Just before the game the two teams, headed by the Musical Union band, paraded the principal thoroughfares in carriages and the small boy and the veteran crank were in their glory.

All the conditions were for a fine game and a great crowd, and, while the day panned out, the crowd failed to come to time. Perchance they suspected that Sloux City had it in for us and they concluded to wait until today to see us when up the green award with their robust forms. However, the attendance was of very respectable dimensions, there probably being twenty-five hundred enthusiasts packed packed upon the bleachers and scattered through the grand stand. The spectators were first aroused by the sweet strains of McGinty reveling among the cod-fish at the bottom of the sea, from the band, as the players marched upon the scene of baitle. They were given a hearty burst of welcome, and immediately broke ranks and began to toy with the ball in preliminary ment for Oklahoma.

WASHINGTON BUREAU THE OMAHA BEE,] 513 FOURTEENTH STREET, WASHINGTON, D. C., April 26.

There has apparently been an entirely unnecessary degree of apprehension in many quarters as to the danger of an enactment of an odious and tyrannical federal election law. It is true that Mr. Lodge has introduced a bill for a federal, election law in the house and Senator Hoar a similar one in the senate, but it is daily; becoming more evident that Mr. Lodge has not the entire concurrence of his republican colleagues on the subject, and there is quite a large number of republicans who are averse to any legislation such as is proposed by the Lodge bill. Judge Rowell, the chairman of the elections committee, and Mr. Bowden of Virginia are among the foremost opponents of the bill. When the bill came up in caucus last Wednesday night Mr. Rowell took decided ground against it. Mr. Bowden also made a strong fight, and on his motion a special committee was appointed which, with the republicans on the Lodge committee, were to canvass the entire subject and to prepare a bill for the house. The special committee consisted of Messrs. Reed, Bowden, Houk, Payne and Morrow. The first meeting of the committee was held this morning, there being present Messes, Lödge, Henderson of Iowa, Stewart of Vermont, Rowell, Hougen, Frank and Sinyser, members of the regular commit-tee on election of president and members of congress, and all the members of the special committee, except Mr. Rees. Mr. McComas, who is a member of the Lodge committee, was absent from the city. The session of the com-mittee was long and at times the debate was spirited. Mr. Lodge made an earnest argument in favor of his bill in order that the machinery of election might be taken out of the hands of the states and so enable the federal govern-ment to regulate the election of the members of Congress. He was supported by Messrs' Houk, Smyser and others.

Messrs, Rowell, Bowden and Frank were equally earnest against the adoption of the Lodge bill. They favored a reasonable ex-tension of the present federal supervision system and took the ground that the passage of a upperdiction of the tension of the tension of the tension of the present federal supervision a general election law would work hardships in many states where no one has ever claimed that there was anything but a free ballot. They believed that a judicious exten-sion of the present law was practically all very fast. that was needed in the south.

was thrown out at first by Kappell. In their half the Corn Huskers indulged in one of their little characteristic saturnalias. It went this way:

Genins drove one with O'Hooligan's on it to Cleveland, and of course Cleveland fired the ball to Andrews and put him out. Then Dad Clarke undertook to discover how near he could come to the plate without put-ting 'em over it, and 'Crossley was rewarded with the first and only base on balls given during the entire contest. But that was bad enough right here. Devlin, however, anotherated the status of things by forcing the slender catcher out at second and it looked as if no runs would come in after all. But right here at this superlatively critical time Joe Walsh made an error big enough to carry the hod by letting an easy one go through and Devlin ambled around to second and Chimpanzee Cline perched upon first. Then Mr. Robert Black smashed one of Clarke's feelers way out to the carriage gate and three runs came straggling in like the tail of a comet across the plate. That's what makes the Omahas despise a saturnalia. Of course the next man went out, but there

Of course the next man went out, but there it was, staring everybody in the face from the bulletin board: Sioux City 3, Omaha 1. In the next inning Cleveland led off with a pretty single, Strauss went out to Cline, and Walsh was doubled up with Elmer on his fungo to Brosnan, who, with the help of Hanrahan and Powell, executed a neat double play. double play

Although Hanrahan made a bit, the visi-Attrough Habrana state a hit, the visi-tors' side was unproductive. It was three and out quicker'n you could say scat for Omaha in the fifth, but the Corn Huskers gathered in a couple of more tallies just as a sort of a clincher.

Crossley made a two-barger. Devlin was tossed out by Walsh, who made another eighty-ton blunder on Cline's casy one, and the mischief was done. Crossley went to second on the error, and to third on Black's. out. Kearn's error allowed Cline to reach second and both runners scored on Kappell's single. Walsh threw Powell out.

Sioux City 5, Omaha I. In the sixth Canavan slugled, stole second by a great slide, want to third on Kearn's out and scored on Genin's muff of Cleveland's high fly. But that was all that could be done, because Strauss out refired the side. The Corn Huskers drew a blank, as did Omaha in the seventh, although Clarke knocked out a two-barger. Again was it a goose ogg for Sioux Cuy. e egg for Sioux City. The eighth Omaha got her third and last rm. After Canavan had been retired Kearns drove the ball to left center for two cushions, and then after Andrews had been thrown but, second on Cleveland's second safe derve. Three Buildings Burned.

DAROTA CITY, Neb., April 26.-[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-Three buildings were burned last night in Jackson, a small town ten miles from here-the office of the Jackson Criterion, a dwelling house belonging to George Cassell, and an old warehouse belonging to Mr. Tracy. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. The Criterion office was burned to the ground and its proprietor. William T. Bartlett, dangerously burned in his efforts to put out the fire. While fighting the fire he inhaled considerable smoke and besides was burned about the head and arms to such an extent that his recovery is doubt-ful. The buildings were partially insured.

has ample warning of its approach. Secretary Hester of the cotton exchange, in reply to a dispatch from the cotton exchange at Norfolk, Va., says: "There is not now nor is there likely to be the slightest danger to New Orleans from the high water in the Mississippi river." A Baton Rouge special says Captain Kingman, United States engineer in charge of this district, arcived here this morning from Morgansen. In speaking of the Morgansen break he said it was caused by water wash-ing over the top and carrying off the sacks of earth and lumber with which the old levee had been raised. The captain said that from New Texas down to Waterboo the whole country was under water.

west, Huron district. In the case of Matilda J. Foster, wherein the commissioner suspended her entry, hold-ing that proof was not satisfactory, the as-sistant secretary reversed his decision. The commissioner in deciding that proof was un-satisfactory notified the claimant that she would be required to make new and satisfac-tors decision and the stand would be required to make new and satisfac-tory proof before patent could be issued. The entryman on account of sickness and poyerty could not comply with the commis-sioner's order, and asked that the original proof be accepted. The commis-sioner, however, adhered to his decis-ion. The assistant secretary held that sickness and poyerty should be held as sufficient excuse for failure to make new proofs, that it is evident she went upon the land intending to make it her home and that her inability on account of ill health and poyher inability on account of ill health and pov-erty to meet the requirements of the commis-sioner should not be charged against her.
