METROPOLIS OF THE HILLS.

Rapid City's Mayor Tells of His Country's Greatness.

Hon. J. M. Woods, an old-time citizen of Nebraska, but now mayor of Rapid City, S. D., was seen by a BEE reporter at the Paxton yesterday. The mayor was on the eve of departure for Calhoun for the purpose of shipping fourteen standard-bred mares purchased of B. H. Kendall of that place, at an average cost of $700 per head, to his Rapid City horse ranch, where Mr. Woods has 3,000 acres of land devoted to the breeding of fine stock, situated in the beautiful valley of the Rapid river, three miles below

"The Hills region," said Mr. Woods, "never presented such a beautiful and pros-perous picture as today. The growing crops are splendid and hill and plain are covered with a luxuriant growth of bunch grass for the fattening of the range herds. Large and early shipments of cattle will be made from that section to eastern markets and large numbers of young stock are being shipped in from Texas by rail to replenish the hearts?

The mining outlook Mr. Woods declared was equally promising. New and important gold and silver discoveries had been made and new and cheap methods of reducing the ore were made available by the discovery and opening of the great Newcastle coal fields on the southeastern border of the hills. With regard to the railroad enterprises in the young and vigorous candidate for metropolitan honors over whose destinies Mr. Woods presides as the chief executive officer, Woods presides as the chief executive officer, the gentleman said the contract for construction of the first section of the Dakota & Wyoming to be built west from Rapid City had been let to Messrs. Bancroft, Adams and Doty of Omaha. This road would connect Rapid City with the tin district and the coal fields and would intersect the Burlington at Hill City. It would transport vast quantities of coal, lumber and stone for the eastern part of the state and bring ores out of the mountains to Rapid City for reduction. The busitains to Rapid City for reduction. The business here for a short time was unprecedented and without parallel in the northwest. Rapid City had given a bonus of $100,000 to the project.

The project known as the Rapid City, Missouri River and St. Paul railway, which also had its birth in Rapid City, and of which Richard C. Lake of that place, was president. was also a fixed fact. The company was now engaged in securing right of way and would let a contract for grading and tieing the first forty miles from Rapid City east to the Cheyenne river within the next thirty days. From that point east this road would enter upon the lately ceded lands of the great Sloux reservation and would probably diverge to various connecting points on the Missouri river. necting points on the Missouri river.

The electric motor line extending from Rapid City five miles up the vailey to Canyon lake and the rugged mountain scenery, Mr. Woods said, was completed ready for the iron and the rails had been shipped a few days since.

Mr. Woods attested his faith in Omaha by Investing $50,000 spot cash in her realty in the Dundee Place a short time since, and declares that no correct approximation of her great future can be made without taking into consideration the boundless resources of the northwest for many hundreds of miles naturally tributary hereto. Rapid City, he says, is 500 miles from Omaha and is the next point designed by nature, whose plans are being executed by man, for building a great, populous, commercial and trade center.

De Witt's Little Early Risers. Best little pill ever made. Cure constipation every time. None equal. Use them now.

C. H. Smith & Co., dealers in school supplies, located at 1615 Howard street, of this city, have just received an order for 1,000 feet of their patent moulding for setting blackboard, from John Volk Co., contractors, Rock Island, Ill., to go into the finest high school building in Iowa, located at Cedar Rapids. This speaks well for their invention.

The front of the first floor is occupied by the two banking institutions of McCague Brothers-on the left of the corridor the original institution, the McCague Savings bank, and on the right the American National bank. The McCague Investment company has quarters with the savings bank. The National bank is finished in highly polished lark oak, which furnishes a striking contrast to the light oak in the room across the corridor. A mosaic floor of beautiful pattern and large plate glass windows, affording perfect light and ventilation, contribute toward placing the new quarters among the finest banking rooms in the city. The rest of the building is devoted to offices, and is nearly ready for its tenants. Some of the marble walnescoting in the main entrance is not yet in place, but inside of two weeks the finishing touches on the $160,000 structure will have been completed.

Deserted and Destitute. Mrs. A. B. Smith of 1222 North Twenty second street, is very anxious to ascertain the whereabouts of her husband, who disappeared Saturday night without leaving a word as to his future movements or intentions. Smith was employed as foreman of Reeves & Co.'s sewer gaug, and formerly worked for Hugh Murphy in Denver. When he re-turned home Saturday evening he had some words with his wife, and she finally went out to make some purchases, leaving their year old child, who is sick with whooping cough, in bed and in care of its father. When she returned the child was alone and Smith was gone, and an investigation showed that he had taken all his clothes with him. Since then he has not been beard from and Mrs. Smith is left absolutely penniless. She says that Smith did not stop to pay any of the bills, and that the grocer, outcher and landlord have each thirty day claims that are overdue. Mrs. Smith is left with the one child above referred to, and is now in a delicate condition. It is supposed that Smith has left the city, and the neighbrs have ta-

to the Court. Sensations in the courts are becoming so frequent that they are hable to lose some of their spice.

Monday Judge Davis raked a jury fore and aft and vesterday morning Judge Estelle placed a member of the bar on a hot griddle. The trouble all grows out of the Morehouse case, Some time ago George K. Morehouse represented the Chickering-Chase piano company as resident agent. As such agent he was, on March 5, last, charged with embezzling $1,370 of the company's funds. On the same day he was arrested, arraigned and plead not guilty. On April 10 the in-formation was filed in the office of the clerk of the district court. Three days later Morehouse was arraigned before Judge Estelle, when he pleaded not guilty. Ho was asked whether or not he had an attorney to defend him, to which he replied he had.

At that time he had employed George Smith, and had paid a retainer fee. A num-ber of consultations were held between lawyer and client and the defense was pre-

Last week Smith was called out of the city. The day after his departure Julius S. Cooley appeared before Judge Estelle and asked that he be appointed attorney to look after Morehouse's interests. He presented an affidavit from the accused, in which the latter stated that he was without funds to employ counsel, and asked that Cooley be appointed. As no person appeared to object the request was granted and Monday Cooley again appeared when the case was called for trial. He represented that More-ouse was without funds, and asked that the tate pay his witnesses. Judge Estelle made ne order and a large number of witnesses were summoned to appear forthwith.

The case was called, but Judge Estelle getting a pointer that some underhanded work had been performed, continued the hearing for the purpose of doing a little investigating. Smith had returned and when he found how matters stood, helped the judge with the work.

Yesterday when court convened, Judge Estelle read the riot act. He said: "It has come to my knowledge that some peculiar work has been performed in this matter. what I hear is true, a member of this bar has been guilty of unbecoming conduct towards another. Not only this, but a member of the bar has willfully lied to this court. This is a matter that cannot be allowed to pass unnoticed. An investigation must take place at the earliest possible moment. The dignity of the court and the honor of the bar must be sustained and to this end a most rigid investigation will be

The following committee was appointed and the first meeting will be held this even-ing behind closed doors: W. W. Keysor, J. B. Melkle, W. D. McHugh, C. N. Powell and An order was issued that until the committee concludes its labors, no person be allowed to converse with Morehouse. Morehouse in speaking of the matter said, Shortly after I was arrested I employed learge S. Smith to defend me. His terms were satisfactory and 1 made arrangements to pay him. A few days ago Cooley came to to pay him. A few days ago Cooley came to the jail and told me he could do me some good. He said he was a special friend of the judge and if I employed him he would see the judge and get him to pay all of the witness fees and it would not cost me a cent. I told him that I had employed Smith. He said that would not make any difference as he was a special friend of Smith's and they could work together on the case. I supposed it was the truth that he was telling me and I it was the truth that he was telling me and I let him go on with the case."

Mr. Cooley has, since April, been connected with the case, as the records show. He also has a note from Morehouse to Judge Estelle asking that Cooley be appointed to defend him, stating that he has no means to pay an attorney. Cooley says further that after he had been connected with the case for some time he met George Smith who for some time he met George Smith, who said he had also been retained by Morehouse, who told Smith also that he had no money to pay an attorney.

Relieved a Tardy Juror. Judge Davis is proving a terror to those jurors who have had an idea that they ran the courts of Douglas county. Yesterday the case of James P. Stower against Egbert and others was on trial. At the afternoon session one of the jurors of the panel was ten minutes late. He leisurely stroiled into the court room and was about to take his seat when the judge said, "You need not sit down there. Take a seat in the lobby and I will attend to your case after court adjourns. The man hustled outside the rail and the trial went on with eleven jurors in the box.

A Cure for Diarrhoea. Mr. J. A. Burnison of Colburg, Montgomory county, la., has found out how be can cure any case of diarrhoea. Two of his children had the disease, for about six weeks be tried four different patent medicines without benefit, but he finally got hold of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrheea Remedy, which he says completely cured them, and he is confident it will cure any case when the plainty printed directions are fol-

MEGEATH ON DE K.

New Turn in the Fight Over County Books. In the fight between Register Megeath and the two men, Atwood and Parrott, who were employed by the county commissioners to rewrite the numerical indices, Megeath holds the winning hand today. At an early hour yesterday the two men reported at the register's office. The books were not in the rack on the outside of the desk, but upon looking about they were dis-covered snugly tucked away in the corner, just inside Megeath's private room.

"We want those books," said the two young men, as they leaned against the counter and looked Megeath in the face.
"Some other day," smilingly responded Megeath, as he placed the thumb of his left hand to his nose and wiggled his fingers.

The game was up. Megeath had captured the books. The young men took replevin, claiming that the books in question are pub-lic property and that Megcath has no right withhold them. Megeath says that he knows what he is loing and is simply acting under the advice of his attorney, A Contribution from Texas. Mr. J. B. Boswell, one of the best known sitizens of Brownwood, Tex., contributes the following item as his personal experience:

"After having suffered from diarrhoen for some time and having tried different medicines with no good results, I tried a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhora Remedy, which relieved me at once, and I recommend it to all who may be suffering from this troublesome complaint."

Young Universalists. During the state conference of the Universalist church, held at the pariors of the First Universalist church, Nineteenth and Lathron streets, Kountze Place, a state society of young people was formed, to be known as the Young People's Christian Union of Nebraska. Delegates were spresent from several local unions throughout the state. The following officers were elected: Frank Brown, president, Lincoln, Neb.; Miss Laura Stockton, first vice president, Lincoln, Neb.; Miss Carrie Budlong, second vice president, Harvard, Neb.; Miss Emma Decker, third vice president, Mead! Neb.; Miss Edna Eaton, treasurer, Lincoln, Neb.; Walt M. Victor, secretary, Omaha, Neb.

The constitution provides that not only Universalists but members and local societies of all denominations may become members.

A local branch was also formed with a large membership. The following were the officers: Walt M. Victor, president; Mrs. Leaventon, vice president; Miss Nellie Cobb, treasurer; Mr. Lesile Sparrow, secretary. The new organization starts out with the most flattering prospects. Say!

A PAVING MOSAIC.

Mr. Morearty Wants One on Leavenworth Street.

Councilman Ed. Morearty of the Seventh ward has a plan for improving the condition of the cypress block payement on Leavenworth street from Sixteenth to Twenty ninth and on Park avenue from Leavenworth street to Hickory. As is well known the pavement is in such a condition as to make the streets next to impassable. Some time ago an ordinance was introduced providing for the repaving, but as the intersection fund was exhausted, the ordinance died. Now Mr. Morearty proposes to take a new turn and at some council meeting in the future will introduce dinance to repaye. He proposes that each block shall constitute an improvement district. The property owners will be al-lowed to select their material and after this is done the bonds will issue. He proposes that the specifications shall call for brick, stone and asphalt. In this way one block may be paved with brick, the next with stone and the next with asphalt. Regarding the intersections, the idea is to patch them up with the old blocks taken from the street and have the work performed under and by direction of the street commis-You can never know till you try how quickly a dose of Ayer's Pills will cure your sick headache. Your stomach and bowels
