Paving Contract Finished.

One of the biggest paving contracts in the history of the city was finished yesterday by J. E. Riley & Co., who reported same to the beard of public works.

The wind-up was from Bristel to Spaulding, on Thirtieth, the material being brick.
This gives a grand north and south stretch of paved street from Bristol street to Ames avenue, and completes the pavement to with-in half a mile of the fort.

The announcement that this work was completed was received with a great cherus of cheers and hat-throwing on the part of the members of the board.

PARCEL BOXES.

A New Feature in the Mail Accomme tions of the City.

Four boxes have been received at the postoffice for the mailing of large packages. These boxes are made of galvanized iron and are about four feet high and two feet square. The lid of the box may be raised up and has a contrivance in it similar to that on the top of the new letter boxes, by means of which a package may be put in at the top but cannot be reached after it has disappeared in the box. The boxes are painted a bright red and a legend in white letters proclaims that they are for packages only and not for letters.

The boxes will be placed at points in the business portion of the city, but the postoffice officials are in a quantary how to dispose of the mail matter which will be deposited in them. The office is short of collectors and these boxes will hold several hundred pounds

Messrs. J. L. Brandeis & Sons D. cide to Retire from Business Life.

"It is the unsuspected that always happens," says an old maxim, and never was ancient saying more thoroughly proven than in the announcement that J. L. Brandeis & Sons are about to retire from business. So successful has this firm been in their relations with the people of Omaha that their retirement was not even thought of.

A rumor was in circulation on the street Monday that this movement was contemplated on the part of the Messrs. Brandeis, but it could not be confirmed. Yesterday, however, the senior member of the firm confirmed the rumor, and stated that as soon as their stock could be disposed of, which will probably take from sixty to ninety,days, they will retire from business life. The Messrs. Brandels have amassed somewhat of a fortune during their business ca-reer here, and are, it appears, willing to rest on their well carned reputation as thorough business men, and leave the field to others who may follow. STRANGLED IN THE GRANARY.

In a Fit of Despondency Mermann of McArdie Ends His Life. A large number of friends and acquaintances were shocked yesterday to hear of the suicide of Comelius Mermann, a respected and well-to-do farmer of McArdle precinct, himself in his granary. The deceased was one of the most prosperous farmers in Douglas county, and had resided in McArdle precinct for twenty years. He had a very wide circle of acquain tances and was a very popular man.

His rash act is the result of despondency, which is attributed to an attack of the grip last winter which left him in poor health. It was not discovered until the family arose, when it was noticed that Mermann was

A search was at once instituted, and in a few minutes a daughter of the dead man found her father's dead body hanging in the granery. The body was cut down, and word granery. The body was cut down, and word was sent to this city.

The family had noticed for some time that Mermann was not in his normal mental con-to him.

He had stated on one or two occasions that he was liable to do something that the family did not expect and for which he would be sorry; yet, while it was supposed that he referred to the taking of his own life, no one investigation that he would be taking of his own life, no one magined that he really intended to carry such a move into effect.

It is evident, however, that he had meditated suicide for some time. He had been de-livering butter to customers. In this city, and when here last Saturday called on H. G. Harte, who has been a customer of his for

He inquired for Mr. Harte, stating that he wanted that gentleman to draw up his will. He was persuaded to put it off for a few days, Mr. Harte agreeing that, in the mean-time, he would draw up the document. Harte was engaged in this work this morning when ne heard of Mermann's death.

It seems that the deceased must have changed his mind, and concluded not to wait for Mr. Harte, as he went over to the residence of his nearest neighbor, James Walsh, Monday morning, accompanied by his wife, and told that neighbor that he wanted him to vitness his will.

Mr. Waish asked him if he knew what he was doing, if he was of sound mind and if he wanted to make that his last will and testa-

All of these questions were answered in the affirmative. Mr. Mermann appeared servous and a little excited, but was perfectly rational.
The will was brief, and was dated August 25, 1890. It had been drawn up that morning, apparently by one of the daughters of the deceased. It was very brief, and the substance was that the testator left all of his property to his wife.

The will was witnessed by Walsh and Charles Knowles, a farm hand. Merman immediately went home, but his wiferemained for a short time and talked about her husband's condition. She said that he was not well physically and see had been worrying about it a great deal. It seemed to prey upon his mind because he could not get out and work as he always had

He had agreed to take a vacation and see if ie could recover his health, and in the meantime would allow the boys to run the farm. Last spring he bought some horses of Mr. McShane and gave a note for $200 in part payment. This worried him greatly. He declared at times that they would come and take all his property because he could not pay the money. His winter's sickness and affected his brain and that was what caused his worry, as his financial affairs were not in a condition to create the least uncasiness.

Mermann owned two fine farms of 160 acres each, one in Jefferson precinct and the other in McArdie precinct upon which he lived. There was a mortgage of a few hundred del-lars on the farm in Jefferson precinct, but it is stated that the total indebtodness of the decrased would not exceed $1,000. Both his farms were finely stocked, and he was generally reputed to have been worth at least $50,000.

The deceased leaves a wife and seven child-The Remonstrance of the Labor Union ren, four sons and three daughters.

Mayor Cushing Thinks the Congress Should Visit Omaha.

Mayor Cushing is making a move to confer with President Martla of the board of trade with reference to extending the freedom of the city to the delegates to the national farmers' congress which opened a week's session yesterday in Council Bluffs.

The mayor's idea is to at least give the guests a lengthy carriage ride about the city. with possibly a luncheon at one of the leading hotels.

Nearly all of these visitors are legislators. retired furners with large means and who are pre-eminently representative men from all the various states in the union. In almost every instance those from the far east, south every instance those from the far east, south and west are paying their first visit to this locality and, judging from their many expressions as quoted in Tax Bex, are greatly surprised and exceedingly pleased with the few glimpses which they have had of our country.

Many Continuous and that he would in all

Mayor Cushing said that he would, in all probability, send a communication to the council suggesting that a committee be appointed to see that the guests were given a day's sight-seeing in Omaha. In this connection his honor referred to the necessity of the council making an annual appropriation for entertaining distinguished visitors. He considers it unfair that a few should be called upon to feet the bills that who ended his life Monday night by hanging should be called apon to foot the bills that are incurred to maintain the honor of and to advance the city.

It is his opinion, also, that such an appropriation would meet with the approval of all classes of preperty owners.

This plan is, he says, adopted in many of the principal cities, and works like a charm. He thinks that an annual appropriation of about $1,000 would be ample to emble the city to do herself proud upon all such occasions.

THE INTERSTATE EX OSITION It is Now Assured Will Be a Brilliant

Su ccess.

The Omaha exposition which proved such a big successlastfall, will bereafter be known as the Interstate exposition. Instead of confining it to local merchants and manufacdition, and arrangements had been nearly completed for sending him away, hoping that a change of surroundings would be of benefit ments teaccommodate exhibitors from abread. After no little expense and trouble the management of the enterprise has been put in the hands of Messrs C. K. Bell and M. L. Roeder, which is a sufficient guaranty that the exposition will be an unqualified success, as these men are prominent and successful business men, commanding the highest esteem in local and adjacent commercial circles. They have already received applications for mere space than the building really affords, which will necessitate the construction of a spacious annex, it being the intention of the new management to give this part of the country an exposition commessurable in importance with the interests to be represented. It is to be no catchests to be represented. It is to be no catch-penny affair, but a colossal exhibition of every product of this part of the world, ar-ranged with a taste that will display them to the best possible advantage, an exhibition that will not only reflect creditupon our growing and presperous city, but prove an advertisement of our manufactures and business houses of incalcuable benefit. No one has been authorized to dispose of any space, as the management are preparing a perfect diagram of the building, which will be submitted to the merchants and manufacturers in a way that the representatives of each special branch will have an equal showing, without too much similarity in the displays. Grand afterness and evening concerts and other meritorious attrac-ions are now being booked which will afford the most pleasing entertainment to all visitors and render the expesition a resort that will repay repeated visits. The management is not anticipating much profit out of the enterprise, but will be satisfied in giving the peo-ple a show worthy of the name, if expenses are but covered the first year. Of course it will grow with years and in a short time equal in attractiveness the expositions of Cinchnati, St. Louis, Philadelphia and the lager castern cities, which will be the aim of all parties interested. A large force of workmen are already engaged in refitting the building, and the management will appreciate any sug-gestions that citizens may feel like offering.
