Hebraka Loyal Legion Feasts with Commander-in-Chief Hayes. PLEASANT MEETING OF GRAY BEARDS. Personal and Appearance of the Banquet Through-General Hayes' Response to the Welcome Toast—Other Features.

Mitsunmer banquets as a rule are inclined to be somewhat tedious and commonplace, the possibly to the weather and the thousand and one distractions which usually obtain in cities at the height of the summer season. But the banquet given last evening at the Omaha club in honor of General Rutherford B. Hayes, commander-in-chief of the Loyal Legion of the United States, by the Nebraska committee of that patriotic organization, was a delightful exception to the banquets given in the dog days.

Along the L-formed table gray beards and gray hairs largely predominated. Age had marked with his finger nearly all the members of the order present, and it was like looking down a long vista of years to gaze in the faces of the guests as they sat at the proper tables of the living ex-presidents of the United States, and what is still dearer to the average Legionite's heart, their worthy commander-in-chief, the successor to one of the heroes of the war, General Phil Sheridan.

It was a distinguished gathering for there were present men famous in the civil and military life of the nation, in the past and present. It was very reminiscent of the "Old Guard" of the days of the Little Corporal. In the midst of this assemblage one head showed a somewhat unusual feature. It seemed to have been touched by the Frost King, more harshly than the rest—it was the hair of the host of the evening. Yet there were few lines of care on the forehead, and the eyes were clear and bright as if they were young.

There was little attempt at lavish floral display along the banquet table. Here and there a rose bush, a geranium, or a carnation, while an engerie or two gave additional color to the L-shaped mahogany. The beauty of the collation was in the menu which told its own story in the following manner: Consumme Royale. Queen Sherry. Roast Spring Chicken. French Potatoes. Fillet of Beef Larded. Brown Potatoes. Perrier Juice. Tomato and Onion Sauce. Raspberries and Cream. Grackers.

After the raspberries and cream had been consumed and the cigars were lighted Major J. W. Paddock, the tall poplar of the Pappio, by virtue of his position as commander of the Nebraska State Militia, in the presence of the master of ceremonies and in beginning the flow of reason.

"Comrades, before proceeding to the lecture and more pleasing part of the entertainment, I beg leave to tell you that I received a letter from the recorder-in-chief of the Loyal Legion, Mr. W. L. Hayes, and he is going to accord to the commander-in-chief the regard due him, for it is worthy of it." "Comrades," said the speaker, "I am glad to see you here, and I am glad to see you going to accord to the commander-in-chief the regard due him, for it is worthy of it."

with others was drowned in terrible hurried manner, and his body has been interred in the naval cemetery here. MAY SETTLE IT. Ryan & Walsh's Case to be Considered by the Commissioners. There is now a bare possibility that the famous case of Ryan & Walsh against Douglas county will not reach the supreme court. As everybody knows, Ryan & Walsh were the county hospital contractors. The building was completed, and when turned over to the county there was a claim of $77,000 that Douglas county would not pay. This amount included a lot of extras for which the county claimed it was in no wise bound. Ryan & Walsh said the county had to pay, and at once filed a writ of certiorari with the county attorney Mahoney who was willing to admit an indebtedness of $25,000 on the original contract, but would not allow one dollar for extras.

THEIR AND PATRISME. Dr. Patton Talks on the Religious Fight of Today. New York, July 6.—The Rev. Dr. Francis L. Patton, president of Princeton College, will preach each Sunday in the Central Presbyterian church in this city. He occupied the pulpit there for the first time yesterday morning. He said, in part: "There is much to be said for the religious revival movement. Men who deal with the body and who take cognizance only of material matters are likely to overlook the mind. The crucial question is not of the existence of the mind, but whether it is in one great whole, or whether it is separated in other words, the light today is not between atheism and religion, but between theism and pantheism. There is no excuse for men who do not believe in God. They are in a sorry state. We have only five senses. Suppose we had but one. We should then only perceive one-fifth of what we now perceive. Suppose we had two. Then we could perceive twice as much as we do now. When we are an immortal being, we shall be able to see things as they are, and not as they appear to be."

DEATH OF A WEALTHY MRS. He Expires in a Hovel Grasping His Violin and Gold. SAN JOSE, Cal., July 6.—Prof. Herman Kittinger, at one time a famous violinist and a creditable educator in the city of San Jose, died yesterday in a mean little shanty at 414 Colfax street. Although worth hundreds of thousands of dollars and with $20,000 in gold hidden in the bedclothes beneath him, he would not spend a cent for medicine and for weeks he had absolutely starved. He was seventy years old and came here sixty years ago with a string of beads. He often refused a fortune for this violin and his writings of books speedily made him famous. He was the author of a number of prose works and poems, an elementary history of the world and numerous text books on music and violin playing. He had tried his skill with the oars within the last few days.

MADE HIS MARRIAGE. A Beautiful Girl Follows Her Faith—Less Love Across the Sea. HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., July 6.—A well-dressed man and a young lady of probably twenty-six came here and consulted Justice Carpenter a few days ago. The man was the lawyer of the young woman, whose name was Marie Richards, and that she had been deserted by her lover, Leo Graber, who she believed, was then staying in Highland Falls. Four years ago the girl met Graber in the village in which they both lived, in Alton, Germany, and she became his accepted sweetheart. Graber was ordered in the German army and was ordered to Africa. Before he went he gave her a diamond ring and a promise of fidelity. When his term of service here expired he returned to New York. He found his wife, and she was then a widow. She met the attorney referred to. He became interested in the case and ascertained that Leo had been in the army and was in Africa. He inquired at the banking house of Lazarus & Co. of Wall street. It was learned that he had requested that a draft be sent to him from New York. He met the attorney referred to. THE BEST MARKET.

The claims made by friends here that the South Omaha market is the best in the west is corroborated on every side, but by none more conclusively than by our rivals. The Kansas City Drovers Journal of last Tuesday gives the whole matter away when it says that Omaha has had a sale of 300 head of steers, and that the market was better than any other place in the west.
