PRESIDENT HARRISON'S TRIP.

Interview With the Chief Magistrate on His Recent Long Journey.

HOSPITABLE GREETINGS ON ALL HANDS.

People of all Sections in the South and West Did Everything in Their Power to Make it

NEW YORK, June 27 .- The World today prints an interview with President Harrison relative to his recent journey through the south and west. The president is quoted as follows: "My journey was of course an important event in my life. As a working lawyer, whose face has been, so to speak, held closely to the grindstone of active practice, I have not had the time I would have liked to spend in travel. My visit to the south and to the pacific country therefore was a series of daily surprises, and I experienced a keen sense of personal enjoyment and gratification from the beginning to the end.

"The mountain regions of the Carolinas of Tennessee and of Georgia with the new industrial communities which have sprung into existence cannot fail to interest the visitor from other sections of the country. The importance of these manufacturing towns should not be underestimated. They afford a vision of the great south that is to come, a south of increased industry, prosperity and material wealth. Places like Chattanooga and Hirmingham will become greater and greater as time passes, and there are those alive to ay who may behold another Pittsburg in many of them. "The reception received was a tribute of respect to the presidential office and of hospitality and courtesy towards the individual I can say without reservation that from first to last I was received with kindness by every body. As I strain my memory and review everything there was nothing that occurred that was unpleasant or annoving during my Our in the portion of the country that is po-litically opposed to me. I recall on several pecasions that small street boys ran out be-side the carriage and shouted. How are you, Ben! with knowing looks on their eager, childish faces. I refer to this to illustrate how observant I tried to be of all that oc-curred, no matter how triffing.

When I decided to go south I resolved to speak just as freely as I would in Indiana. I did not propose to enter into controversial discussions, but if in the course of remarks made to me in public I saw anything that I thought it my duty to answer I would do so without hesitation. Permit me to say that the regard for the national emblem—the flag of a common country—which I everywhere beheld was very agreeable. The men of the south realize today as they never did before that we have in the United States a great and nowerful nation of which they are proud. It is no longer, as formerly, 'I am a Caro-inian,' 'I am a Georgian,' or 'I am an Alabamian.' It is instead 'I am a citizen of the United States.' Not that they regard their states a whit less, for love of commonwealth remains fixed in the southern mind, as we all know. The changes are a step in the universal progress which we as Americans are experiencing, and I was glad and proud to recognize this tendency. The old time southerner generally led an "The old time southerner generally led an acricultural life in his land, surrounded by differential followers. He rode about, reviewed his possessions and, being thrown largely upon his own resources, thought much. His mental vision sought not to cross the boundaries of his state. Now the southern man is inclined to look beyond. and beholding the grandeur of the collected states is influenced thereby all of which states is influenced thereby, all of which argurs well for the future. "Nearly all the states I visited appeared extremely prosperous. As I approached searer and nearer to Texas I became more and more impressed by the opportunities which are enjoyed and are becoming appreduted by the people. The agricultural rich-tles that time will realize I see unlimited prosperity for those within her borders. 'I was received with warm hospitality by the Texans and my trip down through the midland counties to Galveston was attended by a general welcome from all. At Houston I was received by a committee from Galves-ton and somewhat prepared by them for the flattering demonstrations of my reception. My remarks upon reciprocity and upon the development of the trace of Galveston which ought to follow, among other things proper and much needed barbor improvements, were the result of my earnest convictions. If words have any meaning the responsible citizens of this southern metropolis understand as well as any others the advantages for themselves and to their state of progress in trade facilities. I uttered some strong words concerning the need of improvement of waterways for Galveston, which subsequent reflections has intensified.

"I held interesting conversations with many prominent citizens, one, for instance, with Governor Hogg, whom I found to be a progressive and enlightened man. I have seen the governor since and he gave me information which will, I think result well for the future of his state. His earnestness in re-pressing lawlessness in certain sections will result favorably to lamigration in Texas, an empire of itself which has a great hereafter." The president related an incident appropos of his visit to Galveston. The people were enthusiastic over his speech, and after his return to Washington a request was sent to Representative Craine of the "Shoestring district," as it is called, which contains Galveston, to get the Texas delegation together and call at the white house and congratulate the president in behalf of the city. Craine, who is somewhat of a wag, telegraped back "That is all very well, but you have not co sidered the president's message." Gener

Harrison recites this anecdote with twinkling "California," he continued, "like Texas was a new country to me. I had previously visited the northern Pacific slope, Oregon and the Puget Sound districts. The characteristic exuberance of California hospitality poured on me until I felt there was no limit. In the infrequent intervals when not occupied by the attentions of the people I feasted my eyes upon the rich fruits, the gorgeous flowers and the peculiar and varied natural attractions the climate develops. I spoke when it was fitting that I hould do so, and the sense of pleasure which was engendered at the commencement of the trip attended me throughout California and intinued until I returned to Washington, "If all men were permitted to derive as much personal satisfaction from a tour throughout their@country as myself, I think the span of human existence would be in-

Ex-Senator Moody Talks About the Interior Department. Washington Bureau of The Bee, 513 Fourteenth Street, Washington, D. C., June 27.

DOESN'T UNDERSTAND INDIANS.

Ex-Senator Moody of Deadwood, S. D., is at the Ebbit. He came on professional business and will remain till some time next week. He says he is out of politics, but makes this reservation: "President Harrison's administration has been satisfactory, but we think the interior department has made a big mistake in its treatment of the Indians. The people of the Dakotas, who are near them, think they know something about what ought to be done in this matter. The Indians should be taught to take care of themselves so that they can become citizens and be merged with the great population of the west. They should be taught that it pays to be friendly, and the friendly Indians ought to be dealt with fairly. The hostiles should be put down easily. One of the greatest mislakes ever made was the policy pursued in the treatment of the Indians. South Dakota will give a good republican ma-lerity next year. Our prospects are fine for large crops this year."

State Normal Training School Finishes the Year. YANKTON, S. D., June 27. - (Special Telegram to THE BEE. |-The closing exercises of Santee normal straining school of the American Missionary association commenced yesterday. This completes the twentieth year of the school, which is the oldest in the country for the higher industrial, normal and biblical training of Indians. Public examinations took place yesterday and the principal's reception in the evening. Today the industrial exposition exhibited a large amount of work from the blacksmith, shoe and carpenter shops, farm products and the printing office. This evening the Christian Endeavor society will hold its meeting and on Sunday evening the Indian Young Men's Christian association. Monday will be taken up with a parade of cadets and the literary exercises.

A large number of distinguished guests are present, among whom are Dr. Dorchester, superintendent of Indian schools; Dr. F. P. Woodbury, secretary of the American Missionary association of New York; Hon, J. C. Jacobs, one of the Indian commissioners; Rev T. L. Riggs, missionary from Cheyonne river agency; Rev. James F. Cross of Rose-bud agency; A. Waples, M. D. of Ann Arbor, Mich., and a large number from Yankton, Creighton, Niobrara and Springfield. The principal, Rev. A. L. Roggs, D.D., has devoted his life and education to devel this school and a system of training and education for Indians. The pupils of the school are scattered in every reservation from the Sascatchewan to the Platte as teachers, preachers and missionaries, and include men as Dr. Charles Eastman, M. D., of

Ridge agency; Rev. John Eastman of the Presbyterian church at Flandreau; Rev. Jo-seph Hopkins of Devil's Lake, N. D. M. McKnight obeyed his orders and today there are many long faces in Red Cloud. L. P. Albright, until recently the cashier and supposed to understand the affairs of the bank, says that he knows of nothing that would cause anything of the kind. The bank was reorganized about a month ago and new officers were appointed and elected and at once they commenced to make extensive improvements, which of course was looked at with favorable eyes by the people of this city. Nothing definite can be learned from those in charge at present. The stockholders of the First National bank, which failed a month ago, think they should by this time know the condition of the institution, as the bank has been under an examination for a month past. The general feeling is that the bank will resume operations in a few days. J. M. McKnight, the examiner in charge, is at present very much rushed with business in his line, and a more surprised community would be hard to find. About a month ago the First National bank failed and is now in the hand of a receiver.

Shot Himself in the Head. Manison, Neb., June 27,- Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-Herman Dyurssen, a farmer living about three miles north of town, committed suicide sometime yesterday by shooting himself in the head with a 32calibre revolver. He was found in bed by Moses Head, a neighbor, who found Dyorssen's horses loose and took them home. The coroner was notified and at once went to the farm, but no inquest was held, as it was too plain a case of suicide. He had evidently taken nearly an ounce of accounte, as the empty vial was found in the bed together with two loaded revolvers. No cause can be assigned for the rash act, as his ficancia affairs; are in 20001 condition, owning a fine farm, a large amount of personal property, including several hundred dollars in the bank. Our Jolly Jack Tars to Be Given an Insight Into Actual Warfare.

PLANS LAID LOWN BY SECRETARY FRACY.

Chilian Congression al Party Delegates Have Not as Yet Made Known

the Object of Their Mission.

WASHINGTON, June 27. - For the first time in the history of this country we are to have a series of naval managavres involving the problems of actual warfare as presented in an attack on one of our great maritime ports by a foreign naval force and its defense by the American navy. For years past Great Britain, France, Italy and other European powers have annually practiced similar manorives, sometimes, as in the case of Great Britain, at heavy expense, but the results have been so important as to justify the expenditure. In the case of the United States there has been since the war no naval force adequate to carry out managuvres of any value. The squadron of evolution was formed with such a purpose in view, but until recently it was not sufficiently numerous to undertake the solution of the larger naval war problems, and its operations were limited to great gun practice and fleet evolutions. With the recent additions to the naval list, however, this obstacle has disappeared, and Secretary Tracy has prepared a sche ne to carry out his views, which will be given effect at once.

The first movement will be to attach the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius and the torpedo boat Cushing temporarily to the squadron of evolution, and orders to that end have already been made out. Admiral Walker has also been directed "to propare immediately a programme of managuvres for the summer and early autumn which will dispose of the forces under your command to the best advantage and confer practical training on the officers and men under conditions fol owing as closely as possible those of actua warfare. It is futended that the manocuvre shall follow as soon as may be convenient upon the preliminary operations at Boston and New York to take place in July, the practical object of which is to examine the conditions of the problem of the maritime defense of New York, Long Island Sound and the east of Newfoundland." It is expected that the doubled turreted monitor Mianonounah, now at New York, will be completed in time to take part in the manocuvres. There will be but one torpedo boat engaged, so that a full demonstration of the efficacy of their class of offensive vessels cannot be thoroughly demonstrated, but arrangements have been made to supply her under conditions approaching those of actua The proposed evolutions, according to Secretary Tracey's views, will be of large practi-cal results. The defects of the new ships, if they have any, will be fully revealed and their actual capacity at offensive and de-fensive forces will be demonstrated. There will also be opportunities in plenty for the display of individual enterprise and practical skill on the part of the officers and of discipline and markmanship on the part of the men. Among the results of the English naval manuscress were the revelations of starting defects in the systems of coaling engine construction and marine design, which have since been followed by notable changes in the English navy, and it is presumed that valuable results will follow Admiral Walker's manusuvres, with fish torpedoes, which will thus be given their first trial in American naval operations
