commanding officer of the rifle range. When the rail was sounded the major was at the paymaster's tent, and when he reached the scene of conflagration, the men had almost entirely extinguished the flames, which had actually reached the stable tent. As the major had no fire in his stove at the time he can assign no cause for the flames. A number of books and the major's clothes were saved, due to the earnest and speedy work of the men.

ON TO ST. LOUIS. The Boys are Going With Grey Hats and a Band. It was reported at a meeting held at the office of J. A. Creighton last night that at least 100 democrats from Omaha would attend the national convention to be held at St. Louis in June. The uniform of those attending will consist of grey hats and attractive badges to be worn on the coats of the participants. A band of music is being considered and if feasible arrangements can be effected with the local organizations one of them will be selected to "blow the bug" for Cleveland's re-nomination. It is proposed to take the Wabash road to St. Louis, and those wishing to join the unwashed will have a chance to sign their names to the list, which will be formally exhibited at the office of the road indicated to-day.

The passenger department of the Union Pacific, "The Overland Route," has just got out an advertisement which is known as the Switchmen Puzzle, capable of solution in ten moves. It facilitates all who try to solve it and bids fair as a novelty to surpass the great 13-15-14 puzzle that created such a craze several years ago. Send to J. S. Tebbetts, G. P. & T. A., for one of these little interesting and entertaining little puzzles, but be sure to enclose 10 cents in stamps to pay postage on same.

WILL THEY NEVER CEASE? Another Young Granger Panhandled by Sharps. Yesterday a sandy haired, blue eyed, freckled faced youth of perhaps twenty summers approached a Pinkerton man at the B. & M. depot and inquired if he was a policeman, to which query the aforesaid individual answered in the affirmative without even blushing. The youth then related that he was from a point near Valley, that his name was Cornelius Werton and that he had come to Omaha to seek employment, and that while in quest of a situation he was approached by a man who represented himself as a temperance agent, from whom he owned a farm and had lots of work. He offered the young hayseed a place at $30 per month and board which was promptly accepted, and employer and employee agreed to leave on the train at 10:40 for their sunny Iowa home. While walking up Tenth street they met a gentleman, who, walking up to the Iowa agricultural, domestic and commercial exhibit, handed him a card and a check for $27.50 which he owed him. Singularly enough the farmer was broke and could not pay any more than the $10 and check. The creditor was obtuse and wanted a "few dollars" until the rest could be obtained. Well perhaps the young man could accommodate him? Cornelius had $10 and check, he handed it over and a value there and Cornelius picked it up and Cornelius objected and threatened to wipe the face of this terrestrial ball with the young man's frame and he subsided and after pondering a few hours decided he had better swallow it.

The Pinkerton man sent him to police headquarters where he made a complaint but that $10 was gone, gone.

WORKED THE COMMISSIONERS. The County Officials Weakened by a Mistress' Story. The pathetic story of Mrs. Antonia Buck printed in yesterday's issue of The Bee was read by an old acquaintance of the festive Antonia, who gladly added some new and interesting facts and information in the case. The facts as revealed show that the new illustration had abandoned a good home and wife and interesting children in Chicago to dwell in sin and lust in this city with a German servant girl as a mistress, who is neither handsome, educated nor refined.

Mr. West, the clerk of the Atlantic hotel on South Tenth street, has been in this city for some years, prior to his coming to this city he resided in Elgin, Ill., a town of about forty miles out from Chicago. While a resident of that small city he was in the mercantile business and had a large acquaintance in the city. Among his friends was the above named Antonia Buck, who was a man of position and influence in the town and was a carpenter and contractor of both mechanical and financial ability. Mr. Buck at this time was a married man, the partner of his life being a handsome young German woman of culture and wealth. Her parents had resided in Germany and even while there were among the acquaintances of Mr. West. Since Mr. Buck's marriage to his real wife he is the father of a family of several children, three of whom are living with their mother in Chicago. The eldest is a girl named Antonia, who is now aged nine and four years respectively. The youngest child is about a year and a half old.

About four years ago Buck moved with his family to Chicago, and there contracted his building contract work with financial success, and apparently lived happily in his Chicago home until December 15, he came to this city and took rooms at the Atlantic hotel, and was working about the city. He was regular in his habits, and it is known to a certainty that he had no woman in this city who was living off of his toils. He left the hotel the last of March and since then only has been living with the woman who had fallen honorably from grace, and has even now been deserted by a man she is engaged would support her.

"Buck" will probably be called on in Chicago by some of his carpenter friends from this city unless he settles with them at a very early date.

Port Omaha Notes. Major Baker, the paymaster of this department paid off the troops at the garrison Tuesday. Wednesday he arrived at Bellevue and at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon while engaged in giving the men their dues, "fire-call" was sounded. Naturally it threw the whole camp into a state of wild excitement. A few minutes after the call was sounded a great number of men had arrived at the burning tent, which happened to be that of Major Edmund Butler's, the

DR. WILLIAMS' ADMIRER. He Believes the Doctor to Be the Prince of Darkness. On Saturday afternoon Dr. Williams, whose office is on the corner of Tenth and Hickory streets, served out a warrant against one "John Doe," an unknown man who has been loitering about his premises and who has, on several occasions, attacked him. On examination it was ascertained that the man was crazy. He is a poor Slavonian who came to this country about a year ago and was employed on a gravel train at South Omaha. By an unfortunate accident he had his toes mashed while so employed and was confined to his bed for several weeks. When able to get up he hired a pair of shysters to get him damages from the railroad company. They secured a judgment of $100, but tried to swindle the poor man, pretending that they had not got out $50, and would keep $30 for their services. By the intervention of a well-known citizen who got on to their schemes, they had to shell out and return to their client $70. The latter has since been unable to get work, as his foot is not healed up, and he can do no heavy work. He made several applications to the railroad company for some relief, but was unsuccessful. His family is in the old country and looked to him for support, but he could of course not send them anything, having himself a load of debt for board to carry. All this weighed heavily on his mind and finally made him crazy. He imagines that Dr. Williams is a devil, and that he is the cause of all his suffering and misfortune and that he must kill him. The poor fellow, whose name is Mike Filipech (also called Philip), was taken to the county jail and will be examined by the insane commission.

RAPID TRANSIT. The Scheme to Connect With Street Track the Two Omahas.

The ordinance which was passed Wednesday night by the council providing for the submission to the people of the question of allowing a street car track to be laid between South Omaha and this city is considered one of the most important ordinances which has been passed by that body. As such, it has been opposed in a most remarkable manner and it is said and, indeed, it has been almost apparent, that the railroad men in the council have attempted to kill it. The requisite majority, however, was secured and the ordinance was passed. Speaking with P. E. Her on the news of Omaha a Bee reporter, without referring to all the subject of the ordinance, gave the following expression of opinion: "What Omaha now wants is rapid transit between this city and South Omaha."
