

POINT FOR THE PROSECUTION.

Important Victory for the State in the Shedy Case.

McFarland's Confession Admitted.

After a Strong Fight Against it by the Defense the Judge Decides to Admit the Negro's Story as Evidence.

Lincoln, Neb., May 13.—(Special to The Bee.)—The presidential visit this morning had the effect of postponing the opening of court in the great Shedy murder trial until 10:30 o'clock.

The witness who attracted the most attention was Dennis Shedy, the brother of the murdered man. Mr. Shedy is one of Denver's millionaires and is vice president of one of the Denver banks, and secretary of the richest smelting company in Colorado. He is a very agreeable and approachable person, and when some outside the court room expressed himself very freely in regard to the case, he said: "You have no idea how much this terrible crime has concerned me. I wish it could all be buried at the bottom of the sea. The great mistake of my brother's life was in marrying that woman, but she evidently got around him in a moment of weakness and induced him to marry himself with her for life. But a brief life it was for him. Do you believe her guilty of murdering my brother, her own husband? Just look at that face of hers. Note the cold, cruel expression and you have my answer. That look of hers reminds me of a passage in one of the letters of Lincoln in which he says 'if you wish to be successful in a cold, hard state, do not wish to be vindictive, but I want the guilty person punished.'"

One of the interesting things brought out this morning was the cordial hatred which ex-Captain Carder cherishes for Detective Jim Malone, the officer who untangled the mystery surrounding the murder and arrested Monday McFarland and Mrs. Shedy. Carder was very anxious to force the court to find Malone guilty of the murder, but the court was not desirous of being enlightened in that regard.

When the prisoners were brought in this morning a larger crowd than ever before was assembled. The mooted point as to whether the confession of Monday McFarland should be admitted was again taken up, testimony being presented by the defense in support of the confession. Ex-Captain Carder was the first witness called. He represented the defense. He related the incidents in connection with McFarland's arrest and declared that Detective Malone went to McFarland's cell the night of his arrest and extorted a confession by making threats of violence against a mob of fifty men after him and that the crowd would be increased to a hundred later.

Forest Fires in Minnesota as Bad as First Reported.

St. Paul, Minn., May 13.—Telegraphic reports of the bush and lumber fires which have raged for several days in the vicinity of Superior prove not to have been at all exaggerated.

Engineer Francis of the Omaha passenger train, No. 6, dined in St. Paul at 7 o'clock this morning. He was informed of the Omaha's tracks and bridges by fire at almost every, though last evening it looked as if the bridges between Hawthorne and Superior were doomed to destruction. Francis states that the through passenger for Chicago was delayed several hours by fire near Hawthorne. At that point the roar of the flames at 6 o'clock was terrific and the fire was making directly for the trestle bridges. Crews of men fought the fire at different points along the line all day. At 9:30 the fire reached the long trestle near Hawthorne and all efforts were directed toward saving the bridge. As soon as the flames reached the bridge it took fire and to end the men succeeded in getting the fire out before the structure was consumed. The flames had been at the bridge for some time before the change of the wind, and a violent gust of wind in a direction away from the railroad company's property.
