Will Central Law's Election.

GAMBLER, Ia., Nov. 30.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—On Monday papers will be prepared for a contest over the election of John Law as representative of the Eighty-fifth district. The state democratic central committee have engaged the services of J. H. Cummings of Des Moines, who is now investigating the matter. The case will probably be great interest throughout the state, as in case of Law's defeat it will give the democrats a majority in the legislature and elect them a speaker.

A Disappointment in a Roomer.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 30.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—The railroad commissioners filed their report with the governor today. It is generally regarded as the poorest report that they have filed from its lack of interesting information. The railroad companies have kept back much information that in other years they have furnished. A few months ago Governor Larrabee told the commission that the railroad companies had not furnished the information this year, and the railroads were not pleased at the demand and so gave less than usual.
