THE OMAHA BEE. NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS.

Baldwin Block Narrowly Escapes Being Burned to the Ground.

ONE MAN VERY SEVERELY INJURED.

Damages By the Flames Confined Entirely to the Offices on the Sixth Floor-Department Service Not Required.

Wright & Baldwin had intended to move into their new quarters in the Baldwin block today, but they have changed their minds and will not move in until some time in the future. The cause of their change was a little biaze that took place in the top story of the block yesterday afternoon. Harry Lenox, a painter, was at work cooking a bowlful of the wax finish with which the floor was being covered, with the aid of a gasoline stove. In some way the stuff became ignited and commenced to burn furiously. He picked it up in his hands and set it on the floor, white Philip Lee, the janitor, ran for some water. The blaze was soon extinguished without the aid of the fire department, although the companies were on the round soon after the aisrm was sent in. Lenox's right band and arm were badly surned and Lee had one side of his head and scorched. Neither of them were seri usly injured.

The damage done by the flames was confined entirely to the offices on the sixth floor. A large hole was burned in the floor, the casement of one of the large folding doors was almost entirely ruined and the walls were so charred and blackened by the smoke that it will be necessary to renovate the whole room. The damage is estimated at

After the fire department arrived on the scene and found out that their services would not be needed they got out the "ele-phant" truck and proceeded to make an experiment, to see whether it would be of any ner ment, to see whether it would be of any use should a large brick block ever catch fire. The men were a trifle green in managing it, but it was finally put in place and a man was sent up the ladder to the fifth floor. Whether the chief of the department came to the conclusion that the experiment was a success is not known, but it amused a large crowd of spectators, anyway.

Will Break the Assignment.

The Eiseman assignment hobbed to the front again yesterday in the shape of a suit commenced in the district court, in which the plaintiffs were nearly as numerous as the names in a city directory, and the defendants Henry Eiseman, Rice, Stix & Co., Stix, Krause & Co. and Officer & Pusey. The petition. which is very voluminous, states that judgments were secured in the surperior court last April against Henry Eiseman & Co. by the following parties and for the following amounts: Arnold, Constable & Co., $2,837.37; Oppenheim, Collins, & Co., $908.50; Switzer & Schussel, $203.95; R. The names of the parties are the names of the plaintiffs in the

The whole story of the assignment of the firm of Eiseman & Co. is then gone over in detail, with exhibits of the various mortgages and trust deeds that prededed the assignment, and the assignment itself. It is alleged that the mortgages and the assignment were fraudulent and executed for the express purpose of giving the preference to the firms of Rice, Stix & Co., Stix, Krause & Co., and Officer & Pusey, who are made conferences.

The plaintiffs allege that the Eisemans are in reality the owners of the stock and fix-tures of the clothing store of which L. Otenhelmer is the nominal owner, at 414 tenhelmer is the nominal owner, at 414 Broadway, and that Ottenhelmer holds it for the purpose of concealing it from the creditors of the firm. They further claim that S. P. MacConnell, the assignment that be assignment and the chatter mortgages and knows that the Eisemans are the real owners of Ottenhelmer's store, but that he refuses to of Ottenhelmer's store, but that he refuses to take steps to set aside the mortgages or the assignment. The petition al-leges that personal property to the amount of $71,000 was sold and paid over to MacConnell and is now held by him on account of notices of garnishment. On these grounds the of garnishment. On these grounds the plaintiffs ask that the mortgages and the assignment be sot aside, and that Ottenheimer's place be declared to belong to Eiseman & Co., and that it be placed in the hands of the creditors; that the noney in the hands of the assigned may be declared subject to the liens of the plaintiffs, and that all the property may be sold and the proceeds turned into court for the benefit of the creditors.

Judge McGee put in his whole time yesterday, with a balf hour taken out for dining purposes, in hearing the case of William John Lauber, who raised the disturbance at the Danish picnic at Big Lake last Sunday afternoon. The room was crowded with witnesses who had been subported to tell what they knew about the affair. The attorneys for the defense tried to show that there was no real evidence to show that their clients had done damage themselves, but the weight of the evidence was overwhelmingly against them. At the conclusion the court assessed a fine of $50 and costs against each of the fellows, and fixed their appeal bond at $100. # A MODEL OFFICE BUILDING.

How the New Shugart Block Looks Since Its Transformation and the Busy People Who Inhabit It.

For the past three months workmen have been engaged in remodeling the Shugart block, one of the most prominent and imposing buildings in the city. It was built about eight years ago, largely for commercial purposes, with the upper stories devoted to large apartments and halls, but before the era of modern conveniences. It was one of the best blocks the city to commence with, and last spring Mr. E. L. Shugart decided to add every improvement that could be suggested or required. The work of remodeling was begun at the top, and the transformation was continued to the basement. The work has been finished and the result is one of the finest commercial and office buildings in the west. The block could not be better situated, having a frontage on three of the best streets in the city, Main, Pearl and First avenue, on the opposite corner from the Grand hotel and facing that pride of the city and envy of all other cities, Bayliss park. The changes inluded the cutting up of the large hall on the fourth floor formerly used by the Iowa business college, the remodeling of the offices on the lower floors and the addition of a rapid passenger elevator at the Pearl street entrance. In addition to these improvements are all the modern conveniences, steam heat, water, gas, electric lights, baths, lavatories, closets, etc.

All the offices, or a majority of them, are en suite. Each floor is provided with a double vault, there being seven vaults altogether, giving each tenant the use of a burgiar and fire proof receptace for his valuables. The extensive frontage gives every office and suite outside windows with street views and plenty of air and sunshine. All the windows are protected with bard wood inside blinds. There are few small offi-ces in the building, but all of them are airy and comfortable. Unlike many office buildings, where what should have been simply a four-story structure is di-vided into six or seven floors, the ceilings in the Shugart building are twelve and fourteen feet high. The with skylights that carry the sunshine down to the second floor. The wall ornomentation is rich and modest, and the moulded. The apartments are so convenient and desirable that all but four have been taken by busified and professional men on long leases, and the remaining ones will not be vacant long, The block has two entrances, the elevator on Pearl street and a broad, easy stairway on Main street. Adjoining the elevator and opposite the Grand hotel on the ground floor is the commodious suite of offices occupied by Day & Hess. F. J. Day is one of the pioneer real estate brokers of the city. and a short time ago he widened the scope of his business by forming a part-nership with Mr. J. P. Hess, a name familiar to all old residents of western lowa, and stocks, bonds, securities, etc., are now handled. They have elegant quarters, and their business is as pernament as their location. There is no firm in the west that stands in closer touch with eastern capital or whose ousiness covers a wider territory.

Occupying offices in the same apart-ments is the Manawa Ice company, a healthy organization that has grown into adult proportions in the last season. It is the only company in the Twin Cities that handles lake ice, the clearest and purest crystal to be obtained any-where. During the past season five wagons have been insufficient to fill the orders of their Council Bluffs customers. Every pound of the thousands of tons packed last winter will be sold at retail his summer. They control the Lake Manawa harvest, and next winter they will pack for the wholesale and retail A prominent suite of offices located in the basement on the Pearl street front has been leased by Edward Wright, the stenographer and typewriter. Mr. Wright is devoting his time to legal stenographic and short hand work, and the prominence of the location has been a disadvantage to him during the summer, and he has found that he could do his work better at his residence. Since the changes were made the office is much pleasanter and more convenient than ever, and he has made up his mind to sub-lease it if he can do so in the next ew weeks. It has a south and west front, all conveniences, and large bank rault, and is one of the finest offices in the building. The lower floor on the Main street and First avenue is occupied by the Cit-izen's State bank, one of the most prominent banking houses in the city, and the strongest financial institution in northwestern Iowa. It was established in 1882, and has grown with the most remarkable vigor from the start. At the present time the deposits reach almost one million dollars, and the total resources and liabilities round up almost one and a quarter millions. The bank's location is very pleasant, although the quarters are rather too small for the great volume of business transacted. The conveniences are all modern, and the vault is one of the largest and safest in the west. It is a some what remarkeble fact that a larger number of young men make the Citizens' their depository than any other bank in the city, and a larger number of country banks do their business through i than through any other financial institution in the western part of the state. The Council Bluffs Insurance company occupies a finely situated suite of apartments on the second floor, and their coms are filled with the desks of as busy a set of clerks and employes as there are in the city. The front room facing the park on Pearl street and First avenue corner is the private office of President A. T. Flickinger, and adoining are the offices of Flickinger Brothers, attorneys for the company, The large central room with half a dozen windows opening on the main work room of the company, and at the largest desk near the center of the row sits Secretary J. Q. Anderson, who is perhaps the hardest worker in the entire building. The company is one of the strongest in the state, and none stands so high in the estimation of the public. Bluffs is particularly proud of. It has made a record for prompt and honor-able settlement of losses that places it at the front and has created the conviction that every just loss will be paid to the last penny, and without annoying delay. There record of business transacted during the first half of the present year shows very satisfactory results and is the strongest proof of the popularity of the company. Premiums written up to June 31, 1891, amount to $29,644.07, and the losses paid from January to June were $5,096,17. When it is recollected that the greater part of this business comes from people in and around Council Bluffs where the company is best known it affords the strongest possible evidence of the solid popularity of the company, Rooms 206-7-8-9 on the southeast corner on the second floor form the offices of Attorneys Sims & Saunders. are pleasantly situated overlooking Mair street and First avenue and comprise as finely arranged law office as there is in the city. The front room on Main street is the private office of Mr. Sims and adjoining it is that of Mr. Saunders. Both of these apartments are very cozy and contain the general library of the firm and the private books of the members. Their library is one of the targest in the city. The other rooms are the work shops of the employes of the firm, W. E. Bainbridge, who has charge of the col-lections, and H. E. Beach, stenographer. The furniture in all the rooms is modest and rich and the carpets are heavy and luxuriant. Occupying cosy apartments on the sec ond floor, Dr. M. H. Chamberlain, the well known eye and ear specialist, meets his patients during office hours. He is a pleasant, cultured gentleman, and his reputation as a specialist in the treatment of eve and ear diseases is second to none in the west, and he can refer to a arger number of delicate surgical operations that have resulted in saving vision or restoring hearing than any other surgeon in the state. Three afternoons each week he is called to Omaha as consulting surgeon, with Dr. Allen, the Nebraska specialist, in the Ramge

On the top floor in the southwest cor ner of the block are a number of the fin est offices in the block. The front room of the suite with windows facing the west and south and opposite the Grand hotel and looking over the tops of the trees in the park, is occupied by Hon. John Y. Stone, attorney general of lowa. The apartment is elegantly furnished and is the comfortable, abiding place of busy man. The door to Colonel Stone's private office is the first one that strikes your eye as you step from the elevator, and there is something in the style of the lettering on the ground glass that suggests an invitation to come in if you have any business with the busy attorney general of lowa, but to stay out if you haven't. There is not, if you haven't. There is not, however, a more genial man in the world than Colonel Stone. He has chosen Council Bluffs for his head quarters on account of the number of railroads that center here. The state urnishes him an office at Des Moines but for the purpose of facilitating his business with the railroads he chooses to provide an office at his own expense here. The other apartments of the suite are devoted to the use of the law firm of Stone & Dawson. The junior member, Mr. T. C. Dawson, is one of the brightest young men in the state. He is a graduate of Harvard and has completed a course in the Cincinnati law school. As a finishing touch to his education he has spent a year and a half in newspaper work in the office of the Des Moines Register, and engages in his chosen profession in Council Bluffs with the brightest possible prospects. In a cozy apartment, with silken cur-

The headquarters comprise the general offices of the association and the office of Supreme Secretary A. W. Johnson. Across the wide hallway and at the elevator landing are the doors leading into the Royal Arcapum hall, the most beautiful hall in the state, and it is here that the Commercial Pilgrims hold their meetings. In addition to this a handsome room is fitted up as a parlor, which is open day and night for the benefit of the members. The founding of the order was an inspiration and its growth has been one of marvels of the age. No order was ever founded upon grander or more enduring principles, and it is certain to become one of the leading secret orders of the times. The supreme headquarters are perpetually fixed at Council Bluffs, and the present apartments in the Shugart block will be visited by travelers from all parts of the land.

the Officers. About 11 o'clock last night a telephone message from 423 North Fifteenth street to police headquarters asked for an officer. The wagon was sent and it was found that Sam Parker, a worthless man and a hard drinker, had been raising a family row. Parker went home with a little more than his usual jag and started to abuse his wife. He threatened to kill her, but changed his mind and at-tempted to brain one of his children with a hammer. The mother prevented this and sent the message asking for police protec

Before the wagon arrived Parker skipped and could not be found. None of the family were injured by the brutal husband and father, but all were badly scared.

stomach. THAT MANAWA MEAL.

Another Chapter on the Royal Areanum's Unpleasant Experience. OMARIA, Aug. 24 .- To the Editor of THE BEE: We would like to correct the impression a disinterested party would have after reading an article in the World-Herald issue of August 20, and the article signed in the Council Bluffs column of your morning issue of this date regarding the treatment of Omaha people at Lake Manawa Wednesday evening, August 19. Arrangements were made with Colonel Reed in which he agreed to have his motor train in readiness for us at Broadway, Councit Bluffs. This he did not do, compelling the party to suffer a long and tedious delay. He also agreed to furnish us the large boat ld order to take the entire party to Machattan in one trip immediately upon the arrival of the motor train from Council Bluffs. This he did not do. Upon arrival at Manawa we found the boat "dead" and he tried to explain: "The engineer was sick." He could have easily obtained another one and should have done so in order to fulfill his part of the contract. The result was the evening's on-loyment at Munhattan was a total failure.

Reed also agreed to furnish certain refreshments for a certain price, agreeing to serve them in strictly first class style. He also stated to the committee that he could accom-modate eighty people in one dining room and forty in another. When a portion of the party (only what could fill tables) sat down to supper, it was found that he had not even begun to prepare for them. Sandwiches were not made and when made and served after fifteen to twenty minutes waiting, they were not fit to eat. Likewise the rest of the refreshments. They had but three waiters, who were inexperienced and unable to han-dle more than ten to fifteen people. So many were dissatisfied that they got up and left without eating a thing.

In regard to collecting tickets, this agreewas mutual, notwithstanding Mr. Reed's statement to the contrary.

Of course, the committee did not feel like paying for something they did not get, and as the man did not live up to his contract, he was not legally entitled to it. He was approached six or seven different times, but would not listen to an arbitration.
He then secretly connived with the master mechanic, engineer and conductor in regard to holding the train. One of their men se-cretly went through the train and told the Council Bluffs people to walk up two or three blocks and get on the train that would ar-rive shortly, as the train they were on would be held. In the meantime they represented to us that the train would leave immediately upon the arrival of the other one from Council Bluffs. As soon as the train we supposed we were being held for arrived, the engine steamed up and blew the whistle, endeavoring to make us believe they would leave, and while this commotion was going on the other train pulled out for Council Bluffs.

Mr. Reed then sent a man to inform us that the train had been held and unless we came to his terms we would have to walk. A large number of Omaha people who were not with the special party, of course, became tradignant and gave Mr. Reed to understand he must run his train, and gave him two minutes to decide. He then ordered the train to Every effort was made to compromise with Mr. Reed, but he acted in such an indifferent manner it was impossible to get any satisfac-tion whatever. The result was he received no pay for his would-be supper that disgusted all who attempted to satisfy their hunger.

Mr. Reed and his assistant did not spend five minutes either in dining room or kitchen while refreshments were being served, not withstanding he says he put himself in the harness.
Colonel Reed did nothing toward obtaining a settlement, as the writer states in the arti-cles in his defense, but the last time he was approached he wanted settlement for twenty-five more people than actual count. fact of the matter was he considered party at his mercy and thought he could "bulldoze" the committee into paying for something they did not get, inasmuch as he controlled the transportation to Council Bluffs.
