AN automatic railroad, operated entirely by self-acting machinery, says the St. Louis Republican, is the contrivance that would net the inventor a handsome fortune.

NEBRASKA is the most profitable field for the railroads in the west. Her producers are to-day paying more in proportion to the services rendered for transportation facilities than any state in the union.

LABOR troubles are in nine cases out of ten caused by the troubles of laborers which in turn owe their origin to the trickery and greed of corporate capital.

MR. CALLAWAY says that the question of a new depot is still held in abeyance. The bonds voted years ago by Omaha for a handsome structure of this kind are held in the railroad vaults.

A LIVELY meeting of the English stockholders of a Wyoming cattle company held last week in London ended in a general row.

THE temperance question continues to be hotly discussed in New York, and there is a lively fight going on between the Methodist and Episcopal churches.

"No serious consequences need be feared in America from the strikes in America," says M. Combes, the aged Italian economist.

Over Capitalization in Corporations. The solid basis upon which most of the complaints of the public against the corporation monopoly is founded on excessive capitalization, or "stock watering."

The United States has the unenviable distinction of leading the world in reckless speculation in the securities of common carriers. In no other country has "stock watering" been carried on with such a bold defiance of the principles of commercial usage and disregard of the rights of both the public and of the minority stockholders.

So long ago as 1869, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, Jr., now president of the Union Pacific company, in an essay upon that railroad, said: "The line from Chicago to New York represents now but $50,000,000 to the mile as compared with the result of many years of inflation, while the line between Omaha and San Francisco begins life with a cost of $115,000 per mile."

Mr. Adams' statement of the case in 1869 is as true now as it was then. The heaviest "stock watering" has taken place since that time. Including the Kansas Pacific $50,765,000 of "water" has been injected into the Union Pacific. More than $17,000,000 was squirited into the New York Central by Vanderbilt.

Excessive capitalization means exorbitant charges, whether the "watering" be in the stock of railroads, gas, water companies or other corporations with power of taxing the public. It may in the end regulate itself by the excessive competition which it stimulates, but the public in the meantime pays the piper and suffers for the crimes of the railway jobbers.

The Radical Parliament. The present house of commons is a daily witness to the strength of radicalism in England and of the growing democratic tendencies of the realm. The reform bill of 1835 has placed Hodge in the saddle. The working classes and men of moderate means now hold the destinies of Great Britain in their grasp.

radicals may be counted to work together. The very strength of the radical element in the commons is a source of disquiet and perhaps of danger to Gladstone and his ministry. It may be counted upon to give support to his measures for Irish reform if they meet their views of expediency, but it may also be expected to do present damage by stampeding the whigs into the ranks of the Tories if its leaders continue to knock down John Bull's most cherished old China from the shelves of his heavy old political crockery shop.

The absence of a written constitution gives radicalism full sway in the proposal of measures of political and social reform. There is no supreme court which can finally set aside legislation and bar the doors against radical changes in the laws and methods of government. The house of lords may refuse its sanction to a decree of the commons, but long continued obstruction would certainly result in a political revolution as the last resort of English discontent.

A careful microscopic analysis of the various kinds of bogus butter has been made by Prof. Nachtrieb, of the Minnesota state university, under the direction of the dairy commission, and the result shows that the vile stuff is not fit for a human being to eat. The best and cleanest looking sample had a butter odor and taste, and to all appearances would pass for butter, so perfect have the swindlers become in their imitations.

King Theobald has a weakness for rubies and beer. Theobald's queen imagines she looks pretty in yellow. Emperor William can speak only in a whisper. Don Pedro is planning the erection of an academy of arts in Brazil, the first of its kind in South America.

Princess Beatrice rides well, preferring Scotland and fleet, stately Scotch ponies, however. Her favorite pony is a tidy little hill pony named Brenda. The princess of Wales' health has been so bad for the last few months that there is a genuine to be serious anxiety and fear that she may become an invalid.

Water, Water Everywhere. Mend Muller's brother Ben one day Grew dry as dust while raking hay.

Down on the ground his rake he threw And said: "By Jingo, I wish I knew." He walked "four miles" that afternoon And panned about for a closed season.

He said, with sadly dreadful words, "I see you sell but temperance drinks." "Yes," said the man behind the bar, "Said Ben: 'A little cold water.'"
