Some Points-Where Several of the Boys Were Last Week-As to a Cocktail-More About That Mileage Ticket.

Died-In the same room where it was born, amid the first wintry portion of A. D. 1890, the Omaha Traveling Men's club, only child of 600 should-have-been beloved and tenderest foster parents in the persons of traveling men. Cause of death, neglect on the part of 560 of its should-have-been foster friends. Deceased left an estate valued at about $650 in spot cash, which will be equitably divided among those who, during the high noon of its perspective, knew it only to love it and tried with all their power to make its life anothing and the set of its life a rattling success. Often happens it that the brightest flower withers the soonest; the rarer the fruit, the more rapid its decay; the more tranquil the the likelier the evelone; the better the little boy, the more brilliantly certain is he of speedy adoption by the great reaper whose name is Death.

And these allvery whiskered bits of ex-aggregation have been verified all over again. The move for an Omaha traveling men's club, which started some three months ago and recently culminated in so truly hopeful a manner, is today in the same condition that the dust was after being kissed by the rain. Its name is mud!

child has been ailing for nearty a month and there was a prospect that it would continue alling indefinitely. A proclamation was issued by President Lobeck calling for a consultation of its progenitors. That consul-tation was had last Saturday night in the parlors of the Hotel Casey. There was a fine pointed, a bare quorum present. After much discussion, it was decided to smother the little one and thus sive its friends fur-ther anxiety. It was so awkward, you know, for many of those who were in at the bornin' to have to forego the pleasure of losing a "flver" or "tenner" at high five a night or two a month just to sit up with the Fifty-four traveling men and twenty-two jobbing firms who pledged themselves black and white to heartly aid and in every way pletely back on that pledge. As a result, the club failed to get $543 which the officers thought was as good as wheat. It was sug-gested, and even strongly urged, at last Saturday night's funeral, that the names of these gentlemen be published. The suggestion was pushed by two directors of the club. Cooler adgment prevailed, however. Any free orn American cititizen-or a Hottentot for that matter—is at liberty to go back on a little affair of $8 or $12 if he desires. In other words, it is nobody's business if an Omaha traveling man or jobber takes a notion to whoop 'er up and get his name in the paper as red-hotly in favor of having a club, and then when it comes to a show down, to give the thing the double cross.

To the lasting and great credit of the officers of the now cold and clammy Omaha Traveling Men's club, it can only and ever be said that they worked like horses to make the very plausible venture a magnificent success. Abundant proof of this is found in the fact they that at the time of its decease the club had a paid up membership of forty traveling men and forty-one jobbers and $67 in its treasury to disband and disburse. That there will be a phoenix addenda to this unfortunate affair is believed. A pros-perous club is desirable, not simply to pro-vide a comfortably furnished reading, lounging and card-playing suite of apartments, but for the purpose of placing the 600 gentlemen who travel out of Omaha in a position to stand for, demand and secure privileges such as now are denied them simply because they are now banded together in no way, shape or manner as Omaha traveling men. A strong, thoroughgoing organization will probably spring from the affair which is now a thing of the past. Such an organization could say to those who now make a practice of imposing upon traveling men in a hundred various and well known ways: "Let up on this thing or we will take a way the rationance of wars travel Salt Lake. will take away the patronage of every travel-ing man who enters your town." There are several items of legislation that the traveling state business men's association, which will state business men's association, which will be held in Omaha May 20, 21 and 22, is re-ceiving very flattering encouragement. The committee on arrangements consists of G. C. Benawa, N. R. McCloud, Lewis Heimrod, John Hussie and R. F. Hodgin. Some forty Omaha jobbers have volunteered their serv-lees in connection with the matter of enter-taneoust.

GOD IS LOVE. Subject of Rev. Detweiler's Farewell Sermon Last Night,

The subject of Rev. Detweiler's farewell ermon at Kountze Memorial church last night was, "God is Love." To begin with, It is impossible for us to comprehend the time when first God began to love man. If for a moment we stop to consider, it takes us back to long before the time when Adam and Eve found their home in the garden of Eden. It was ages and ages before man was created, spring, and farmers say the ground never has been in such fine condition as at this time. 'How much does God love us!" Think the love of the father who tenderly cares for his children and watches them during their tender years; the mother who presses her little, shapely first-born to her bosom and covers it with kisses; the bridegroom who goes out into the world with the woman of his choice, and you have a love that is great, but even it falls far short of the love of God for

There is a pretty tradition that the man who pierced Christ's side with a spear, and the men who drove nails through his feet, were afterwards converted and saved. Do you think this was too much! If any prayer was ever answered, do you not think that of our Savior would be when he said, If any

Business Looking Up at Ord.

ORD. Neb., April 25.-[Special to THE BEE.]-With the advance of the season business is improving and a good deal of building is going on in and around Ord. Since spring opened Ord lumber yards have sold over two hundred thousand feet of lumber. Her stockmen have also shipped over the Union Pacific and B. & M. lines sixty-four car loads of stock. Scarcely a week passes but loads of stock. Scarcely a week passes but two or three special stock trains pull out of Ord depot for Omaha. The Union Pacific has had to double the capacity of its stock yurds to accommodate the increasing busi-ness. The deposits in the banks are steadily ness. The deposits in the banks are steadily increasing. There is now over $115,000 on hand. Ord's postoffice is a presidential office with a salary of $1,400 per year. The last quarter's business was the heaviest in the history of the office and it is steadily increasing year by year. It at present yields a yearly revenue of $3,000 to the government. At the last city election Ord polled 287 votes, and the city has on its school roll 425 scholars. The Way Type Writer company has filed mitiday of inverse the company has filed articles of incorporation, with a capital stock articles of incorporation, with a capital stock of $40,000. The incorporators are all citizens of Ord. The machine is new in principle, and can be used either for letter writing or for writing on books. NORTH BESD, Neb., April 26 .- [Special to THE BEE.]-Messrs, York & Thomas of Indiana are here to commence work on the new flouring mill. They propose to make a beginning immediately and this will give work to several men, both with and without teams. North Bend is as lively as the average Ne-braska town and her classens propose to make a good showing this summer. A large city hall and waterworks are now being discussed.

NEBRASKA CITY, Nebs. April 27.-[Special to THE BEE.]-The Union Bridge company of New York has submitted to the city a proposition to erect and maintain the proposed high wagon bridge across the Missouri river for a cash bonus of $50,000. Phis makes the fourth proposition received. The Phœnix company asks $100,000 bonus, while the King Bridge company has not yet decided upon the amount to ask for. Colonel S. T. Stewart, "the river horse," offers to put in a crib bridge for a bonus of $25,000. The latter is out with a circular frgument in favor of his proposition, in which he says:

"Six factories, I believe, go with the Wat-son bridge. I throw in nine with the crib bridge, and among these are a corset factory, a toy factory, soap factory, limburger cheese factory and branch works of Mrs. Winslow's factory and bratch works of Mrs. Winslow's southing syrup. These will supply wants that many of you'r citizeus have long feit. The president of the limburger company tele-graphs me that they agree to store their sur-plus stock five miles from town. I have my-self, at the carnest solicitation of many citi-zens, accepted the presidency of the toy com-pany. The chief engineer writes me that they will bring to your town and employ tweaty young ladies, nearly all beauties, ten blondes and ten bruncttes, assorted sizes. The factory

He related his experience during a trip to Europe, and the many things which had come under his notice, bearing upon the question of the instruction of deaf mutes. The sermon was short, but it was filled from beginning to end with word paintings, all bearing upon the affliction under which he and a part of his audience were laboring. Applications in a religious sense, were made of all the cir-cumstances and details, and the sermon concluded with an appeal to the congregation to accept of the true faith as outlined.

Rev. Martin's Farewell.

The Rev. A. Martin of the First Christian church preached his farewell sermon yesterday morning, preparatory to his departure to other fields. The subject chosen was "Fo the Church." Under this head the speaker gave his congregation good sound advice on their course toward the church and the best way to further its interests He said they should by all means pray for the church and endeavor by every means in their power to advance it. They should also pay money towards the support of the church. There were three classes, he said, who never pay towards the support of their church-those who are unable to do so; those who refuse to promise, and those who those who refuse to promise, and those who promise but won't pay. All these classes should be brought to the proper appreciation of the need of their support for the church. Another way of bringing the church forward, he said, was to talk about it and about the pastor. They should be made the subject of conversation and brought into pub-lic notice. Above all things, the members of the church should attend regularly. A large the church should attend regularly. A large attendance spoke louder in favor of the church than anything else which could be done. It was necessary, he said in conclusion, that the members be united and harmonious. Much could be done if all worked together but dissensions and bickering could only re-sult disastronsly. Mr. Martin leaves this morning for Des Moines and will deliver a lecture at Drake university. From there he will ge to several points in Illinois and lecture. During the greater part of May he will be engaged in holding revival meetings at Warsaw, Ind. He has not yet decided where he will locate per manently

AN EATING SORE

Henderson, Tex., Ang. 33, 1939 .- "For eighteen months I had an eating sore on my tonges. I was treated by the best local physicians, but obtained no relief, the sore gradually growing worse, I concluded flually to try S. S. S., and was entirely cured after using a few bottles. You have my cheerful permission to publish the above statement for the benefit of these similarly afflicted." C. B. McLEMORE, Henderson, Tex.
