A NNOUNCEMENTS.

The box office of Boyd's opera house will be open this morning for the sale of sents for the engagement of W. T. Carieton's open company. The engagement is for an entire week and the repertoire will be found in the advertising columns. It is scarcely necessary to call attention to its excellence as the opers are all of the most popular order. It will be the first production of "The Brigands" in Omaha. This opera was the only one played by the Carleton company during the past season and it will be given with ull the original wealth in scenery and costumes which made it actually famous as the finest of comicopera productions of last year. It that the prices have not been mised for the Carleton company. Heretofore it has never played more than three nights, and the prices were always from $1.50 down. This time the engagement is for an entire week, and only regular prices will be charged.

The management of the new Grand opera house believe they have taken the proper steps toward success in offering, so far as they can during the season, a good class of entertainments at popular prices. The entire orchestra reserved seats are offered at fifty cents each; balcony at thirty-five and twenty-five cents. These will be the prices for Ollic Redpath, in "The Firemen's Ward," which will be the opening attraction for Sunday evening, continuing for five nights.

The fair at Omaha which will be held at the fair grounds on Sherman avenue, September I to 4, promises to be a suc-cess. Premium list and other information will be given by applying to John Baumer, secretary, 1314 Farnam street.

NAMED HIS PALL BEARERS.

The Last Actin Life of the Late Charles H.D. wey.

The remains of the late Charles H. Dewey were brought to this city Thursday evening and are new lying at his latchome, 1615 Douglas street, awaiting interment.

The sickness from which Mr. Dewey suferedso many weeks told fea-fully on his constitution. Never a strong man, physically, his body greatly wasted by the disease. His features, however, have not much changed and his face is death has the composed, peaceful expression that was characteristic of Mr. Deweg in life. constitution. Never a strong man, physiposed, peaceful expression that was char-acteristic of Mr. Dewey in life. In answer to questions concerning Mr. Dewey's last days of life and his death, Mr.

W. I Kierstead said : W. I. Klerstead said:

"Mr. Dewey went to the Battle Creek anitarium in hope of regaining his health, little realizing the nature of his malady. As he failed to recover, Mrs. Dewey suggested that Dr. Coffman of this city visit him, which Mr. Dewey approved. The doctor arrived and on Monday last, after an examination, gave his opinion that Mr. Dewey had a streture of the pyloric orlice of the stomach, occasioned by an ulceration of a cancerous nature, from which tenever could recover, and advised his immediate return to Omaha. Mr. Dewey readily consented to this, preferring he said, to die at home in the city he loved so well. The following morning his conditition rapidly changed for the worse and it was evident he was soon to die. Upon being told by the doc, torthat he was dying, he said: 'All right, let death come quickly; I am ready.' This was about 8 o'clock in the morning. Death came at 12:49 o'clock p. m.

During all this time he did not display the least fear of death. He died calmiy and peacefully, as though going to sleep. Dr.
Coffman said it was the most peaceful death he had ever witnessed.

"During the last few days of Mr. Dewey's life he talked a great deal about his travels. It seemed to be a source of pleasure to him to go over again in his mind those long and noted journeys. It had been his intention to again start on a tour around the world assoon as he should be able to travel, thinking an ocean voyage would cure him. He had no new new places to visit, having been in all divisions of the globe, but he could not withstand his great love for travel. He was never happier than when viewing the won-derful sights of nature. Before death he settled all his business affairs, going into the minutest details, even naming the gentlemen he wished to be pallbearers and requesting Rev. Dr. Harshato preach his funeral ser

RAILROAD NOTES.

The Fight About a Ticket Office Between Two Roads.

The Santa Fe has filed a complaint with the state railroad commissioners of Kansas asking that the Union Pacific berestrained from establishing a city ticket effice in the city of Lawrence. Thetworoads had a joint office up towa, but discontinued it to save expenses. The Union Pacific wants to reopen the up town office flat the Santa Fe objects, claiming that both companies had agreed to confine their licket business to the depot offices. Union Pacific officials deny the existence of such agreement.

The Western passenger association will neet in St. Louis next week. The supporters meet in St. Louis next week. The supporters of the association are making a great effort to brace up the agreement and continue it. The ainety days' agreement will expire September, but none of the roads have given the thirty days' notice of withdrawal required by the terms of the compact. There is a number of knotty problems to be considered at the meeting in St. Louis, and if the association dessn't go to pieces the agreement will certainly be radically amended.

The uniform bill of lading which was to have been put into effect on Monday next, will probably go by the board. Even with the "non-negotiable" clause and other ob-the 'non-negotiable' clause and other ob-jectionable features eliminated, the bill is ot popular with the shippers and so far the Pennsylvania line is the only one to declare in favor of the adoption of the bill.

"We will not use the bill unless it is gen-erally adopted."

"We will not use the bill unit it is generally adopted by the lines west of the Missouri river." said a Union Pacific freight official, 'and I am act afraid of this being done. The western roads have no burning desire to get into as much hot water over this matter as the eastern lines have. The uniform bill would be a good thing for bankers but the shippers don't see any benefit in it, and I laink the shippers are right."

The sixteenth annual convention of the United States railway mail service mutual benefit association will be held in Denver commencing next Tuesday.

Better Than the Springs. Charles Mares, the well known depot passenger agent, who has been at the Union Pacific depot for a number of years, has just returned from an extended visit to the land of his nativity. During his trip Mr. Mares stopped at the famous Carisbad springs and while there he came into possession of a copy of The Ber. It was the first he had seen since he left home and the sight of it was more efficacious than the waters of the famous springs. He devoured its contents eagerly and celebrated the occasion by cracking a bottle of wine.
