Weil that was a remarkable game Omaha and Kansas City played yesterday afternoon

anyway. In the first place it was remarkable because the Omahas were shut out for the first time this season. In the second place it was remarkable because only twenty-seven of them went to bat in the whole nine innings. In the third place it was remarkable because only three little measly, putrid into were made off of Mr. Roach. In the fourth place it was remarkable because Hart never gave a base on balls, and in the fifth place it was remarkable because it only took one hour and nineteen minutes to play the game. But what's the use?

It was a remarkable game, and that set-

In the opening inning the first five men who faced the Duluth twirler hit him safe, and add two more hits to these, and six runs and you have the history of the inning.

From this on out Hart pitched magnificently, and but one more run was scored off of him, and that was made in the seventh on King Elmer's three-bagger and a passed

The Omahas were infants at the bat and they only got one man as far around as third during the entire game, and he got there by the grace of Danny Stearn's error. Three hits, two by Day and one by Fianagan was the extent of their achievements at the bat. Barring the fatal first, the game was a brilliant one. Here is the score:

MAGNIFICENT RACE BY A GREAT HORS'.

Hard Pressed by Huron and Yorkville Bell McLaughlin Drove His Mount to Glorious Victory-The Details.

Most ensational Ever Run.

The most sensutional Futurity that has ever been run was the one decided at this course today.

It was sensational because Ed Corrigan, owner of the colt Huron, refused to abide by the decision of the executive committee of the club that his horse was not eligible to start, and invoked the aid of the courts. Also it was sensational because the colt that finally won carried the crushing impost of 130 pounds, and it was sensational because of the brilliant manner in which the contending horses were ridden.

When Ed Corrigan was victorious in his egal skirmish with the club and secured a mandatory injunction it was thought that there would not be any further trouble, but the club officials were determined not to recognize the horse in any way whatever. When his jockey, Overton, went to weigh in, he was not allowed to pass the scales, and then Mr. Corrigan was fighting mad. In company with his lawyer he demanded that his boy be weighed, which was finally done. He was not given a number, however, and there was no betting against him. The colt ran, finished second, and now Mr. Corrigan will have to sue the club for the $5,666 that belongs to the second horse.

It Was a Perfect Day.

The day was one of the most magnificent that has been enjoyed this year. The cool breeze came direct from the ocean, swent through the grand stand, and, instead of fans, light overcoats were in demand. The grounds never looked prettier, and there was ous one. The track was not fast, It was umpy all over, wet in spots, and such a thing as fast time was out of the question.

It was without doubt the largest crowd that has ever witnessed a derby at Sheepshead bay. It was a thorough metropolitan good natured while hats were smashed and whole suits ruined in the mad struggle in the betting ring. There was not disturbance during the entire day, and his, too, when men's hearts were sore over

There was considerable interest manifested n the preliminary races, but it was not to see ordinary horses, contending for thousand: of dollar purses, that the journey to the track called a wild rush was at once made for the betting ring, and the scene that followed was indescribable.

How the Betting Went.

For the moment men seemed to lose all control of themselves and nothing was thought of but betting. Some wanted to back one horse, some another, and they all wanted the best of the odds. The Gideon pair, His Highness and Merry Monarch were he favorites, at 2 to 1 at first, but the m oney did not come in fast enough to suit the im-patient bookies, and they raised the price to 5 to 2 and from that to 3, and finally they quoted 4 to 1.

In the meantime Dagonotte money had been rolling into the bookies' hands in reguar streams. First there was 3 to 1, and at that price tens of thousands of dollars were wagered. The books stood the onslaught manfully, but at last they were compelled to rub and 5 to 2 was the closing price.

Then there was Yorkville Belle, She opened at 6 to 1 and in a few minutes it was evident that she was receiving support. Brewer Ehret and his friends were confident that she would win, and bet so much money on her that at the close the best that could e obtained was 6 to 1 Of the others Bashford, Lamplighter, Tammany, Silver Fox and Newton were all Ready for the Start.

Finally the clear blast of the bugle was heard and the cry went up "They're at the post," a wild rush was made for the open and then everyone waited, eagerly clutching bits of pasteboard that would either enrich them or break them. In a few minutes Bash-ford, wearing the peacock blue and yetlow sash of the Bashford manor farm and ridden by I. Lewis, appeared on the track, followed, in order by the Maid of Athol, Oric, Lamp-lighter, Lester, Charade, Lew Wier, Anna B. Huron, Newton, Tammany, Silver Fox Cee Jav Jay, Lavish, Triangle, Yorkville Belle and King Cadmus. It was a grand sight to see the sleek, prancing thorough-breds parading with their heads erect, and cheer after cheer rent the air. When the upper end of the stand was reached the line was broken and they all cantered to the post. Then commenced the real strain. Powerful glasses were levelled at the horses, threequarters of a mile away and every movement was carefully watched. Up at the post the the tension was almost as great, as every boy was auxious to get the best of the start, if possible, and Starter Caldwell was bound that there should be no best.

And there was not, for Mr. Caidwell caught them all well in a motion at the second attempt and secured a magnificent start. "Now They're Off!" Yorkville Belle was the first to show, but ner a Ivantage was slight and Mars. Anna B. Lavish, Tringle and His Highness were Lavish, Tringle and His Highness were lapped on her, with the rest not a length away. Murphy at once took a restraining pull on the Bello, but she was full of racing and for a quarter she was in front, followed by Merry Monarch, who was capped by furon, with Anna B and Dagonette next. Then Dagonette, with a wonderful burst of speed, took the lead and His Highness and Huron both moved up.

As they swung into the stretch there was little to choose between Huron, His Highness, little to chose between Huron, His Highness, Yorkville Belle, Dayonette, Mars and Bash-ford. The excitement was intense. Any one of a haif dozen horses appeared to have a nance. Suddenly Overton shot Euron to the front, and although there was not a man on the ground who had a beton him, they all cheered and yelled, while the women frantically clutched the arms of their male escorts and screamed "Huson," But Huron had not won Riding f r Their Lives.

McLaughling crafty and alert, astride His Highness, had seen Overton's move and sent His Highness after him, while Murphy was His Highness after him, while Murphy was improving his position on Yorkville Belle. In a few studes Huron and His Highness were on even ferms, running like a team and for their lives, lapped by Yorkville Belle. The excitement was now painful in its intensity. Frantse betters yelled and shouted, and hats, umbreigns, canes and handkerchiefs were thrown into the air.

Right opposite the stand the struggle commenced in earnest. Overton was riding menced in earnest. Overton was riding Huron like a demon, and the horse responded gamely. McLaughlin was like a bundle of steel, and at every stride seemed to lift his horse along, while Murphy, whose yellow face was black with excitement, was whip-ping and cutting, and Yorkville Beile was coming like a evelone

All of a sudden McLaughlin realized that his time had come, and drawing his whip, let it fall on the straining sides of His Highness. The steel ploughed along his gaunt flanks and despite his enormous weight he responded gamely. Slowly but surely he forged ahead, while behind him thundered the field with whips flying and switching in the air. By this time the crowd had became deligious.

Every one was yelling and screaming. Men and women were crying, and amidst the greatest excitement ever seen on an Ameri-can race course, His Highness, with nostriis affame, and gathering and reaching spien-didly, dashed in a winner by a length from Huron, who beat Yorkville Belle a half a ength for the place, with Dagonette a length away. Cheer after cheer rent the air, both for the gallant horse who had picked up 130 pounds and beat the best 2-year-olds in the country, and for the jockey who had ridden him so well. New York, Aug. 20.-Judge McAdam of the superior court today granted a mandatory injunction requiring the Concy Island Jockey club to enter Edward Corrigan's colt Huron in the contest for the Futurity stakes. The judge, win his decision, provided, however, that the owner of Huron must give a bond of $7,000 to secure the club from any damage. If the horse wins the club may decide neverthered some other horse won, but t would in that case be answerable to Corrigan for damages in a suit against the ciub. Fall Macting at Lat niz. CINCINNATI, O. Aug. 29.—This was a lovely day for the ushering in of the Latonia fall meeting races. Four thousand people were at the beautiful track to witness the sport, Never in the history of this track was it in better condition than today. The races were nearly all well contested and the decision of results gave perfect satisfaction. J. G. Sheridan served with his well known ability as starter. There was some disappointment in the failure of Chief Justice and Kingman to start in the fourth race. Results:

Can Pedat Some, Also. Prof. J. L. Laird, principal of the public schools at Emerson, In., reached Omaha yesterday at 11:30 o'clock after a bleycle road ride that would open the eyes and break the hearts of some of the ambitious amateur cross-country riders of Omaha. Prof. Laird rode eighty miles on Friday from Gresham to Fremont. He left Fremont at 7:45 o'clock vesterday moving and rolled off the forty miles between that city and Omaha in three hours and forty-five minutes. a Club Here - Some Interesting Contests Settled Yesterday Aft rnoon.

The second matinee given under the auspices of the Gentlemen's Roadster club at the driving park yesterday afternoon was an unqualified success in the interesting nature of the various events as well as the attendance. The quarter stretch presented an exhiliarating scene, indeed, with its numerous handsome turnouts, from tally-he down to dog cart, while the grand stand was fairly well occupied. The Kountze Place Fife and Drum corps furnished the noise, or music rather, and altogether the afternoon was a delightful one.

One thing has been demonstrated anyway, and that is that Omaha could and would support a thoroughgoing, first class jockey club. Many of the most prominent people of the city were in attendance yesterday, and the amount of enthusiasm augurs well for an enterprise of a similar character on a larger scale. Not to intimate that the Roadsters' club is not all right, however, for it is, and the centlemen instrumental in inaugurating these pleasant matinces are entitled to every en couragement and every praise. It has created renewed interest in the noblest animal of all. and will eventually lead to higher and better things. There are many ardent admirers of good horse flesh in Outsha, and there is no reason on earth why the city is not treated to one or two first-class sessions every summer. All the other important cities boast of their driving clubs. Why not Omaha, the largest and thriftiest of them all. Promptly at 3 o'clock the horses for the

MR. KELLEY'S AND THE CHAIRMAN'S ROW.

Arrangements Made by Which the Board Will Bear Some of the Election Expenses-The Meeting in Detail.

There was a special meeting of the Board, of Education last night. The subject of school sites was a leading topic of discussion. The labor union sent in a communication inviting the board to participate in the Labor day demonstration. The invitation was accepted. The committee on buildings and property reported on the matter of securing a site for the Sherman school in North Omaha. The committee had visited the site offered by Mr. Jaynes and recommended that the board accept the proposition. Mr. Morrison was in favor of purchasing the site offered by Mr. Barker, consisting of an acre tract. Dr. Gibbs thought the Barker site was too far south. Mr. Wehrer threw his influence in favor of the Barker site. He declared that Mr. Jaynes could not furnish a clear title. Mr. Martin favored the Javnes proposition, Following is the substance of the Jaynes proposition: For lots 21, 22, 23 and 24, block 1, Reunion addition, the owner offered to accept $800 cash and the board to assume the mortgage of $800, dated June 5, 1891, and running five years. For lots 22, 23, 24, 1, 2 and 3 in same block and addition the owner offered to take $1,200 cash and the board to assume the mortgage of $1,200. For lots 21,

The board finally decided to purchase lots 21, 22, 23 and 24 in block 1 $at 1,600, with the privilege of buying lots 1, 2, 3 and 4 in the same block if they were desired.

The matter of purchasing furnaces for the Pacific and the Pleasant schools was taken up. The committee recommended that the contract be awarded to Lyle Dickey & Co., but after debating the matter for twenty minutes the report was rejected. A wrangle ensued over the renting of small buildings near the Pacific school. Mr. Martin said that Mr. Stuht had offered to throw off $10 per month on the rooms he had been renting to the board. Mr. Wehrer said the Stuht rooms were not supplied with the conveniences necessary for school purposes.

Dr. Gibbs favored the renting of rooms owned by Mr. Zimmerman on South Eleventh street. He said that the three Zimmerman rooms could be had for $90 per month. Suht had been getting $35 for each room. The Stuht rooms were a block nearer than the Zimmerman rooms, but he thought the latter were the more desirable.

The matter was finally laid over until Monday night. Superintendent Hamilton submitted a few suggestions with reference to minor matters. He said the frame annex at the Center school could be moved if the board desired to have it on the ground owned by the school district. The building at present stands on land owned by Mr. Kountze and the board pays him $75 a year for the use of his ground. Mr. Wehrer declared that the building pro-Mr. Wehrer declared that the building projected over the bank fully ten feet and people had made a stable under it. He believed that $40 would move the building upon the ground owned by the school district and for $20 more the building could be put in good repair. Superintendent Hamilton thought the building could be made safe and in good repair for less money where it stood than to move it to the grounds owned by the school district Mr. Babcock held that the build resolutely unsafe in its present location. He believed that a severe wind storm would blow the building down the bank. Mr. Kelley arose to speak for the third ime upon the proposition to move the building. "You have spoken several times on this question, Mr. Kelley," said President Good man, "and you must sit down unless you get consent of all the members to speak "I will not sit down," retorted Mr. Kelley, growing red in the face.

"Sit down, Mr. Kelley," demanded Mr. Goodman, pounding the desk vigorously.
"I will not," roared Kelley. "I will speak as often as I please. Other members have spouted all they wished to on this question. and I will have to sit down." Mr. Kelley growled as he looked savagely at the presient and sank into his sent, "out if I had you outside I would set you down d-d quick."

The superintendent of buildings was finally instructed to repair the Center school

Mr. Hamilton submitted an estimate in favor of Smead & Co. for material for the Kellom school furnaces, amounting to $1,800. The committee on claims recommended that he estimate be allowed. The report was adopted. Mr. Coburn, from the special committee appointed to confer with the council commit-tee with reference to uniting in the expense of the coming election, asked the board whether the committee should complete the arrangements for joint boards of election the arrangements for joint boards of election cierks and judges. He said that the committee had not been fully instructed as to whether the board wished to have clerks and judges senarate from the boards appointed by the city and county, or whether a joint board would be satisfactory. He said the expense of building booths would be about $29,000, and it would require over 500 men to conduct the would require over 500 men to conduct the election as members of the boards of judges and clerks. The city council committee and the county committee thought that the school board should bear about one-fourth of the entire expense.

On motion of Mr. Martin the special committee was authorized to complete the ar-rangement with the committees from the unity and city for the coming election. The attorney of the board was admeded he committee.

The board then adjourned to meet next
