It has the same general characteristics as to climate, surface, soil and productions as other eastern parts of the state. It is 36 miles long from north to south and 24 miles in width, and contains twenty-four townnips of thirty-six sections each, or about

The wind blows here, just as it does in Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, and other level states. There has never been a cyclone in Nebraska, whereas states further east have been scarcely free from them for a single season. The Fremont, Eikhorn and Missouri Valley railroad traverses the county from south-east to northwest, dividing it into two nearly equal parts, with a branch running south from Oakdale. They Bad Been Furnished with a Copy of the President's Proclamation But Totally Lisregarded It.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7 .- Captain Coulson, ommanding the revenue cutter Rush, reports to the treasury department under date of Ounglaska, July 9, that on the 6th inst., while cruising to the northward of Unimak pass with his command for the purpose of warning vessels in pursuit of seals not to enter Behring sea he fell in with the British schooner E. B. Marvin, Caleb McDougal, master, of Victoria, B. C., having on board twenty-three men and all the implements-rafts, etc., necessary sor scaling. Upon being naited Captain Me-Dougall said he was sealing. Captain Coulson therefore lowered a boat and sent Lieutenants Newcomb and Cantwell to board and thoroughly examine the vessel. It was then ascertained that the Marvin had been boarded on July 1 by the United States ship Thetis near the island of Unga and furnished with a copy of the president's proclamation and the necessary warning was given to the maser not to enter Behring sea for the purpose of sealing. On that occasion the master said of sealing. On that occasion the master said he had no seal skins on board. He refused to allow the boarding officer of the Thetis to endorse on his register the fact that he had been notified and is reported as being otherwise "uncivil." On examination by the officers of the Rush two fresh seal skins were found on heard. The evident intention of the master. poard. The evident intention of the master to continue sealing notwithstanding the warning was considered sufficient by Captain Coulson to justify the seizure of the vessel. Lieutenant W. Quinan was placed on board and the vessel, crew, arms, seal skins, papers, etc., were delivered into the custody of Licutenaut Commander Mead, U. S. N., commanding the steamer Alkill, and were subsequently turned over to Captain Turner of her British majesty's ship Nymph, which arrived at Ounalaska on the 7th inst. It is loarned from other sources that this company has already secured this number of skins and that open sealing has been entirely suspended for

Blaine Says Dr. Baldwin Came Over Merely to Call Socially. BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 7 .- Mr. Emmons Blaine said to a representative of the Associated press tonight. "There is nothing in the report that Dr. Baldwin is coming to Bar Harbor to see my father professionally. If he is coming to Bar Harbor at all my father knows nothing about it. He has not been sent for and my father has no need of his services. My father has not taken any medicine for nearly two months. He is as well as usual, very well indeed, and is gaining all the time. As to the reported visit of ex-Col-lector Erhardt, I can say nothing. I do not know that he is coming and up to this time I know he has not called on my father.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 7.—Dr. William W. Baldwin of Florence, Italy, the specialist in nervous diseases, was at his old home in Birmingham today. In conversation with a support of Privales Baldwin the special reporter Dr. Charles Baldwin, the specialist's brother, said that the doctor came to the United States partly on business, and added: "I my brother will call on Mr. Blame he returns." At this juncture Dr. Williams appeared. He said in response to questions:
"I have not seen Mr. Blaine. I cannot say whether I will call on him or not. It is not the duty of a physician to announce such matters to the public. The public has nothing whatever to do with my business and it will not know whether I shall see Mr. Blain Then, turning to his brother, he or not." "Charles, you should not have given this to the reporters. You don't know whether I shall see Mr. Blaine or not, I did not tell you." Dr. Charles during this speech listened with a smile, not saying a word. Dr. William Baldwin left for Bar Harbor Preparing an Answer. TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 7.-S. M. Scott of Mc-Pherson, the alliance lecturer, to whom has been entrusted the sub-treasury agitation, is preparing an article in answer to the letter written by Colonel Harris of Leavenworth. He said today that the statements made about the alliance renouncing the sub-treasury scheme were entirely without foun-dation. "In every county which has as yet voted on the sub-treasury," he said, "it has been endorsed overwhelmingly. It has been apparent to many of the alliance leaders that they must endorse the sub-treasury if the people's party organization in its present form is pre-served. It has never been endorsed by the national alliance convention and the Kansas state alliance has never considered it. It cannot therefore be made a test of alliance faith, but from a political standpoint it is a necessity. It was incorporated in the peo-pio's party platform at Cincinnata and the ork done by this convention-platform and all-has been approved by nearly every sub alliance in the state.

MISS REED VICTORIOUS.

She Beats Out the Central Park School Kickers.

It was almost too warm yesterday to enjoy comedy, but the committee on teachers and text books had the benefit of a serio-comic play at the board of education rooms that proved to be quite interesting. It was the difficulty that has arisen over the principalship of the Central Park school. Mr. French appeared before the committee to present the complaints that were be urged against Miss Reed principal of the school About twenty of Miss Reed's friends were present to refute the charges, and the meetng proved to be very animated. Some of the charges were very extraordinary and provoked considerable amuse-ment. In one instance the principal was charged with having told one boy that no was "like his dad, a horse jockey and a gambler." In another the accusers allered that Miss Reed had told one boy that his that Miss Reed had told one boy that his head was so red that he should not stand near the other pupils for he might set them on fire; that she told another boy that he was a fool; that she had jerked another boy out of the line while the children were marching, and kicked him in the back. Then as a matter of variety, the principal was represented as having tied one lad to a sert for a whole week. She had informed another young hopeful that she would "knock his infernal head off.'

All the above allegations were quite successfully refuted by the testimony of pupils and teachers in the Central Park school, and the committee appeared to be pretty well convinced that the charges had been, to a very large extent, the result of personal spite brought about by the unruliness of two or three boys who happen to have indulgent

COUNSELED TOGETHER. Members of the Real Estate Owners' Advisory Board in Session. There was a meeting of the advisory board of the Real Estate Owners' association last night at which several very important matters were discussed. Colonel Scott was present and was asked to state something about his experience in presenting the claims of Omaha upon the next national republican convention before the national committee. Colonel Scott said he had been very cordially received by the national committee at Washington, and he considered that Omaha had a very good show to becure the convention if the proper effort was made. Dr. Mercer, Mr. G. W. Linnger, Mr. J. S. Reed, Cadet Taylor, Mr. D. J. O'Donahue, Mr. W. J. Connell and others spoke earnestly upon the subject and the consensus of opinion seemed to be that Omaha should push right ahead and do everything possible to secure the convention. The meeting then took up a discussion of the alleged disappearance of the $150,000 paid into the treasury of Douglas county as a sinking fund for the purpose of meeting the bonds voted to aid the construction of the Union Pacific bridge in 1866. The committee appointed to look into this matter submitted a partial report and was continued to make urther investigation before formal action Some remarks were made about the smeiter strike, but on account of the meeting ap-pointed for today at Dr. Miller's office no formal action was deemed necessary or CHANCE FOR SETTLEMENT.

Probability of the Adjustment of the Smelting Works Difficulties. There appears to be some prospect of an early settlement of the difficulty between the employees of the smelting works and th company. Dr. George L. Miller has inaugurated the movement that may eventually bring about an amicable settlement of the difficulty. The statement was made last night at a late hour to a reporter for THE BEE by an influential business man that Dr. Miller and a few other gentlemen had called upon Mr. Barton yesterday and after discussing the situation thoroughly they had succeeded in getting Mr. Barton to promise that he would make some concesions if the employes would no the same. It was then agreed that another meeting should be held today at 10 o'clock at Dr Miller's office at which a committee from the employes, a dozen of the prominent business men of the city and Mr. Barton will attempt o arrive at a satisfactory adjustment of the causes which led to the strike and shutdown at the Omaha and Grant smelting works. OMAHA IN BRIEF.

PERSECUTED HER TO DEATH.

Brutal Enemies Caused Catharine Barth to Commit Snicide.

FATAL EFFECT OF WHITE CAP NOTES.

Driven to Desperation By Insults and Maticions Standers, a Pretty St. Louis Girl Ends Her Own Life.

Sr. Louis, Mo., Aug. 7. The case of Catherine Barth, the pretty South St. Louis giri girl who was driven to her death by the malicious persecution of her neighbors, is a sad one. The details of the story were made public today at the inquest over the remains, Some facts were revealed at the inquisition which were now to the family and will make trouble for parties who harassed the girl to her death, if the threats of the frenzied brother and agonized father made this morning are carried out. Miss Barth was a beautiful girl, 25 years of age, and her conquests in the neighborhood had aroused the jealous ire of several young women, who a few months ago poured insultng communications through the mail to Miss Barth, and, not satisfied with the fifthy doggeral printed on the sheets, wrote sentences and charges and called her names unfit for publication. A sickness which caused Misa Barth's detention in a hospital was referred to by the parties hounding her in the most cruel manner. June 25 she received a letter which she put in detectives' hands to learn its source, and in the epistle she be charged with murder and other crimes at ordered to leave the neighborhood and city or the writer would make it dangerous for her and her family. The letter was signed by "Morrison White Caps." Miss Barth did not discover who wrote it, though she said on receiving it that she felt quite positive she knew, but would not mention the party's name until she could prove her suspicious correct. The most harrowing chapter in this systematic persecution was told by Mrs. Barth, mother of the girl, today. The name of a Broadway line conductor still employed on the road is prominently mentioned. He is a married man, but it is said that he endeavored to force his attentions upon Miss Barth against her expressed wishes. Mrs. Barth claims that because her daughter persistently refused to associate with him or recognize him he sent his young daughter to the Barth residence to call the young lady names. This was testified to by several witnesses. On one occassion Miss Barth, incensed by the repeated insults of the girl, struck her, and the next evening she was met in the alley harder of the providence by the way met. alley back of her residence by the man re-ferred to, who beat her about the face and neck until she bled at the mouth, nose and ears. Mrs. Barth, the mother, said nothing of this asmother, said nothing of this as-sault to her husband or son for fear of a tragedy, and this, with many more stories of outrage and abose, was heard by the father and the brother for the first time this morn-

It was also asserted by the family and neighbors that the enemies of Miss Barth, some of whom were made known today, went among the neighbors and told many scandal ous stories about the young indy, which caused the neighbors to shuu and insult ber every time she appeared on the street. This persecution was carried on for six or eight months.

Driven to desperation by these taunts and landers, and scorned by those to whom the tried to explain or deny them, the girl do cided to take her life, and last Sunday even-ing swallowed several ounces of rat poison. It only had the effect of sickening her, and, seeing herself recover, Miss Barth went to a neighboring drug store, where the clerk without question sold her two sunces of arsenic. She sat in the garden until her parents had retired and then swallowed the dose, which was enough to kill many persons. This also sickened her and she vomited the greater part of it, but enough remained in her system to cause her death Monday night. Although the physicians made a desperate attempt to force a stomach pump into the young woman's mouth she fought them off, and in her grim resolution to dio succeeded in preventing all attempts to save her life until she became too weak to resist. morning. A verdict of suicide was rendered

Electric Street Railways. H. H. Five roads operated by horse power cost on the average $759,609.25, or $41,283 per mile. Five rouds using electricity as a motive power on the average $241,628, or on the average These figures $36,000 per mile. These figures show in favor of electrical equipments per mile of track of $5,283 less than horse roads, and $314,000 less than cable. Assuming 10 per cent for depreciation, the
