THAYER WILL INVESTIGATE.

Affairs at the Hastings Asylum Will Be Thoroughly Examined.

WILL SHOW NO MERCY TO THE GUILTY.

No Hospital Officers to Be Suspended Until the Charges Are Proven—When the New Laws Go Into Effect.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 20.—[Special to THE BEE.]—The investigation of the Hastings asylum scandal has been postponed until next week, as State Treasurer Hill and Commissioner Humphrey will not return until Monday. The talk now is that an expert accountant shall be employed, who will go through the books of the hospital from its inception to the present date.

The governor says he is in favor of a thorough investigation and will show no mercy to anyone shown to be guilty of malfeasance in office. He will not pass judgment on the strength of newspaper reports, however, and consequently declines to accede to the request of the state board of public lands and buildings that Superintendent Test and Steward Liveringhouse be suspended pending the examination. The governor is also quoted as saying that he has reason to think the attack on the officers of the asylum comes from enemies of his and is made because the officers are appointed and friends of his.

Dr. Test has been down twice, but Steward Liveringhouse has remained stubbornly away. This absence is the more marked because the board wrote him June 9 demanding that he come to Lincoln and explain the irregularities in his accounts. Two days later he wrote asking the board to suppress notice of his absence as long as possible, but he offered no explanation and said nothing about coming to Lincoln. On June 16 he wrote admitting that he had been absent from the board, but he asserted that he also had made the same discovery. He said the sum involved had been turned into the cash fund and would appear in the next quarterly report. The board is wondering why it was not included in the last report, why Mr. Liveringhouse's absence holds that a day to answer the letter of June 9 and why he has not come to Lincoln to make a personal explanation.

But the board omitted to do one thing. In the letter of June 9 mention was made of two of the items that appear to have been paid twice. This omission was intentional on the part of the board, and, curiously enough, Mr. Liveringhouse's "discoveries" did not extend beyond the omitted items, or else he neglected to mention it in his letter. The board are wondering what explanation he will make of that circumstance.

THE NEW LAWS. There are five or six bills by the last legislature that will not go into effect until August 1, if the opinion of Attorney General Hastings holds good. The constitution provides that acts without an emergency clause shall not take effect until three calendar months after the adjournment of the legislature. Differences of opinion prevailed at the term "calendar months," and the governor informally asked the attorney general for an opinion. General Hastings holds that a calendar month can only begin on the first day and end on the last day of the month. The legislature adjourned April 4. It is his opinion that the next calendar month did not begin until May 1, and ended the third calendar month on July 1. The governor will act on that interpretation of the constitution, and it is possible that a number of appointments will be delayed in consequence. The acts affected by this ruling are the warehouse, the world's fair, the soldiers' home, the eight-hour and the Boyd county laws.

A RIVER CROSSING. It was thought that C. B. Richter would withdraw the charge of shooting with intent to kill, made against his partner, W. S. Huffman, but the trial has been set for Tuesday. The case attracts much attention because of the prominence of the parties in society as well as in business. Last night's affair was the culmination of partnership disputes running since 1880. Richter alleges that Huffman has overdrawn his account $2,000 and drew checks on the Lincoln National bank without authority. Richter claims that Huffman has no right to honor the checks. Mr. Huffman says he tried to get Richter to make a buy or sell order for his half interest in the failing business, but that the latter refused. He alleges that Richter went out yesterday, collected firm accounts to the amount of $750 and declined to enter them on the firm books. Angry over these collections led to the personal encounter, and in the excitement Richter drew a revolver and fired a harmless shot. His bail is $500 and his bondsmen are E. K. Criley, L. C. Burr and F. M. Baldwin. Friends are seeking to make a reconciliation, and Richter's charge may be withdrawn, but it has been determined that a dissolution of partnership shall take place next week. Richter is running the business today and Huffman will take charge for Monday.

CITY NOTES. W. A. Sollick has been appointed alderman from the Fourth ward in the place of Council Archibald, deceased.

Clarence Estes, convicted of burglarizing a store, was sentenced today to the reform school. His mate, Frank Miller, went to the penitentiary for two years and a half.

The creditors of Maxwell, Sharp & Co. have asked for the appointment of L. D. Newman as receiver in place of Maxwell, who, it is alleged, has failed to file an inventory of the overlying property.

A woman claiming to be the wife of Charles Crow, the detective, has been trying to get a warrant for his arrest for abduction. She acted peculiarly and the officers advised her to get a divorce. Crow says he is subject to temporary mental aberrations and says he will engage a nurse for her.

Riley Ables and W. Sheldon were landed in jail today for stealing two horses of Charles Tibbets. The owner tracked them to Syracuse, where the thieves were caught clipping and disguising them.

Knights of Labor. The meeting of the joint local assemblies of the Knights of Labor in Groom's hall will be of no small importance. Besides having the state officers present, arrangements will be made to organize the city and county by organizing a county assembly in each county, where two or more assemblies are in existence. This plan has worked so successfully to the farmers' alliance the knights will try to bring their members more closely together by the county organization which will have an organizer to do all the work in the county, which will practically do away with the state organizers and save a big expense to the state assembly. The state executive board at its last meeting put an organizer at work on a regular salary to organize the counties and local assemblies where the county assemblies as yet have not been organized, and a big effort will be made by the Omaha knights to get a county organizer and part of the expense to be paid by the state assembly.

A large crowd is expected to be present on Monday night at the annual produce stand. The fair will give a seat, as well as those in good standing.

Ripe, Red Cherries. This Bee has long held that Nebraska would someday be one of the great fruit growing states. Evidences of the force of this prophesy are manifold. Employers of this paper have just had an opportunity of testing the quality of Nebraska-grown cherries from the nurseries of Mr. E. F. Stephens of Crest. They are luscious. The orchards of Mr. Stephens this year produce 2,300 quarts of cherries, and his vineyards promise 15,000 bushels of grapes. He expects to pick 15,000 bushels of apples.

This nursery, established in 1872, has grown, by close attention to business, to one of the largest in the west. He aims particularly to sell directly to the planter, with no middle man between him and the customer, and, as far as possible, avoid the intervention of middle men and dealers, and to encourage people to deal with home nurseries. He has the handling of timber claims, in which they have been very successful.

Those who wish to procure fruit trees or plants, shade trees, ornamental or forest trees of very moderate prices, should address E. F. Stephens, proprietor, for catalogue.

EAST OMAHA ENDANGERED. Possibility of the Missouri River Making Another Cutoff Discussed.

Residents of East Omaha and Florence precincts are taking an active interest in the efforts being made by R. S. Berlin, Omaha's representative on the Missouri river commission to induce the commission to take steps toward the protection of the lands lying south and east of Florence from further damage by the river.

At the last meeting of the commission Mr. Berlin introduced a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the assistant engineer in charge of the works at Omaha "to examine the right bank of the Missouri river between Florence and a point opposite the dikes of the Northwestern railway company and report to the commission what danger, if any, exists of a cut-off through East Omaha, or what other necessity, if any, there may exist for protecting the lands referred to."

James Connelly, who has been working as an assessor in the territory affected by this proposition, reports that the property owners are deeply interested in the proposed improvement. He says: "The river south of Florence has for a considerable time been forcing its way south and west of its original channel at a point directly north of Florence lake and it is well founded belief of nearly every one in that neighborhood that a sudden overflow may occur any time precipitate the course of the river and divert it from its present channel, force a passage for itself through Florence lake across by Cut-Off lake and through the many improvements made and in contemplation in East Omaha."

The property owners are much interested in this matter and had several conferences on the subject. Some time ago they directed me to communicate with Mr. Berlin and place all the facts before him. Mr. Berlin was already acting in every way to have the board act promptly. He thinks work will soon be started which will effectively protect the bank of the river where it is so dangerously threatened and preserve the present channel of the river.

A Western Claimant. NEW YORK, June 20.—[Special to THE BEE.]—John Kennedy of Idaho City has now been added to the many claimants for the property of William A. Kinimly, who died in 1874, leaving nearly $300,000, which is now on deposit with the state treasurer. Proof of his claim to be decedent's half brother will be taken before the referee appointed in the other cases.

SOUTH OMAHA'S HIGH SCHOOL, MAY HAVE TO ABANDON THE BUILDING.

Safety of the Structure Threatened by a New Grading Scheme.

If the Street is Cut as Proposed, It Will Leave the School Thirty Feet Above the Side-walk.

A petition is circulating among the property owners asking that the grade on L and Tenth-fourth streets be changed. The proposed change of grade will entail an expense of $20,000 to $30,000 on the school district, and then the property will have to be condemned, as it will be utterly useless for school purposes.

The high school is only a few years standing, having been built in 187 at a cost of $35,000. Since then it has had several additions and renovations until $50,000 have been expended upon it. Should the petition be granted this magnificent piece of city property must be abandoned. The street on which the school stands was graded a few years ago and a cut of some seventeen or eighteen feet made. The petitioners now request the city fathers to increase the cut six or eight feet more, thus raising the school nearly thirty feet above the level of the street.

Should this demand be agreed to it will necessitate the erection of a heavy stone wall to cost at least $10,000 in order to render the property anything like secure.

In the opinion of prominent members of the school board this costly wall would be at least but a temporary protection, and it would be but a few years before the school would have to be condemned and the property sold to the property owners.

Mr. Corwin's Successor. The Salt Lake Tribune says J. H. Young will be the next superintendent of the Utah division of the Union Pacific, succeeding Mr. Corwin, resigned. The new superintendent will take charge of his office on July 1 next, and it is understood Mr. Corwin will go to fair value for the carcass of the steer if the lump proved to be only an enlargement of the lump which he believed it to be. Some of the slaughtering houses would buy the steer subject to examination. They declined to do this until they were assured that which did not receive the inspector's approval.

The case was terminated by shooting the steer. The head was skinned and the tumor divided with a saw and it was examined by many interested in this case. All were satisfied that it was lump jaw and the injury of the head was serious.
