ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Dramatically, there is no stronger play booked at the Boyd this season than William Gillette's great war drama, "Held by the Enemy." The DeWolf Hopper opera bouffe company in "Castles in the Air," has been filling a series of engagements in the principal eastern cities with most wonderful results. The size of the audiences attending their enter-tainments everywhere, has been limited by the capacity of the theaters to accommodate them, which is proof positive that a complete comic opera company is at all times a good investment, and when that opera company is headed by an artist of Mr. Hopper's well known popular, the investment becomes additionally secure.

The production of "Castles in the Air" is identically the same as that seen during the past few months in the Broadway theater, New York, as the management brings with them the entire plant of scenery, costumes and effects used in the original production. The box sheeps for the engagement of the De Wolf Hopper company will open this morning at 9 o'clock.

The Bestonians will sing their new opera, "Robin Hood," at the Boyd on next Thursday evening for the first time in Omana. The opera has been pronounced the greatest light opera success since "Pinafore." It was written for the Bostonians by De Koven and Smith, two Chicago newspaper men, and their methods were an innovation. All the principals, who for years have been so well known here, are still in the famous organization, and will be seen and heard in the fol-lowing beautiful operas at the Boyd next week: Thursday and Friday evenings, 'Robin Hood,' Saturday matinee, "Su-zette;' Saturday evening, 'Carmen.'

The Big Girl from Missouri.

About the largest individual proportion of humanity ever known dropped into Omaha yesterday. Just how it got here is not known, but the city has probably the tallest person alive within its pounds today. It is a woman. She is eight foot high and weighs 232 pounds. She came to Omaha with her father and will be the guest of Will Lawler for a week. Thinking something of the strange person would be interesting, a reporter sought an interview with her. Her name is Ella Ewing. Ella was writing her name on the ceiling of her room when a reporter called last "But what a muddy place; just look at my shoe from the effects of your streets," and the reporter moved the table and looked at the shoe.

It was the shoe of a life-time. It was as long as a political argument and broad as a pre-election promise. Here and there about the surface were suspicious looking mounds, showing that some time in her life Ella had cramped her foot.

"But then I suppose I shall get used to it," continued the dashing creature, smiling, "to the weather, not the foot," she added by way of explanation.

"My ambition has ever been in the direction of the stage. But papa says I am too large to play Eva, and I won't play anything except the legitimate," and Ella tapped her foot impatiently.

Six bell boys came to the room and wanted

Six bell boys came to the room and wanted to know what was the trouble.

With a smile that looked like the breaking up of a hard winter Ella, in a large voice, informed the boys that she merely dropped her foot.

"I was born in Lewis county, Missouri," she resumed as the bell boys left. "Until I was nine years of age I was normal in size. When I began to grow like a gas bill until I am now over eight feet tall, I am still growing and expect to be ten feet tall unless I soon cease to shoot upwards. I attended school all along and am fend of riding. I am in perfect health and weigh 232 pounds—hardly in proportion to my height. I did not want to come to Omaha, but papa and Mr. Lawler persuaded me to come. I don't know how I can stand the people gazing at me, but I'll try it." And then Elia lifted the reporter off his feet in attempting to shake hands at parting.

A BARE-FACED JOB.

How the Taxpayers Are Being Flim-flammed by the Council. OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 2 .- To the Editor of THE BEE: Animated by the henorable postdon taken by your excellent newspaper concerning the bid made by the Democrat publishing company to do the city advertising for the coming year, and the further fact that THE BEE did not bid for the advertising, the subscriber is induced to ask you to give this communication a place in your columns in order that the taxpayers of Omaha may be enlightened respecting the methods devised to get away with their wealth without any consideration whatever.

The Democrat publishing company, la com liance with a request from the city, made a fair and honorable bid to do the city advertising for 1891. Our bid was as follows:

Ten lines of nonpareil, first insertion, 714 cents; each subsequent insertion, 6 cents. The World-Herald was 29 and 24 cent respec-

At such a rate we can make a fair per-centage, but there is no great margin for profit. With our bid, several affidavits were filed showing that our circulation was equal to the requirements of the law. The bids and accompanying affidavits were duly filed in an honorable and business-like manner. in an honorable and business-like manner.

Now, note the tortuous action of Mr. Hitchcock of the World-Herald. He procured the service of a worthless fellow to drop into The Ber office in an informal manner and in a currory way the visitor sought to learn from an employe, and did learn, that The Ber did not care for and would not bid for the city advertising. After performing this smelling feat or fine detective work (if Mr. Hitchcock desires to call it such), in the business office tective work (if Mr. Hitchcock desires to call it such), in the business office of one journalistic competitor, he proceeded to discredit another newspaper in a very cowardly way. Three persons, all of them disreputable in every sease, were sent into the press room of the Democrat (and they had to slip quietly and there-like through their doors in order to reach their objective point) and there they interviewed a young lad who acted as press feeder, respecting the circulation of the Democrat. The men were probably influenced by fear of losing their job. The smelling committee secured such cyldence as a frightened boy was able to impart and retired without knowing anything whatever, but it was made to answer Hitchcock's purpose

Councilman Bechel put in his pocket the affidavits of the three sneaks before men-tioned and when the bids for advertising were opened before the council he supplemented those bids by presenting the affidavits of the sneaks. Under a gag rule, any mem-ber can object to a citizen or taxpayer speak-ing in open council. A Democrat stockholder asked permission to reply to the ex-parte affidavits, but objection was made and the privilege was refused. In case a dry goods merchant, a draggist, a grocer or other business man should pursue such an underhand method against a competitor we respectfully ask whether it would be accounted honorable in this community!

I have half a dozen affidavits in my possession from parties who swear that, to the best of their knowledge, the daily circulation of the World-Herald delivered to bona fide subscribers, is about one thousand copies in Omaha. These affidavits are as reliable as Omaha. These affidavits are as reliable as those of the three sneaks who interviewed a boy in the basement of the Democrat office. We also have an affidavit of the boy in question, refuting these stealthily procured by the World-Herald. But all this is of little consequence.

Ayers' American Newspaper Annual, a reliable publication, places the circulation of the World-Herald at about five thousand copies for one edition, while it gives the circulation of the Democrat truly at 9,000 for its afternoon paper, which is the only edition it publishes. At the same time the circulation of The Bee is fixed at 21,000 copies, which is about right. It follows that in case circulation is to guide. The Bee ought to have the city advertising, whether it bids for it or not. Justice is justice. The annual of Ayers' publication is quite as reliable in newspaper affairs as the commercial reports of Dan or Bradstreet are regarded in business lines.

With these facts before the public we are prepared to dispute the right of Hitchcock and his associates to defraud the people of Omaha by giving official advertising in a control of the property of uarter w has no righ THE DEMOCRAT PUBLISHING COMPANY.

He implained of a severe cold and screness of the lungs, and a physician was called, who announced that the patient was in an ad-vanced stage of pneumonia, with slight chances of recovery. A telegram was at once sent to his father, James C. Stewart, at 43 Kingsbury avenue, Gloversville, N. Y., announcing the young man's condition, and a reply was received directing that he be given every attention. Everything possible was done for him, but the disease had taken such a strong hold on his system that all efforts were useless, and he died yesterday morning A second telegram was sent to the father and a reply received announcing that a relative was on his way to Omaha. The remains were removed to Heafey & Heafey's, where they await the arrival of the relative.

A little over four years ago the Nebraska Clothing Company threw open its doors to the public. Beginning at the same location it still occupies, at the cor. of 14th and Douglas Sts, in one small room 33 feet wide by 70 feet long, we have seen it grow year by year, reaching out, covering more territory, reaching up, taking in more floors, until today it occupies a store just a half block long, three stories high and a basement. The history of our store for the past 4 years is simply the history of Omaha on a smaller scale. As she has met and overcome obstacles in her pathway, grown, reached out and covered more territory, so have we, until today we enjoy the proud distinction of clothing more men and boys than any other house west of Chicago. Each succeeding year has brought us new customers and an increase of business, last year being no exception, for when our doors were closed on Wednesday night they were closed on the most successful year's business we have ever done. We intend to make the year just begun still better. And to make a good beginning we will offer at special sale on Friday and Saturday about 300 "Big Boys" Suits as follows:

At $4.75-64 handsome fancy striped cheviot suits, sizes 14 to 18, worth $7.50.

At $7.50-61 very handsome neat gray all wool striped cassimere suits, sizes 14 to 19,

At $7.50-52 elegant all wool brown striped cheviot suits, sizes 14 to 19, a $10 suit.

At $9.00-58 very nobby all wool gray plaid cassimere suits, "square cut coats," as the large sizes are all sold we offer the remaining ones, sizes 14 to 17, at $9.00. They were $12.50.

These are the cheapest suits for young men and boys ever sold in Omaha.
