202 North Seventh street.

The Gambling Houses to Close To-day.

Street Talk Concerning the Mayor's Order.

According to the mayor's order, the gambling houses are to be closed on and after 10 o'clock this evening. There seems to be many theories as to what particular motive actuates the mayor in issuing this order, and many of the theories advanced do not indicate that any too great confidence is felt in the sincerity of the mayor's motive in issuing the proclamation. Others advance theories which indicate a desire to make it appear that the mayor is actuated by some sordid or selfish motive, and thus try and break down any moral support which the public generally may give to the proposed reform.

With many it matters little what the motive is. They feel that it is high time to bring the gamblers into a clear understanding of the fact that the people will not allow them to run the town. If, as it seems, it is necessary to completely close these places in order to teach them this lesson, then they shall be closed. Among the gamblers themselves there seemed a general understanding yesterday that they would obey the order and close their places. Some intimated that it would not be long before they were opened again. Others talked as though Council Bluffs was going to lose a great deal by having the place shut up, and that Omaha would gain the trade, and in fact some charged that Omaha gamblers were at the bottom of the attempt to shut up the business here. As for hurrying the legitimate business of Council Bluffs by closing up the gambling houses no fear need be felt. Business men have long looked with alarm at the way clerks, and the wage-workers, laboring men, and boys are being drawn into these places, and dropped their hard earnings, and are led to plfer from their employers to try their fortune again. Men who would otherwise pay their bills promptly squander their money, and the merchants are either defrauded, or obliged to wait for their pay. Whatever the motive of the mayor is, the move is a good one, and if he personally has any scheme, there will be time enough to get at that, and opportunity, but the move to shut up their places will not be stopped by trying to draw attention off from the gamblers and directing it toward the mayor. The better class of citizens, without regard to whether they like the mayor or not, will endorse the move and stand by it. If the mayor tries to use it afterward for personal or political capital, it will be time to attend to that by and by. At present the question is whether the gambling houses shall be closed or not. The demand is decidedly in favor of closing them. The mayor's reformatory orders also include the closing of saloons at 11 o'clock every night, and all of Sundays. This has caused some flurry among the saloons, and was probably the starter of the order in regard to the gambling houses. The saloon men could see no justice in closing at 11 o'clock when the gambling houses kept open all night. Now some of the gamblers, laying the cause of the trouble at the door of the saloon men, threaten that if the gambling houses are to be closed altogether, the saloons must close, too, and that they will not allow the city to license the saloons, in view of the state prohibitory law, unless the gaming tables are allowed the freedom of the city. They threaten that if they are closed, all saloons must close, and they predict that this will make Council Bluffs so dull and cut off so much revenue from the city that the citizens will gladly get the orders revoked. Yesterday a number of the saloon men paid the balance of their license to May 1st. Last year the saloon men paid $100 each the months in advance, but on the 1st of February last month, if not all who paid, only paid $50, and now the other $50 is being collected, paying up to May 1st. A few hang back, and informations are to be filed against these. Some still refuse to close at 11 o'clock at night. They claim to have lunch counters, which necessitates keeping open all night. About 1 o'clock yesterday morning the police made the rounds. They found the back door of the Phoenix unlocked, and going in there arrested George Smith. He promised to appear in court in the morning. Ed Sherlock, Henry Wagner's partner, was also put under arrest, and promised to appear in court. Wm. Lacy refused to recognize the authority of any arrest unless the officers had a warrant. Yesterday morning the cases were continued until next Monday. Just what will be the outcome does not appear clear. The mayor finds himself criticised on one side for doing one thing, and criticised on the other for not doing another. If he has the nerve, however, to go right ahead, and see to it that in all fair play the city is reformed, and that without any partiality the ordinances of the city are carried out, he will find many standing by him.

Death of Mrs. Dohany. Seldom has a death occurred in this vicinity which has called for so many and such sincere expressions of sorrow as that of Clara Dohany, wife of Mr. John Dohany, which occurred at her residence, No. 332 South Seventh street, about 8 o'clock Thursday evening. She had been ill for over four months, and several times came very near the brink before she received the final summons.

Mrs. Dohany's maiden name was Clara Noble, and she was born near Moline, Ill., is now located, February 16, 1831. She was married to Mr. Dohany in Bellevue, Ill., December 31, 1849, and during the many years of their residence here she has not only proved a worthy companion to so prominent and active business man but socially she has won many friends by her many virtues, has been noted for her charities and her kindness of heart, while in the home circle she has been indeed a true wife and mother.

Mrs. Dohany's mother, Mrs. Palmer, is still living, at the advanced age of 92 years, and she was visiting a son near Missouri Valley when death came to the household here. Mrs. Dohany's sister, the wife of Dr. Lewis, of Crooktown, Minn., on being informed of Mrs. Do-hany's nearness to death, hurried hither, but did not arrive until a few hours after her death. Mrs. Dohany leaves four daughters, Mrs. M. G. Griffin, Mrs. Will Maurer, Mrs. M. Dell and Julia Dohany; also one son, John J. Dohany. The funeral will take place from the family residence at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Dr. S. Mosher, of the Sioux City Chronic Disease Institute, will be at the Scott house in this city, Thursday, April 2d. Will attend to patients and all who are afflicted will do well to give him a call. Consultation free.

A MORNING FIRE. Mrs. Jomer's Residence Given a Scorch and a Drenching. Yesterday morning shortly after ten o'clock the fire department was called out by a blaze in Mrs. N. J. Jomer's residence, 245 Vine street. The fire caught from the flue in the kitchen, and spread under the roof. It was quickly put out but not before the building was badly smoked and drenched with water. Mrs. Jomer has just been improving the interior of her home, and the paper-hangers were just finishing their work when the fire broke out. It will take three or four hundred dollars to repair the damage done by the smoke and water, but the loss is covered by an insurance of $2,500 in the Hawkeye Insurance company.
