A Temperance Agitator Says Prohibition ists Have Made a Fatal Blunder.

THE THIRD PARTY TICKET IS A HOODOO.

James G. Kreider Has Deserted the Prohibitionists and will Work for the Republican Party.

Editor James G. Kreider, better known as the "Iowa Cyclone," is in thecity. Mr. Kreider has a state-wide reputation as a temperance agitator, and has just returned from a tour of the South Platte country, having taken in nearly every county in the southern half of the state. For years Mr. Kreider has been actively identified with the temperance movement is lows and during the last probibition campaign in Pennsylvania he stumped that state for the amendment. In all this work he has stoutly opposed the third party movement, being a straight republican and working for the success of that party. Prior to the Nebraska prohibition state convention Mr. Kreider, under the auspices of the nonpartisan league, organized III local leagues in this state. When he saw that that the prohibition leaders here were determined to put a state ticket in the field he ceased work and declared that he would not ally himself with any movement whose object was in direct opposition to the republican party. The last league Mr. Kreider organized in Nobraska was that at Eustis, Dawson county.

A reporter met the lowa Cyclone last evening and engaged him in a very interesting talk upon the prohibition question, and the part he had taken and proposed to take in the campaign in this state "Understand," said he, "that I have spoken and written a great deal in Iowa and Nebraska is favor of prohibition and the non-partisan inevernent. But is no other state than Nebraska have the prohibitionists put up a state ticket, and in this step they have made a fatal blusder is my opinion. For my part I will have some of it. And let me tell tion of your prohibit ion leaders in nominating a third party ticket."

"When the party campaign in lower for governor was going on, in which Governor Botes was elected, did you take any part inwas there in the state, but I had lost my vote."

"You were talking for the republican nem-"Yes, but I felt confident three weeks after the nomination of Hutchinson, that he would be defeated." You denot think that prohibition was solely responsible for Hutchinson's defent?"

"It was just about the same as the move-ment in New York City in 1884."

"What is your opinion of prohibition in the If it was put to a vote in the state why I think that it would carry today, that is I be-lieve that a constitution at amendment would carry today in lowa " "To you not think there has been any change in sentiment in Iowa." Yes, Ithinkso.

Because so many men have left the state with mosey. I do not believe that they would come back and make the fight again. An Omaha man has just returned from as Moines. He says that he was gretting Des Moines. He says that he was getting shaved in a barber shop there and overheard the proprietor complaining that one of the barbers was late, and another gave as a reason why his colleague was late that he had been drunk over night, and the Omahan asked the question, is it not alittle remark-ablethat in a prohibition town your man here would ge home drunk! O. no, not at all, was the reply. There are a great many drunken people in this town. The Omaha man was then told that iscinding drug stores and the few salcons known is salcons and in Des Moines. Is that correct, Mr. Krei-

"Yes, I guess that is about true, but they do not run these places openly."
"Do you think prohibition can be enforced in any city a large as Des Moines (
"No, I do not think it can be. You know many of these officers go in for money mak-

There is a very startling case of official robber; reported from Buring ton, Ia."
"Yes, that is one of the river towns. It is next to impossible to enforce the prohibition law in the river towns. I think I had better make the statement like this: Until the govemmest issues licenses to only such parties as the states say shall sell, local prohibition can-not be enforced in any large city. The first thing a man does in Iowa is to get a governnt license, and the next thing is to g of Dr. Chase's receipt books. Then he has a omplete distillery."

"Mr.Kreider, are you going to make any make any more speeches throughout this Yes, I commence Thursday sext in Burt county under direction of the republican ate committee"

"What do you think of the third party movement and the ticket that has been put in

With the introduction of that ticket the amendment cannot possibly win. I have been clear over the southern half of the state from the east line to the west, and I have come to the conclusion from converstations had with hundreds of people invarious parts had with hundreds of people invarious partial of the state that when the ticket was placed in the field it killed the amendment. The leader of the movement Wolfenberger, is trying to step into the shoes occupied by the late John B Finch and he has not got brains in his head that John B. Finch in his heels. He beat the republican party in 184 and will do it again in 1890, if

"When you begin campaigning in Nebraska how are you going to talk!"
"For the straight republican ticket A great many of the members of the non-partian leagues that I have organized, have told ne that if the probabilion party put a n the field they would vote against the pro hibitory amendment. My opinion is that the fight is going to be between the republican nd alliance parties."

What is your opinion of the ourcoment "I think the republican state ticket lected, but the majority will be considerably educed on account of the alliance ticket. I o not think the democrats will cut any igure in the campaign only to vote agains he amendment'

I was standing on Farnam street in front of the opera house talking to George Waters, when suddenly, and without saying a word, Cox came up to where we were standing and struck me in the left side with a rock. I fell to the pavement, and as I was falling Cox hit me in the face and ran. The police arrested us both. Omaha Secures the National Stationary Engineers' Association for 1891.

THE MEN WHO OBTAINED THE PRIZE.

History of the Local Branch and the Importance of the Meeting to the City and Country.

The next annual convention of the National Association of Stationary engineers will be held in Omaha, commencing on the first Tuesday in September, 1891.

News to that effect was received in this city on Friday evening from Mr. George Brush, past president of the local branch of Brush, past president of the local branch of the association, as published in yesterday's Brr. Mr. Brush, with Corresponding Sec-retary Matthews, is in New York attending the eighth annual convention of the organiza-tion which closed on Friday last.

These gentlemen went as delegates of the Omaha branch and armed with a proposition and a bid for Omaha as the place of holding the race. the next convention of the order, and their mission, as may be inferred, was successful. The national association of stationary en-gineers was organized in New York in Octo-ber, 1882, on the call of a few enthusiastic engineers of that city. The plan of the organization was successful, and at the first convention there were eleven delegates present representing a membership of 430, Branchussoiations were formed rapidly, until at present there are organizations in thirty-four states mem bership of more than six thousand of the best stationary engineers in the coun-

At the late session of the convention in New York there were over two hundred and fifty delegates present. Omaha branch was organized in the fall of 1883. On October 8 of that year En gineers Joe Bailey, David Gould and Ed Lampson were gossiping on the street corner near Boyd's operationse. When one of them surgested the organization of a branch of the national association. The others approved and a meeting was called. Eleven engineers attended and signed the application, which was accepted by the national association on

The branch numbers eighty members and is in a four shing condition.

The object of the association is primarily, and almost solely, the improvement of its members in their calling, and no trade organ-ization has more effective method of accom-plishing this object. The association meets weekly, and after routine business, an hour is devoted to the discussion of matters "for the good of the order." This takes the form of an experience meeting. There are count-less ills and defects that boilers and engines are helfs to, and each member reports any case that has come under his observation Remedies are suggested and discussed, and the experience of the older members is de-tailed. Questions are asked and answered, and the result is that every meeting helps in qualifying and strengthening every member for the position he may hold.

There will probably be three hundred dele-gates at the national convention of the association in Omaha next year, representing nearly if not every state in the union. In addition to the delegates there will be exhibitors of engines, machinery and scientific appliances, equal in number to the delegates.
A large amount of space will be required for the exhibit and the local organization is al-ready figuring on securing the exposition or some other large building to be used as a machinery hall.

The convention will be of great financial benefit to Omaha and be foremest among the important gathering which is to be held in the convention of the convent this city the coming year. The Tenth Street Vinduct.

Work on the Tenth street viaduct will begin in good earnest tomorrow. The foundation stones upon which the iron pillars are to rest are in down to Jones street, and the heisting of the iron and steel frame work will begin. The nuge travelers by which the iron is lifted into position are already in place at the south end, and fifty men will begin tomorrow to swing the great iron pillars and beams into position and boil them fast.

SOUTH OMAHA NEWS.

The School Muddle. "The city schools will open next Monday merning," said Frank J. Persons, president of the board of education, "if there are one teacher and one pupil present. The teachers will meet at the high school building at 8 o'clock and all elected teachers who do not report then will have their names dropped from the roll. The board of education will hold an adjourned meeting tomorrow evening in the high school building. 17
In answer to an inquiry as to the cause of the entanglement in the board Mr. Persons

Said:
"John C. Carroll had a majority of the votes cast at the last municipal election. Robert Funston contested Mr. Carroll's right to a seat on the board and Judge shields decided in favor of Mr. Funston. On the evening of July 9, after the old board had completed its business, on motion of Mr. Robinson the old board adjourned. Mr. Funstop was present with his certificate from Stop was present with his certificate from Judge Shields. The new board was organ-ized by electing myself president, C. T. Van Aken vice president and Robert Funston secretary. The usual business of the board was transacted and the board adjourned to meet the following Friday evening, when Mr. Carroll came in with a certificate from Judge Shields showing that he had appealed from the county court and had filed his ap-peal and bond. I claim that Mr. Carroll never stepped down and out as a member of the board, but only as secretary. After filing his appeal I recognized Mr. Carroll as the member entitled to the seat, the only thing I could do. I refused to recognize Mr. Funston because he had no right on the board. The whole trouble rests on the legality of the election, but as Mr. Carroll was elected 1 claim that he is the rightful till the courts finally decide case, and that is the reason I recognize Mr.

"Mr. Carroll was elected by 53 majority and I contested his election on account of illegality in the ballots cast," said Robert Funston. "There were three tickets in the field at the last municipal election—the regular demo-cratic ticket and another not nominated by any convention. On this ticket were the names of Bernard Blam, Frank Pivonka and John C. Carroll. Neither of these tickets specified whether any of the candidates were running for full or unexpired terms, nor did they state on them, the length of the terms the candidates were to serve if elected, as required by law. I was nominated by the re oublicans for the three year term.

"The case was tried on June 3, in the county court, and Judge Shields decided in my favor, and I received the decision of the court and presented it at the adjourned regular meeting of the board on June 9, and was acepted and swora in. At the adjourned meet ng of the old board, the night of June 9, Mr Carroll stepped down and took his seat in the rear of the room and made no objections to my taking my seat. On the organization of the new board that night I was elected sec-retary. The usual business was transacted and special committees, of which I was one. were appointed. The board adjourned to meet on the 14th. On the 11th of June Car roll filed his appeal bond to take the case to the district court. At the meeting on the evening of June 14 Mr. Carroll appeared and claimed the right to act as a member, and objected to my acting on the board on the ground that he had filed his ap-pear bond, and that that gave him the right to act. The statutes of Nebrasku are that if at the time of the filing of the appeal bond the appellant be in possession of the office he retains possession until the final decision of the courts. Mr. Carroll having stepped down at the meeting on June 9, gave me the right to the seat on the board till the case is finally

Stock yards Report.

The August report of the Union stockyards is as interesting and gratifying as the best friend of the yards could desire. During the same mouth there were 3,700 cars with 250,321 hogs, as compared with 86,759 during the corresponding month hast year Only two months during the existence of the yards have as many hogs been received as were slaughtered at the packing houses in South Omaha During last month 162,160 per day. Stock Yards Improvement. Manager W. N. Babcock has let the con tract for the new large barn to Eggers & Bock. The barn will be a brick structure 250 feet long by 63 feet wide, and part of it two stories high. The building completed will cost about $19,000. The barn will be erected just west of the boulevard, facing the east, and will be divided into three parts. In the center will be a large center court in hich to show animais, while one end, with a capacity of more than 100 horses, will be used for the horses belonging

Rev. Willard Scott of the St. Mary's avenue Congregational church has been lected president of the Yankton college. He has not yet returned from his summer va-cation and it is not known whether or not he intends to accept the position and leave Omaha. His congregation would be very loth to let him go, for his labors at the St.

Mary's avenue church have been crowned with most excellent results. He is expected home early this week and will doubtless de-ride promptly as to whether he is to leave Omaha and take up the duties of the position

A Winged Lizard. One of the strangest of the many trange creatures that inhabit the wilds of southern Asia and India is the "fly-ing flowers," a small, brilliant-hued izard of the order bracovolans, says the St. Louis Republic. On the bracovolans resembles a richly tinted inect, when at rest it compares favorably with others of the lizard tribe, with the exception that it has an extraordinary protuberance on both sides of the body. These are the wings, which are formed by a cutaneous flap, winglike in shape supported by a series of false ribs. In color these flying lizards are blue and gray, with intermediate tints of various kinds and shades. The tail is long, slender and very snaky in appearance; a large double pouch extending below the head the feroclous aspect of the little rainbow-colored brute. The wings are not true wings, strictly so-called but are used merely as parachutes. When the lizard leaps from the limb of parachutes a tree into the air the upper current brings them out and enables the possessor to soar away at an angle to a greater or lesser distance, according to the height of the starting point.

The lizard can change its direction while in the air, a power not pos-sessed by our "flying squir-rels." Hence the casual observer quite frequently several hundred yards, an aerial exhibition which strikes terror to the heart of a stranger wandering for the first time in the jungles of the antimight readily believe that they had the power of moving the wing-like appendages, which would, in that case, true flight. Soaring is, however, the limit of their power, the height of the starting point regulating the distance travelled in the souring flight, which is
