new proprietor of the Ogden house, has arrived here and has not took up his board yesterday morning. He will make extensive improvements in the building.In district court yesterday an order for a special venue of jurors in the trial of William Roarty made by the court. It was also decided that the special venire should be drawn in the jurisdiction of Hank Hall which also comes up in this term.The school board waited to have a meeting yesterday afternoon at the new school house on the Cochran tract, for the purpose of examining the buildings. All right, nothing. On Tuesday night the school was closed and the inability of Mr.
Stewart to be present, it was decided to hold the meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.Nearly the whole of yesterday in the district court was taken up with the arguments of Dr. Parsons's team and Mr. D. C. B. Judd Democrat. The fact, together with the interesting proceedings that were going on across the hall in superior court, caused the court room to assume a rather deserted appearance almost entirely.John Baldwin, who induced him from his law office to come here, was fined $22.
He was given notice of his promotion to the office of general Council Bluffs agent.
The duties of the office have heretofore devolved upon him, but he has been unable to do them, and, therefore, he has turned over entire control here, and instead of reporting to the Omaha agent, he will report directly to the division headquarters.Neil Burritt, a switchman on the Milwaukee road, on a recent visit to Council Bluffs informed while coming east in his car, that will deprive him of the use of his hand for some time. In inquiring his hand became caught in some way between the burner and the coupling rod, and the third and fourth fins were broken. His hand was severely mashed.
The injury is not so serious as to be permanent, but it is bad enough to keep him from driving for some time.A large quantity of serosene was confiscated by the state inspector, Mr.
John Bush. A few days ago a lot of serosene was sold in the Bluffs by Omaha merchants, and was found to pass the required test. Another consignment was made by the same merchants, and it was found that the quality of the serosene was the same as that of the first.
An inspection showed that the second lot was several degrees below the standard.
The inspector made a round of all the stores where it had been placed on sale and ordered it condemned.The proceedings yesterday were peculiar.
Mr. Baldwin, who had been sent to the office of the attorney general for a change of venue, had written to the attorney general for a change of venue, and he was told that the quality of the serosene was the same as that of the first.
An inspection showed that the second lot
was several degrees below the standard.
where it had been placed on sale and ordered it condemned.Mr. Silas W. Chase, Jr., and Miss Anna Loring were married yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Leutinger.
The ceremony was performed by Rev.
J. C. Moore. Mr. Chase is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Chase, manager of Hotel Gibson, and is one of the brightest and most popular young men of the city. Miss Leutinger has been raised here and is a handsome and popular young lady. The young couple were invited to stay at the home of the bride's parents for a week or more and will return and take up their residence in this city. These were the recipients of many hearty congratulations.Recalled that the only installment house

Narrow Escape.

A tragedy was narrowly averted yesterday morning at the Union elevator. A train of cars loaded with grain was standing on the track beside the building with a large rope cable attached thereto, ready to be hauled up the inclined plane to be unloaded. The cable was pulled tight, and just as the train was about to ascend the plane the rope broke. Jacob Jessen, a laborer employed in the elevator, was standing near and was struck by the end of the rope as it fell.
It broke and fell senseless, where he stood, and was found on the floor soon after by some of the other workers. It was at first thought that he was killed. Dr.
Macrae was summoned and arrived on the scene half an hour later, the injured man was just regaining consciousness. An examination showed that Jessen had had three ribs broken by the force of the blow, and had also received serious injuries about the head. He is now living at the corner of Nineteenth and Twentieth streets, and it is thought that he will recover in due time.

Your honor, it appears that every object made by Mr. Sealback is sustained, while every objection made by me is overruled. I do not like to submit to being thus ridiculed so openly.

It was John N. Baldwin, the attorney, who thus showed his indignation with eye as well as tongue.

Judge McGee requested him to take his seat.

"It is the order of the court that I sit down, I suppose, I shall have to submit, though my opinion remains unchanged."

The case went on. It was an attempt of the attempt recently begun by Paul Sealback to get injunctions against the saloons.

Sealback's chief witness, L. M. Turner, had been arrested for perjury. On being brought before Justice Patton, a change of venue was refused, and then Sealback went into the superior court and asked Judge Metz to release him on a writ of habeas corpus.

The evidence was introduced and a good deal of sharp cross-examination followed.

"Now you, Reith, you drive slow and don't worry your mewls, and the rest of you all behave yourselves. Come down for me Wednesday, and bring a jug of coffee to sell us with." He up-horned.
"Old man went up of pure sinfulness, and he had to move heavily. He'd wanted to be buried at home, and I wouldn't dis-apoint him."

"Your husband?" I asked.

"Sartain. Lived together nigh on to thirty years. Beckon you are all amazed that I don't try and take on, but that's what you all know. I am not the strongest man in the world, but I am a hardy old fellow."

to be buried at home, and I wouldn't dis-
apoint him."
