Bankers Report Money Plentiful and Deposit Clearances Increasing-General Trade in Dry Goods

and Boots and Shoes Quiet.

Mr. Hughes, manager of the clearing house for the associated banks of Omaha, reports the clearings for the week as footing $5,250,046.62, an increase of 23 3-10 per cent. Balances footed $906,090,08. The clearings for the first six months of 1890 (estimated June 30 at $1,000,000), footed $123,750,763 against 897,660,547 for the first six months of 1809, an increase of 25 6-10 per cent, and as this percentage of increase in the clearings is about the same as merchants report their balance sheets as showing on an average. It is very evident that the past six months has been a prosperous and satisfactory period to the mercantile com-

Bankers report money plentiful and deposit balances increasing, and say there is a fair demand for loanable funds, with rates firm at 8 per cent. Exchange is in sufficient supply. The general trade in dry goods and boots and shoes is somewhat quiet, but there is a lively The general trade in dry goods and boots and shoes is somewhat quiet, but there is a lively demand for hardware, and Jobbers in that line say trade is unprecedented for this senson of the year. The clothing trade is rather dull, but in groceries and notions there is a liberal movement and jobbers are fairly busy. Collections are said to be good in most lines and there are very few failures reported, and those are for small amounts. It is doubtful if the wholesalers of Omaha have had a more satisfactory spring senson for many years than that just past.

Prices rule steady, with the exception perhaps of sugars, which are demoralized and inclined to go lower, but the trust may conclude to put them up instead of down, and as it possesses the power none but a mind reader with facilities for an interview with the chief manipulator can tell what prices will be from day to day. The decision of the New York court of appeals against the sugar trust naturally attracted considerable attention in commercial circles. "Two principles are involved in the decision," said General Pryor of the counsel for the people.

"First, all combinations tending to limit production or enhance prices are illegal; and second, by becoming a party to such a combination, a corporation forfeits its charter." The officers of the trust say that the decision means that as present constituted the trust is not a legal body and that they will take im-

First, all combinations tending to limit production or enhance prices are illegal; and second, by becoming a party to such a combination, a corporation forfeits its charter." The officers of the trust say that the decision means that as present constituted the trust is not a legal body and that they will take immediate steps to legalize their organization. The strike of the Illinois Central railway employes has been happily settled though at one time it was feared it would extend throughout the entire system, in which case much inconvenience would resulted to Omaha merchants as this road and its connections handles three-fourths of the southern fruits and vezetables received here at this season.

Retail trade is only fair, the intense heat of the past week serving to keep shoppers at home, still dealers do not complain, but say that business is better than it was a year ago. The city trade is done under different conditions in Omaha than even one year since. It is more concentrated and is in the hands of a dozen or fifteen large department stores which are enabled by handling large quantities of merchandise, at a minimum of expense, under the more thorough system and better tonnagement procurable undersell the smaller, dealers and present inducements in variety and prices which the old fashloned retailer can not meet and consequently suffers from and abnors as illegitimate competition, but it has evidently came to stay.

The foreign and Pacific dried fruit market is thus characterized by the New York Commercial Builletin: "The market is without important change today. Orders for general goods do not eome forward with the freedom that was anticipated for this period, but for some lines rather greater interest is manifested, and importers and dealers live in the hope that a more spirited demand was anticipated for this period, but for some lines rather greater interest is manifested, and importers and dealers live in the hope that a more spirited demand that was an increased inquiry today, with sales repared as t change of importance; inquiries are influed, but previous values in most instances are well sustained."

Green fruits are in active demand at higher prices and still higher figures are looked to rule for lemons and oranges.

The census returns for Omaha are known with sufficient accuracy to warrant the claim that the population is 155,000, nearly, an increase since 1880 of 353½ per cent, and fully up to the most sanguine estimates of conservative local authorities. In 1880 Omaha had 30,518 people, and stood sixty-fourth in the list of cities as to population, while the present census will place her twenty-third, and the industrial and commercial grawth has been commensurate with that of the population. If the population of South Omaha and of the many suburban towns in the county be added, as has been done by Chicago and other eastern cities, Omaha's population will approximate 175,000 souls, and there is no doubt out what fully that number derive a livelihood from her industries.

The early depression did not last long as bears were as quick to buy on the decline as bulls. Among the best buyers of the forenoon were Cudaby, Linn and Kennett, all classed as bear houses. Linn was was a buyer in July. There was no pounding or raiding, but the apathy of the trade was in or raiding, but the apathy of the trade was in favor of lower prices. There was no Important news. Private cables were bullish. Liverpool closed lower for California futures. Pittsburg sent a bullish dispatch about bad weather causing unfavorable reports from Odessa. Dakota sent dispatches about the hot winds and "seorohing" wheat. New York cleared $4,500 bushels. On this news, and the buying referred to, prices recovered pretty quickly. July from 85c early railled to 85%c. August from 85%. A low point, rose to 85%c. September soid at 85%c early and up to 87c and December from 87%c to 88%c, thus putting ali months except July at better figures than at the close yesterday. Dispatches from the northwest to both buil and bear houses assuring them that the parching of the past two days has really damaged spring wheat gave rise to a firmer feeling before the close. Shortly before 1 o'clock a few good round lots were taken in the pit and in a few minutes' time prices moved up to 86c for July, 86%s for August, 87%s for September and 88%s for December. These figures showed an advance of le straight for all months over the bottom prices the first hour. The extreme heat 94°on the floor, checked what otherwise night have proved a rousing bull market. At the close wheat was at about the first prices: June 85%c, July 86c for seller, August 86%c, September 874c and December 884c.

The corn market was without outside influences to affect prices and local trade did little but attempt small scalping operations. The price of June was a shade under July and quoted at 34%s at the close. July 80d at 34%c and 34%c at the close, when there was an attempt to buy July, and there being none for sale there was a quick advance in the price for that month to 28c. August sold at 28%c and closed at 26%c. Hutchinson was a seller early. Provisions were extremely dull nil day. Inactivity led to weakness. Moss pork, with very little business, showed a decline of 39c from yesterday to $12.35 for July, Short ribs closed at yesterday to $12.35 for favor of lower prices. There was no important news. ## FINANCIAL.

New York, June 24 .- [Special Telegram to STOCKS-There was little fancwork done in Pullman stock this morning and after opening 1 point up at 210, it touched 218% and closed 9 per cent over yesterday at 218. This cut little figure with other stocks Dullness was still the most prominent feature, even trusts being quiet, and lead was the most active of them. The market presented a firm front, however, and the first prices, while somewhat irregular as compared with last night's figures, were generally from 1/4 to 1/4 per cent higher. Further fractional advances were scored over the entire list, while Sugar refineries rose 1 per cent to 71%, but professional pressure was then brought to bear upon the list and every-thing yielded under the lead of Chicago Gas thing yielded under the lead of Chicago Gas which again became active and decidedly weak. The succeeding deciline was generally sufficient to whee out the early gains and it dropped from 57% to 55% and Oregon Transcontinental from 46 to 45, but all other changes were fractional. The downward movement met with a sudden check and Chicago Gas met with a rally to 56%. Extreme guliness marked the remainder of the hour and at 11 o'clock the market was dull and stendy at about the opening prices. It was during the closing hour that the best strength was shown. Transcontinental rose to 46%, Atchison rose to 46%, but lost a fraction later: Rock Island rose I per cent over last night to 15% per cent. Much of the late improvement was due to the showing of the banks in their weekly statements. Reserves were increased altout $500,000, loans increased $1,303,000 and deposits ncreased $1,300,000. There was a perceptible firming of the market on the statements. eptible firming of the market on the state

A STREET-CAR PANTOMIME.

Singular Persons Who Talk Without

Saying Anything. You can see very fair pantomime in a

Broadway car any day, says the New York Times. The woman who stands on the sidewalk and sets her parasol to go-ing up and down like the walking beam of a steamer wants to stop the car. Everybody recognizes the sign. Then the woman who gets off the car with a fiery glance at the conductor and an aggressive shrug of the shoulders as she pulls her skirts out of the mud means, as plainly as if she said it, "You, out of the evil that is in your heart, have carried me a block too far. You should perish from the face of the earth. Why don't you?"

Similarly the man who sits down in a corner and sticks his feet where they will do the most tripping up means, "I am entitled to a lot of room and I mean to get it." But the other day there came a passenger who went way out of the usual run of pantomimists. He was thin and wild-looking, but well dressed. He took a seat on the sunny side of the car, and in a jiffy his arms were in motion. Apparently he was making a speech without words.

As the silent oration progressed the man grew excited. Turning to his neigh-bor at his left, he made him the subject of his discourse. He seemed to be pleading with him to reform his ways. The neighbor looked embarrassed; the other passengers suppressed smiles with more or less success. Then the man went on with his gestures, getting more and more excited. New and then he rose to his feet and stood until a jolt of the car sent him back to his seat. But he was getting to the end of his peroration, and suddenly, with a sweepng gesture, the speech was ended. The man sank back in his seat and pulled a eigarette from his pocket, while the satisfied look came over his face that one sees on the countenance of a bashful after-dinner orator when he hears the applause at the end of his address.

Just then a truck driver tried to cut across the track ahead of the car, and the driver of the latter vehicle put on his brakes with all his might. The car stopped suddenly and the shock brought the pantomimist to his senses. He rose hastily, mumbled something that sounded like an apology to his neighbor, and got out of the car with all possible The neighbor's expression was a choice blending of disgust and relief.
