Thrilling Story of an Eye Witness—One Wound a Foot in Length—May Result Fatally.

WINSTON, Neb., July 24.—[Special Telegram to The Bee.]—David Crockett, a cowboy about nineteen years old, claiming to be a descendant of old Davy Crockett, went to the farm of old William McKenzie for whom he had been hiring cattle, to secure a balance of $10 due him.

Who struck the first blow can't be determined. Crockett fell and McKenzie jumped on top of him and began pounding him and I pulled him off and helped carry Crockett into Cole's house. The weapon was a common pocket knife and entered two inches above Crockett's left nipple and penetrated to the depth of about two inches.

Physicians from here were quickly summoned and dressed the wounds. The men are doing well. Crockett's chances are fair to recover owing to the fact that he is in good physical condition. No arrests have been made. County Attorney Wright claims he can do nothing without a formal complaint in hand.

REMARKABLE STORY OF PIONEER DAYS.

An Ancient Alliance of a Royal Englishman and a Daughter of the American Forest-Caring Trouble.

CHICAGO OFFICE OF THE BEE. Robert S. Sumnerin is the name of a San Antonio lawyer whose mission in Chicago is to cause a good deal of excitement among property owners.

He has been on the steps of the government building in front of the city hall, and the aggregate value of which is at least $3,000,000 and to which the present holders have no more title than you have.

Mr. Sumnerin represents heirs in various parts of Texas whose title to this property he says is as complete as possible and he is here for the purpose of instituting legal proceedings in the federal court to establish their claims.

The story is a most remarkable one. In 1874, when the land on which Chicago now stands was a vast stretch of prairie and marsh, and the only habitations were Indian tepees, and the governmentarrison known as Fort Dearborn, an aristocratic English family fell in love with an Indian princess.

As a result of this union four children were born, two sons and two daughters. The father was killed in 1827, married a Colonel Jameson, another officer at the fort.

Mr. Sumnerin has in his possession a time-stamped deed in which Colonel Holliday is carefully guarded phrases broke to his aristocratic ancestor, and he held title to all the land between what is now Patterson avenue and Thirty-ninth street, and from Crawford avenue to the lake.
