GLAD TIDINGS.

FOR Centuries, the very generous custom of giving CHRISTMAS PRESENTS has prevailed. God help the man or woman who has not, at this joyful season, the desire to make some one else happy by giving--which produces more happiness than receiving. Now to give is one thing, but to give something useful, beautiful and ornamental, is another. Out of every thousand Christmas presents given perhaps but two hundred will hit the mark, the other eight hundred being useless. Men give what the women do not need, consequently throwing away a large amount of money, while women have the happy knack of finding out beforehand, what the men care about and what will be useful, and accordingly. We are offering throughout our various departments, the best quality of goods, useful and ornamental, such as will make acceptable gifts to every one. Our prices will compare favorably with those of the largest cash houses in the land, and the goods are offered on our Easy Payment plan, thereby lightening the heavy burden on the purse during the holiday season. Our Christmas book, with its full price list, will serve as a safeguard for housekeepers against giving articles useless and needless, and aid them in saving money in their purchases.
