

ARCHITECT MEYERS INDICTED

Crookedness Charged in Connection With the Hospital Job.

THE MATTER KEPT VERY QUIET.

A Probability That He Will Be Allowed to Give Bonds for His Appearance When Wanted.

Indicted on Two Counts.

E. E. Meyers, the architect of the new county hospital, who has figured so conspicuously in public print on account of his prominent connection with that big job, was indicted by the grand jury on two counts of high misdemeanor in connection with that work.

The indictment has been kept a profound secret up to the present time, so far as the public was concerned, and several of the court officials have even gone so far as to deny that the indictment existed. When, however, one of them was last night confronted with facts sufficient to show him that a tax reporter knew beyond all question that the indictment existed, the official admitted fully and completely that such was the case, and told all he knew about it—which was everything.

The indictment against Meyers was found by the grand jury which commenced its deliberations at the beginning of the last September term of court, and continued to sit until the first of October. It will be recalled that contractors Jerry Ryan and Charles L. Wundt were indicted, the former for bribery of the county commissioners O'Keefe and Mount, and the latter for trying to bribe O'Keefe, all in connection with the hospital work.

It seems that Meyers, who is the architect of the hospital, was returned, his attorneys in this case got wind of it and communicated their suspicions to him. This started the grand jury on the matter and it continued a secret. A little while ago it was accused upon the part of the authorities and counsel for Meyers that the latter would come from his home in Detroit, and give himself up without making requisition proceedings necessary, he would be allowed to give bonds for his appearance and then return home.

In this manner it was thought that the existence of an indictment might be kept from the public temporarily at least, and possibly forever. Even after this understanding had been reached, it seems that Meyers feared trusting himself to the custody of the grand jury, for it is a fact that it required six or eight very pointed pointed telegrams to bring him.

He finally decided to come, however, and arrived here early yesterday morning, but instead of going to the Paxton hotel, as he has invariably done on his previous trips to Omaha, he went to a private residence. Whether or not the warrant was served upon him could not be ascertained. This much was known, however, that at 12 o'clock last night the official had seen nothing either of Meyers or the business man.

"I," said the official in question, "Meyers attempts to elude arrest and get out of town on account of his apprehensions, but as he has no money to pay for his travel, I shall chase him down and bring him back with a suddenness that will perhaps prove somewhat surprising to him."

The indictment charges Meyers with high misdemeanor on two counts. The first charges that he permitted the use of the smaller time in the building of the specifications called for, and the second count is that he allowed a very much inferior class of brick to be used in the construction of the south division, that the specifications called for.

BUCKET SHOP QUOTATIONS.

Colonel Clowry of the Western Union Says They Cannot Be Stopped. Colonel Clowry, western superintendent of the Western Union telegraph company's line, is visiting General Eastabrook, the father of Mrs. Clowry. He arrived Friday in company with Superintendent Dickey after an extended trip through the southwest, including the Colorado and Texas.

Mr. Clowry reports the business of the company in the southwest districts in good condition, and says that the volume of business is rapidly increasing. In reply to a question as to the action of the board of trade in Chicago with reference to that light that has been going on at intervals for some time, he says that he has no objection against the board to prevent them from depriving the bucket shops of the quotations. This injunction was modified a few days ago, allowing the board to cut off the quotations, but restraining them from cutting off the quotations to outside parties unless they furnish them to everyone who wants them.

After the first of the month the board will cut off the quotations, but large persons can get these figures will be by means of private messages. All our wires will be cut off on the first of the month, and the volume of private messages will be largely increased. "I don't suppose they will succeed in depriving the bucket shops of the quotations, but they have tried the same thing before, but the bucket shops managed to get them just the same. This has been done in several ways, the first being to have the bucket shops, or some member of the board may supply the bucket shops by means of private messages. Some members of the board are largely interested in bucket shops, and they supply them for that reason. Besides that, the bucket shops place a large amount of business on the board, and some of the members to keep this trade."

"What do you think of the idea of a government telegraph?" "I don't think it would be a success. In the first place, the government could not run a large system of telegraph except at a great loss; the price of the service could not be put at a rate which would insure a large patronage except by running it at the expense of the taxpayer. Moreover, the government is not a business man, and it requires the most careful management to keep the expenses within the limits. I don't believe there is a private corporation in the country that runs a telegraph business every day for losses caused by mistakes in transmission, which are bound to occur. With a government system there would be no such mistakes."

"I am greatly pleased with the business of the Omaha office," continued Colonel Clowry. "The business for the month of March is the largest we have had in a month since the office has been established, notwithstanding that a large reduction has been made in the rates within the last year or two."

THE TERRIFIC SPEED OF A UNION PACIFIC

The Emma Juch Opera Company Played in Sait Lake City the Other Night and Was Labeled to Sing in Cheyenne the Next Night.

The train was equipped with a 220 mile an hour engine, and Cheyenne in sixteen hours. This was maintained up to Green River, where it was learned that two miles ahead the regular east-bound passenger train and a freight train were in collision. The freight train was wrecked, and the passenger train was delayed for several hours. The Emma Juch Opera Company played in Sait Lake City the other night and was labeled to sing in Cheyenne the next night.

The Democratic Convention. If an argument, convincing and conclusive, were needed for annexation, the democratic city convention held yesterday afternoon furnished that argument. The proceedings were in strange contrast with the harmony that prevailed at the citizens' convention the day before. The state was made up of before the convention assembled and it went through nearly as predicted in last night's Hrs. There were some changes though, and the changes caused disappointment in some quarters.

The "touching committee" performed excellent duty. And for an energetic touching committee give us the South Omaha production. The twenty delegates named in last night's Hrs. were in their seats at 7:30. When the meeting opened, the proceedings by rapping the gathering to order as a member of the city central committee. It was well and good, for before it was over they had fired him out of the party.

William B. Haley was made chairman and John D. Sloan was made secretary. A motion to change the name of the club was about to be made when the meeting adjourned.

City Notes and Personal. John Forney is back from Chicago. Jeremiah Dunn has gone to Chicago. J. W. Brown of the Armour house has gone to Chicago.

Miss Hallie Squier is visiting her sister, Miss Flora Squier. Miss Flora Hess of Papillon is the guest of Miss Clara Davis.

Hand ball games will be played at Con-Club. The popular game will be played at the stock yards railroad office.

Sherm Canfield has returned to his post at the stock yards railroad office. There will be held a children's concert at the Presbyterian church tonight.

The trial of Judge Holsley took up the hearing of the men charged with keeping gambling establishments yesterday afternoon. These are the names of the men charged with keeping such great quantities of gambling fixtures some ten days ago.

The case of Sam Roberts as the keeper in rooms Nos. 14 and 28 of the St. Clair European hotel, southeast corner of Thirteenth and Dodge streets, was the first considered. The information charges him with keeping gambling devices in Douglas county, while the search warrant particularly specified the rooms in Douglas county.

William Spelman died yesterday. He was 53 years of age and leaves a wife and five children. The funeral will be held at 11 a. m. and will be conducted by Healey & Healey. Interment will be at St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Hancock will preach in the evening at the Methodist church in Albright block as follows: Sermon at 11 o'clock a. m.; subject, "The Cheerful Giver." Sermon at 7 p. m.; subject, "The Christian's Duty." There will be no Sunday school.

There will be services at the Methodist church today as follows: Sunday school at 9:45 and preaching at 11 a. m., followed by the Epworth League meeting at 6:30 and preaching at 7:30. Subject, "Function of Law."

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA. The most important event at the theaters this week will be the "Faust" performance by the Emma Juch Grand English Opera company at Hoyt's tomorrow evening. The event will be of special interest inasmuch as it is the first appearance in this city of the organization to which Miss Juch has lent her name.

Although this is the first season of the Juch company, it has enjoyed a most successful season of unexampled prosperity and artistic success. The present tour, which began in Philadelphia in October last and has six weeks to run, has been a most successful one. The series of triumphs and ovations for Miss Juch and her singers. In every city where their admirers' performances have been given, the public have been so much pleased to realize their estimable qualities, and accord to Miss Juch and her artists the most liberal patronage, that it has been quite safe to predict that their reception in this city tomorrow evening will be an extremely cordial one. The cast and artists who are to participate in the performance will be as follows: Faust, Charles Hedemont; Valentine, Giovanni Tagliapietra; Mephistopheles, Franz Yetta; Branter, E. C. Siebel; Liza, Marie Machetti; Maria, Susie Leonard; Marguerite, Emma Juch.

Miss Juch's ideal impersonation of Marguerite has been a most successful one. The public of this city. Nature has endowed her with face and figure that compare favorably with one's preconceived ideas of the character of Goethe's heroine. Her beautiful, pure, sweet, sympathetic voice exquisitely expresses the music with which Goethe's genius has enriched the character. Her song, which has been heard previously for the past two days indicates a large and fashionable audience in attendance at the performance.

This evening Hoyt's "A Bunch of Keys" will be seen at the Grand. This is the first performance of the company since their first success. For years this has been a standard comedy, always sure of being well received, and each year brighter and more successful. The company, which has been authorized to play this piece, is the one to be seen this evening. The company contains the best talent of the city, and is carried on by the last four seasons, Miss Ada Bothner as Teddy, Mr. Charles Burke as Snags, and Charles Stanley as Gully. The entire cast is excellent, and the company is the best that has been seen in Omaha for some time.

The Merchants' Carnival. The Merchants' carnival, with all its beautiful and unique features, was produced at Exposition hall again last evening. A large number of delighted spectators witnessed the splendid drills and other exercises, the attendance being better than it was the previous evening. The program was a most successful one, with the exception of the drill by the Omaha Guards. The evolutions of this finely drilled company of young men were greeted with a most enthusiastic and frequent burst of applause.

The great event of the evening was the drill by the Ladies, queens and nymphs of the Omaha city. The beauty of face and gown, the glitter of trappings, and the grace of the fair ladies themselves made a splendid and beautiful spectacle that one who was not present would expect to see outside of fairyland.

Real Estate Exchange. A letter from an eastern firm employing 100 men asking for advantages of location in Omaha was read at the Real Estate exchange meeting yesterday. The list was as follows: Park Place, lots, blk. 4, 10 room house, $15,000; Park Place, lot 6, blk. 6, 5 room house, $15,000; Park Place, lot 4, blk. 1, $3,000; Ludwick Place, lot 4, 8,000; Hagadorn, lot 10, blk. 1, $2,000; and 101 1/2 Broadway, lot 10, blk. 1, $2,000.

By the Potter Glass Company: Parcel of land in sec. 9, 15, 16, for $1,000, and lot 21, blk. 1, for $1,000. By Hyman & Carmichael: Lot 25, blk. 11, Brigs Place, for $1,800, and lot 2, blk. 5, Brigs Place, for $1,800. By Hyman & Carmichael: Lot 12 and 13, blk. 5, Highland Place, for $9,000.

Siebel; Liza, Marie Machetti; Maria, Susie Leonard; Marguerite, Emma Juch.

Miss Juch's ideal impersonation of Marguerite has been a most successful one. The public of this city. Nature has endowed her with face and figure that compare favorably with one's preconceived ideas of the character of Goethe's heroine. Her beautiful, pure, sweet, sympathetic voice exquisitely expresses the music with which Goethe's genius has enriched the character. Her song, which has been heard previously for the past two days indicates a large and fashionable audience in attendance at the performance.

This evening Hoyt's "A Bunch of Keys" will be seen at the Grand. This is the first performance of the company since their first success. For years this has been a standard comedy, always sure of being well received, and each year brighter and more successful. The company, which has been authorized to play this piece, is the one to be seen this evening. The company contains the best talent of the city, and is carried on by the last four seasons, Miss Ada Bothner as Teddy, Mr. Charles Burke as Snags, and Charles Stanley as Gully. The entire cast is excellent, and the company is the best that has been seen in Omaha for some time.
