Like most opening days, there was the usual hurrying to and fro, pitching of tents, arranging cots and gasoline stoves, asking questions, and the adjusting multifold preliminaries necessary to the dwellers in tents.

The day's programme had more than enough to satisfy those who could soare time from their canvas and kettles to enjoy any part of it. The attendance was much larger than on the opening day last year, and the in-dications are that the assembly will in all respects prove much more of a success than

Rev. Hubbell Tells His Domestic Troubles on a Street Corner.

HE DELIVERS AN INTERESTING ADDRESS.

New Owners for the Standard Street Railway Line-Awards Made by the Purchase and Supply Board.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 1 .- [Special to THE BEE. |- The morning papers contained a notice that Rev. Hubbell would deliver an address at Eleventh and O streets at 11 o'clock today. The wording of the notice was so peculiar that a Ber man, scenting an item, secured a front seat and was well rewarded for his roasting at the hands of the sun. The man is about forty-five years of age, and promptly at the hour named drove up in a buggy, from which forum he made probably the most peculiar address that has ever been heard in Lincoln. His text was apparently "Infidelity," and he made a personal application of it by stigmatizing his wife with unlawful conspiracy with V. H. Gibson, said to be her half-brother, but this relationship Hubbell vigorously denied. He prefaced his remarks with the statenent that there were times when it was a kindness for strangers to interfere in family natters, but he resented any intrusion in his He said his wife's affections had been alienated by Gibson. He said that Gibson had alienated Hubbell and his wife; that he would not allow the husband and wife to be together, and that they kept him (Hubbell) under guard and would search his pockets before they allowed him to enter the rooms. Upon this theme he descanted for over half an hour, and wound up his peroration by threatening to shoot Gibson. He also remarked that if Gibson wanted his heart's blood he could have it. He had been to attorneys to secure relief, but was told a judgment wouldn't be worth a cent. The old fellow was badly worked up over his trouble. and at times was quite wild in his denunciations of the man whom he says has destroyed his peace and broken up his home. Gibson was seen by a reporter, but he endeavored to have nothing said about it. as he claimed it would ruin him in business. He said that Hubbell was a crank, and his wife had supported herself for five years, three of which Hubbell had been with her. His re-lations with Mrs. Hubbell were only business ones, which was corroborated by Mr. Huff, who is also interested in the business. Mrs. Hubbell got into the hands of a pair of 3 per cent a month fellows some time since, and Gibson and Huff came to her rescue with funds. The business matters are still further complicated by the fact that Mrs. Alice Minick, one of the ladies who rooms in the hotel, which is conducted on the European plan, has filed a suit against Gibson, Huff and Mrs. Hubbell, charging them with entering into a conspiracy to defraud her of money by the latter's giving a mortgage to drs. Minick which was secondary to one old by Huff. The latter had agreed to proteet Mrs. Minick in the matter, but she claims that he unbeknown to her had the goods sold at a semi-private sale, at which he purchased them at a price just sufficient to cover his own mortgage. A gentleman connected with the courts, who was a roomer in the house for some time, says that he never noticed anything wrong with the conduct of Mrs. Hubbell and Mr. Gibson, and that the latter was introduced to him as a brother of the former. The case is a queer one and it is difficult to say whether Gibson is the victim of an insane delusion or the devastator of Hubbell's fireside. However that may be, he is a badly scared man and so nervous that he could with difficulty speak. A STREET BAILWAY DEAL.

The deal by which Brown Brothers became the owners of the Standard street railway line was completed today, the consideration being $60,000. The road extends from Eleventh and P streets to the Wesleyan university and is eight miles in length. The new owners are also interested largely in the North Lincoln electric line now being built, and it is said on good authority that electricity will be the will be extended to Havelock in the near future.

STATE HOUSE NEWS,

Mr. E. E. Friar, ex-county clerk of Clay county, is reported as the probable successor to Dave Baumgardner, late recorder in the office of the secretary of state. The fire insurance company of the county of Philadelphia has flied its statement with Deputy Auditor Allan and in due course of time will be authorized to do business in this CITY NEWS AND NOTES. Mrs. James McMann, living at 1307 K street, was the victim of a sunstroke yester-day afternoon, which came near ending fatally. She was outside the house when overcome, and in the faint fell heavily against the side of the building, injuring her back. Her condition was serious this morning, but is now on the road to recovery. The supreme court this morning granted a suspension of sentence in the case of Chris-tian Furst, who was sentenced to be hung at Fremont July 25, for the murder of Carlos Pulsifer last December. The court will pass upon the case some time next month.

Among the cases argued before the supreme court this morning was the disbarment case against Breckenridge Brothers of Omaha, for alleged irregularity in the transfer of cases to the United States courts, where an attorney's fee must be paid for plaintiff by the defend-Henry Schmiersal, a farmer living near the

George Brown, who answers the description given by Martin Tye of Humboldt, who was confidenced out of $147, and Henry Harvey of Libertyville, Ill., who was done up for $30 by the same game, was arrested by the police today. He and two others were engaged in trying their wiles upon a verdant youth from the vicinity of Columbus, but the others appeared in convenient was the supposed in the columbus. thers succeeded in escaping by running. The Russell family, who have been living on the charity of Lincoln people for several weeks, were sent to Salt Lake City today. The head of the family deserted them about two months ago and lit out for the Utah capital with a younger woman. Russell was engaged in the commission business in this city but failed. He sent his family to his father in the northwestern part of the state but they tired of keeping them there and shipped them to Lincoln only to find that Russell had sloped. None of the family are possessed of enough wit, and were up before the insanity commission a few days ago.

Melissa C. Parks poured out her tale of woe to the district court today. She married John S. Parks seventeen years ago in Monte-John S. Parks seventeen years ago in Monte-zuma, Ia., but John loved the saloon more than he did his wife, and when he was at home he amused himself by beating his spouse. George W. Penn also remarks that his earthly happiness can only be completed by a divorce. His wife Amy has gone from his hearthstone, and her whereabouts are un-

Heinrich Kroger, Frank Slatter and John Schwab secured an injunction in the district court this morning preventing O. O. Hefner from disposing of $1,200 worth of notes of theirs he holds. They bought a stallion of Hefner two months ago, and by the terms of the trade Hefner guaranteed the horse to live three years, and prove valuable as a foal-getter. The horse utterly failed to carry out the latter part of the guarantee, and about two weeks ago laid down and died. The plaintiffs kick en paying for a dead horse.

The Lincoln lodge of Good Templars states in a petition filed in district court today that they are financially embarassed, and ask per mission to sell a lot on Ninth and K streets belonging to them, a gift from the state.
