tton before Judge King. ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The beauty and talent displayed by the en tire cast in the historical production of the gorgeous spectacle, "America—1499, 1882," has never been surpassed in this city. The has never been surpassed in this city. The costumes are entirely foreign to all ideas ever advanced here and the ground work of the entire spectacle is founded on the principal historical facts of this country. It is filled with soul stirring music and thrilling battle scenes, and the situations in both field and forum are really beautiful. It is undoubtedly the most instructive production now before the public. A special matinee for ladies and scholars will be given next Saturday afternoon, and packed houses will be in order during this most instructive spectacle.

The entertainment provided by the Edea Musee this week is one of the strongest ever presented at that popular house. Elia Ewing, the giantess from Missouri, who has been such a popular attraction the past week, has been retained this week in order that all may avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing the greatest wonder in modern history. Another freak that has just been put on this week is Nellie May, the Nebraska fat girl, who weighs 410 pounds and is but sixteen years old. This girl is a perfect wonder and so fat that she walks with the greatest difficulty. In the Bijou theater the Howard imperial ministrel company of tweive well known black face artists holds forth. This company gives a really enjoyable entertainment and instead of detaining a person three hours give an hour's performance full at wit and humor.

RUN OVER A BOY.

Criminal Recklessness of a Heartless Teamster. John Schar, a teamster in the employ of Dairyman Boesch, is under arrest on a charge of wilfully driving over a boy named William Daniels with intent to "kill, maim and disflgure" him.

The accident, or whatever it was, occurred Saturday at the corner of Seventeenth and Burt streets. Daniels was riding on his sled, the rope of which was attached to the rear end Schar drove up behind him with three schar drove up belind him with three horses and a heavy load of malt. He gradually drove closer to the boy, who pulled himself as close to the wagon in front as he possible could and shouted to Schar to hold back his horses. Several people on the sidewalk, who noticed the peril that the little fellow was in also shouted to Schar and told him not to run over the boy. These witnesses state that Schar faid no attention, but drove carelessly along, looking at the boy, whom he was apparently trying to scare. The spectators held their breath as the horses narrowly missed trampling the boy two or three times, and their hearts rose in their throats when one of the heavy animals finally stepped upon the boy's coat which was trailing technich him.

An agonized scream and the horrible crunching of human bones were the only sounds borne to the ears of the on-lookers, and the awful affair was over.

Schar drove carelessly on until compelled to stop, and the inanimate form of his victim was taken to his home, at 1515 Burt street, where a physician was hastily summoned to attend the sufferer. It was found that both legs and one arm were broken. The bone of the leg just above the ankle was ground almost to powder, and it is doubtful whether the limb can be saved, although the leg was cut open and a tube inserted. horses and a heavy load of malt. PLEADING FOR REYNOLDS.

Efforts for a New Trial forthe Accused

Slaver of Clerk Nistle. For the first time since his serious illness Judge Baldwin was able to attend court yesterday morning. In Judge Clarkson's court he argued a motion for a new trial in the James Reynolds murder case. Early in December Reynolds was convicted of manslaughter, his victim being Fred Nistle, a clerk in Bamberger's store at Thirteenth and Harney streets. Some one had stolen a pair of shoes, and while escaping was pursued by Nistle. The thief had a pal and one of the two men turned and fired on Nistle, fatally wounding him. Reynolds was arrested on suspicion and on trial was found guilty of manand on trial was found guitty of mat-slaughter.

The defendant's attorney questions the le-gality of what the state called in testimony "Nistle's dying statement," claiming that the victim lived four days after the statement was made. He will also present an affidavit from one of the jurors that convicted Rey-nolds to the effect that he had made up his mind of the defendant's guilt before any evi-dence had been introduced. dence had been introduced.

Judge Clarkson took the matter under ad-visement until Wednesday. visement until Wednesday.

After the court was all ready to proceed.
Mr. Smith, the stenographer who reported the last trial, asked permission to make a statement. It was to the effect that he and Mr. Wheeter had presented a bill of $50 for stenographic work performed, but the county commissioners refused to allow it, lie therefore refused to report the matter any further unless he had a guarantee that he would be paid. Mr. Mahoney went before the county board to ascertain why the bill had not been allowed. He was told by Mr. Berlin that the commissioners did not propose to let stenographers ring in any bills Mr. Berlin that the commissioners did not propose to let stenographers ring in any bills on them; that the state auditor was the proper person to go to. The first bearing of the Reynolds case was before Judge Tiffany, who had no stenographer, consequently Wheeler and Smith were appointed to do the work. Judge Baldwin paid Smith witness fees to read his notes, and after the county attorney had guaranteed Smith pay for what work he bad done, the case proceeded.

FOR SALE My Painting and Paperhanging business. Estab-lished 1856. Han a well-selected stock of Wall Paper, Wall Mouldings, Paints, Brushes, etc.

P. WINDHEIM, 516 S. 16th Street, Omaha.

The month of January, from a purely business standpoint, is far different in the present day from that of a few years ago. Before the day of the elegant "vestibule train" which now enables the merchant to reach his market in a few short hours, the average storekeeper went to "the city" wherever that might be, but twice a year; once in the early spring and once in the early fall, each time buying goods enough to last him a full season of six months. He did little replenishing of stock in those days. When anything sold out, he was "out of it," that was all. When the first day of January came, business came to a standstill-"no use trying to sell anything." He'd just get in the back end of the store by the old box stove, and sit, and soak in heat and wait for the customer that never came. The enterprising merchant of to-day has changed all that. Instead of letting his business run him, he runs his business. He rolls up his sleeves and pitches in, determined to make January's SALES good, even if he don't 'lay up

TO-DAY,

We, the afore-mentioned enterprising merchant, begin our annual January

Sale of Overcoats,

When we will put on sale in one grand lot between five and six hundred Overcoats and Ulsters that have formerly been sold at twelve, thirteen fifty, fourteen, fifteen and even sixteen dollars all at the one uniform price of

TEN DOLLARS.

Splendid all wool Chinchilla Overcoats, in blue or black, in all sizes, with Italian, Serge or Cassimere linings, with handsome fancy satin sleeve linings. Goods that are worth from two to six dollars more—AT TEN DOLLARS.

Great big Heavy Chinchilla Ulsters, goods that are right in every way, lined with splendid plaid cassimere. Coats that have sold for five dollars more all the season. They go in at the TEN DOLLAR rate too.

Great big piles of Irish Frieze Ulsters in Stylish Plaids, with splendid linings, with excellent sleeve linings; coats that ought to wear a man three or four years with any decent sort of handling. They go in under the TEN DOLLAR banner too.

When you take into consideration the fact that these garments at the original prices were the cheapest coats sold in Omaha, you can readily understand that at the present reduced price of TEN DOLLARS, there won't be many left at the end of the SIX DAYS which we intend to devote to this great JANUARY OVERCOAT SALE.
