

THE DAILY BEE.

Thursday Morning, May 21.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Gen. Sweitzer is in the city on a visit. His many friends here are glad to see and welcome him among them.
-The board of education is making its collective brains in the attempt to secure a better set of rooms for headquarters purposes.
-The painting which is transforming the U. P. headquarters building into a red structure is progressing rapidly. The effect will be very fine, when the painting is complete.
-To shoe dealers--Before you order your rubber boots and shoes for fall, write to us for prices. Z. T. Lindsey & Co., Council Bluffs, Iowa.
-Thomas Brady, a light figured gent, was sent up yesterday afternoon by Judge Stenberg for stealing a watch and $18 from a man at the Slaven house. He got fifty days.
-The annual exhibition at the institute for the deaf and dumb will take place on Friday, the 22d at 2:30 p. m. No cars will be issued. The public is cordially invited to be present.
-The last grand jury of the season will be given at Masonic hall Friday evening, May 29, under the management of W. Brown, W. J. Whitehouse, C. Cheney and J. R. Barnacle.
-A woman named Belle Hewlett, living on Ninth street, between Dodge and Capitol avenue, attempted suicide yesterday by taking morphine. The dose was small and emetics saved her.
-An Omaha drummer named Johnson paid $21 into the police court of Cheyenne for the privilege of painting that town last Sunday. He looked like a prairie squire, but gave up the dust.
-The Memorial Day services this year will be conducted by Custer Post, G. A. R. Comrade A. Allee has been selected to act as chief marshal, and Hon. J. L. Webster as orator of the day.
-A. U. Wyman, ex-treasurer of the United States, arrived in this city yesterday, and will make Omaha his future home. Mr. Wyman has become vice president of the Omaha National bank and president of the new trust company.
-The Law Library association removed its books into the new courthouse Wednesday, and will engage as librarian a lady who is familiar with the use of the type-writer, which will be a great convenience to the bar in obtaining transcripts of some of the records in the building.
-Marshal Cummings was so unfortunate the other day as to kill the dog of a woman named Matilda Johnson. Perhaps he did it intentionally. At any rate Matilda's feelings have been harrowed as with the sharp end of a duplex cyclone. She needs a pecuniary salve for her wounded love. Marshal Cummings has been sued for $300.
-Twenty-four druggists in this city and ten from Lincoln, it is said, have been summoned to appear at a police case which is soon to come up for hearing at Waco. It seems that a druggist named Lamb, of that place, filled a prescription containing certain solution of strychnine. In the course of a week or more the patient for whom the medicine was prescribed, died and an autopsy revealed the cause of death to have been strychnine poisoning. Lamb was at once arrested and indicted for manslaughter. The prosecution and defense are both hard at work, each to gain their ends and have been operating most quietly.

PERSONAL.

Postal Inspector Steen returned yesterday morning from Lincoln.
Mrs. William Donnelly has gone to Fremont for a fortnight's visit.

MEDICS IN MEETING.

The Tenth Annual Session of the State Eclectic Society.

A New State Medical Magazine to be Started--Election of Officers--Other Business.

The Nebraska State Eclectic Medical association met Tuesday night in tenth annual session in the parlors of the Millard. A fair attendance of members was present. President Isaac Van Camp was in the chair, and Dr. J. M. Keys, of Pawnee City officiated as secretary.

BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS.
Roll of officers called--Absent, L. F. Polk, vice president; H. Y. Bates, treasurer; J. H. Woodward, A. M. Moore and E. M. Butler, board of censors.

Report of committee on medical suggestion, consisting of Drs. McCasland, R. S. Grimes and W. S. Latta, was received and committee discharged.

The committee on the status of eclecticism in Nebraska, consisting of Drs. Southerland, Nichols and Hasler, being absent, no report was made, and the committee continued.

The following names were presented to the association for membership: W. K. Chubbuck, S. A. Schaffer, Alex. Coleman, H. A. Friedrich, J. J. Young, R. B. Crawford and S. B. Sutgen.

The board of censors being absent the president appointed Drs. Latta, Keys and Morton as such board pro tem. The board reported favorably upon all applicants and they were all duly elected members of the association.

Next in the order of business came the election of officers, with the following results:
J. W. McCasland, of Pawnee City, president; C. S. Sturdivant, of Atkinson, vice president; J. M. Keys, of Pawnee City, secretary; I. Van Camp, of Omaha, corresponding secretary; R. S. Grimes, of Lincoln, treasurer. Board of censors Drs. Guild, Woodward and Nichols.

After general discussion of ways and means to permanently establish the Nebraska Medical Journal, motion was made by Dr. Grimes to appoint a committee of three, consisting of Dr. Morton, Chubbuck and Keys. After due consideration the committee made the following report:
"We, your committee, recommend forming a joint stock company for the purpose of publishing the Nebraska State Medical Journal. That the shares be fixed at $5 each and that every member of the association be urged to take one or more shares. That the secretary correspond with different physicians in relation to the matter an urge their support of the journal.

R. H. Morton, J. M. Keys, C. K. Brewster, Committee.

On motion of Mr. Grimes Messrs. McCasland, Chubbuck and Keys were appointed a committee to perfect the arrangements for a joint stock company, the shares to be non-transferable and the stock limited to $10,000.

On motion the following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the society:
WHEREAS, The eclectic physicians of the state of Nebraska exceed one hundred and fifty in number, who are located in all parts of the state, and who hold distinctive principles differing from both the allopathic and homeopathic schools; and

WHEREAS, The professorship made vacant in the medical department of the University of Nebraska by the resignation of Prof. I. VanCamp has not yet been filled by the board of regents, leaving only two professorships in the eclectic section as shown by the catalogue of said university; therefore,

Resolved, That we earnestly request the board of regents to appoint an assistant professor from our number to represent our principles in said medical department.

Resolved, That we as heretofore recommended E. B. Guild, A. M., M. D. for said position.

Resolved, That the secretary be required to furnish the board of regents a copy of these resolutions.

On motion a committee of two, consisting of Messrs. Grimes and Latta were appointed by the chair to print the constitution and by-laws as amended.

On recommendation of Dr. Guild the applications of A. M. Curdum, of Holdrege, and J. S. Hoyt, of Oxford, were received for membership.

General discussion of cases of interest was made the order of business and participated in by all members present till a late hour in the evening, after which the association adjourned till 9 o'clock of the 20th.

MORNING SESSION.
Nine, a. m., society called to order by the president, Dr. Van Camp.

On motion of Dr. Guild the work of the association was divided into sections of theory and practice of medicine, surgery, obstetrics and gynecology and materia medica and therapeutics, and the following gentlemen appointed as chair men of the different sections:
Materia medica and therapeutics, J. H. Woodward, chairman.
Practice of medicine, R. S. Grimes, chairman.
Obstetrics and gynecology, E. B. Guild, chairman.
Surgery, C. F. Stewart, chairman.

Dr. E. B. Guild presented a paper on puerperal fever which was well delivered and led an animated discussion by the society.

Bills were presented by Dr. Grimes for postal cards for $1.20; and by Dr. Latta, postage and stationery, $4.00, and ordered paid.

The following delegates were elected to the national convention to be held at Altoona, Penn., June 17th, 1885: Alex. Coleman, W. S. Latta, R. S. Grimes, R. B. Crawford, H. G. Estee, W. H. Babcock, J. W. Keyes.

A vote of thanks was tendered the proprietors of the Millard hotel for courtesies extended to members, also to the officials of B. & M. and U. P. railroad lines for reduced fares.

No other business coming up the association adjourned to meet in yearly session at Lincoln the third Wednesday in May, 1886.

Most of the members will leave for their homes before to-night.

The High School Grounds.
"Why don't you stir up the school board before breakfast every morning?" remarked an indignant resident of Capitol hill.

"Why, what's the matter with their digestive apparatus?"

"Tain't that; it's the high school grounds I am kicking about. The board put in a lot of shrubbery there two years ago, but it is all killed out. Now they are putting in more, to suffer the same fate. There is ample play ground for the children within the circular walk, but the scholars pay no attention to orders, if they ever received any. Several base ball diamonds disfigured the green plots, and if the gardener objects the boys simply tell him to go to hades or some other summer resort. It is a shame and disgrace that such an elegant park should be cut up and the work of the gardener destroyed as fast as it is done. Some one should be given authority to keep old and young off the grass, and a policeman could be profitably employed there after dark, bonneting courting couples from under the elms."

"Give the board a lively blast," and the agitated kicker chafed his collar and disappeared in the fog.

POLICE COURT.

Brady and Clayport Sent up--Other Business.

In the police court yesterday morning, D. P. Anderson was arraigned on the old charge of intoxication. He pleaded manfully for mercy and the judge was at first inclined to be lenient and let him off. Anderson admitted, however, that he had been drunk once or twice before, the judge finally concluded that it would not do to let him off scot free. Anderson accumulated a fine of $3 and costs.

James Tracy, a glib talking Irishman was arraigned on a charge of disturbing the peace. There had been a hot row about six o'clock last night near a house of ill fame on Eleventh and Capitol Avenue, and somebody had sent several brick bats crashing through the window. Tracy had been seen lurking suspiciously in the neighborhood at the time, and was arrested as the king-pin in the fracas. He insisted strenuously upon his innocence to-day, however, and his case was continued for evidence.

Charles McGregor and Michael Sheridan were two tramps, at least so the complaint against them alleged. They likewise pleaded tenderly for release. McGregor, who claimed to be an old Union soldier, told a piteous story of how he had three small children in Terra Haute, Ind., and how he had left the Hoosier state to earn a living for them. In the west he had a recurrence of the old army disease, diarrhea, was compelled to quit work, etc., etc. Sheridan's story was equally heart-rending. The judge, in a fit of good humor, released them both, on a promise to procure work at once or leave town.

Thomas Brady and Frank Clayport were the two crooks arrested yesterday for robbing a granger at the Slaven house yesterday of $30, while brushing his coat. Brady was sentenced to twenty days in the county jail on bread and water, and Clayport, who was more immediately concerned in the robbery, was given fifty days. This latter worthy is also accused of having stolen a watch from a workman employed in the U. P. shops.

NOT GUILTY.

Bridenbaugh Says that He Was Not Implicated in the Coleridge Riot.

Tuesday night U. S. Marshal Bierbower returned from Coleridge with the young man, John Bridenbaugh, who is accused of complicity in the criminal assault upon Postmaster Pollock of that place. Bridenbaugh was taken to the Millard hotel, where he was kept under close surveillance all night. Yesterday morning he was taken into the room of Assistant United States District Attorney Bartlett, where he engaged in an informal discussion of the charge on which he has been arrested.

Bridenbaugh denies in toto the serious charges which are preferred against him by Postmaster Pollock. In conversation with a reporter for the Bee yesterday he told a story which, if true, ought to release him. He says that the trouble first originated from an article which was published by Pollock in the Cedar County Nonpareil, making serious charges against him (Bridenbaugh). The latter and his friends argued with Pollock and endeavored to influence him to make a public retraction of the charges. This the postmaster refused to do, and though his intimate friends urged him to repair the wrong he steadily declined to take any such steps. During all this time Bridenbaugh and Pollock met each other several times, and the former declares that he did not draw a revolver on Pollock or make any threatening remarks, but that the latter did attempt to flash a weapon on him. Furthermore, Bridenbaugh did not make any threats that he pronounced to "blow up" Pollock. He admits, however, that the postmaster seemed to be in mortal terror lest he should be assaulted by him, (Bridenbaugh) though for what reason was not apparent. So far as the assault on the house, which was the immediate cause of his arrest, Bridenbaugh says that he knows nothing. The attack was very much exaggerated as only a few bricks were fired through the windows. So far as he knew, no shots were fired.

The attacking party might have been composed of indignant friends of his, though he had no reason so to believe. Certainly he himself had nothing to do with it. So far as the statement was concerned that he was jealous of Pollock because he did not secure the Coleridge postoffice, it was the sheerest nonsense. The sole cause of the trouble was the offensive screed in the columns of the Nonpareil.

This, in brief, is Bridenbaugh's version of the case, published as a mere matter of justice to him.

Reception Committee--Wm. Falkner, O. S. Watson, G. A. Staring, Dr. Ewing Brown.
Floor Managers--Edward Gewinner, Charles Morrison, Edward Fernandez, Oscar Gewinner.
Door Keepers--J. D. James, J. T. Garvie.

A DESERTED WOMAN.

The Sad History of a Wife--A Brother's Search.

About the first of May a lady arrived in this city late in the evening, on the train from Howe, Nebraska. She gave her name as Mary Jane Dovel and said that she was in search of her husband, who, she claimed, had deserted her in Howe. She had with her a child and when intelligent looking, reached this city, she was so worn and broken down mentally and physically that she was taken sick very soon, and died within a few hours at the house of a lady whose name at present can not be ascertained.

Mrs. Dovel said, just before her death, that she had been basely deserted by her husband, Virgil Dovel, and as she would probably never find him she did not care to live.

A brief mention of these facts was made in the columns of the Bee on the second day of May. The paper was forwarded to a brother-in-law of the dead woman, who is living in Holt county, Missouri.

This gentleman became at once very much interested in the case, and desired to have the matter sifted to the bottom. Unable, however, from press of business, to attend to the matter himself, he turned the case over to another brother of the alleged runaway husband, a young lawyer resident in Baltimore, Md. This gentleman at once interested himself in the case, and by the suggestion and desire of his wife and the immediate relatives of the family, has come to Nebraska for the purpose of looking up the history of the case, and to determine, if possible, the whereabouts of the child who was left by the dead woman.

A reporter for the Bee met this gentleman yesterday and engaged him in conversation upon the somewhat mysterious subject. Virgil C. Dovel married his wife in Virginia something over half dozen years ago. They did not live altogether happily while in the east, though Mrs. D. was apparently faithful, and rendered the wifely obedience and respect--while the husband was of kind and pleasant disposition and not addicted to harshness or violent jealousy. Finally, however, hoping for a change of home might serve to effect a change of mutual feelings, the couple moved out west to Howe, Nebraska, where Mr. Dovel bought a farm. Here, it was learned the ill feelings between husband and wife increased rather than diminished and lead, finally to separation. Just on what grounds this separation occurred, is not at present to be learned. The wife is dead and the husband has sold his farm and gone away, perhaps with the determination never to return, and the secret may never be brought to light.

Mr. J. E. Dovel, the brother of Virgil D., has been plying an assiduous search for the missing child, but so far as his labor has availed to the present time revealed anything, there is not the slightest clue to the missing one. He is anxious alike to provide the little waif with a home, and to clear up the mystery of the mother's death and the father's flight. He says that he, as well as the other relatives of the young man Virgil Dovel, believe that whatever act of desertion the husband may have committed, that he was justified in it by the course of the wife.
