HAVING A GOOD TIME ANYWAY

Councilmen Enjoy Themselves While Inspecting Famples of City Hall Furniture.

VISITING THE VARIOUS EXHIBITION ROOMS.

How a Day Was Spent by the Committee of the Whole Sampling Furniture, Liquors and Cigars.

If there is a man on earth who can tell just how the cut is going to jump in the matter of the city hall furniture contract, that man is a prophet or the son of a prophet. One thing, however, is an assured fact, and that is that the Connant Brothers Furniture company is not in it for a smell-not even for a chair to stand in the lobby of the new building.

The city council was billed to meet in committee of the whole at the city clerk's office at 9 o'clock vesterday morning. Half an hour after the time set for the meeting the councilmen began to drop in singly and by pairs. At last all of them except Messrs. Chaffee and Madsen answered to roll call. Then the six-teen law makers marched down the hill to the Dewey & Stone establishment on lower Farnam street. They went up to the third floor, via the elevator, where W.I. Kierstead explained his bid and exhibited samples of the furniture that his house proposed to furnish. By way of introduction Mr. Kierstead explained that the original bids were as follows: The Andrews company, $38,000; the Ketchum company, $34,000, and the Dewey & Stone company, $28,000. The foreign companies had been allowed to scale down their bids, but he had not been allowed the same privilege. If he had been, the combined bid of the Dewey & Stone company and John F. Coots would have fallen below $21,000 for both stationary and moveable furniture. No both stationary and moveable furniture. No person denied the statement, but all of the councilmen looked at the furniture and cracked some very raw jokes about pig-skin seated chairs.

Mr. Kierstead explained that his bid was Mr. Kierstead explained that his bid was the cheapest; that his goods were equal to those of his competitors, and that if the contract was awarded to his house, all of the goods would be manufactured in Omaha by Omaha mechanics. He also stated that he proposed to furnish a desk for $75 that non-resident houses would duplicate for $75 and $105. He would furnish a bond that he would refurnish the building if any article proved defective the building if any article proved defective after one year's wear.

Mr. Coots who proposed to furnish the stationary furniture, was allowed to explain his plans and specifications. He would manufacture each and every article in Omaha, and each article could be inspected before being accepted. During the time four or five councilmen were paying attention to the explanations, while most of them were roaming about the salesrooms gazing at the fur-niture and trying easy chairs.

One Man Who Quit.

The next stop was made at the Paxton hotel, where Charles M. Finch, agent for the Connant Bros. Furniture company of Toledo, Connant Bros. Furniture company of Toledo, O., had his goods on exhibition. The stop at the Paxton was not a lengthy one. Mr. Finch plainly and emphatically told the councilmen that he was not a comectitor. He had put in a bid, but he considered himself lucky to get out of the town with a whole skin. The committee had considered his bid, but owing to the low figures that he had submitted, without seeing his samples, the committee without seeing his samples, the committee had refused to consider his proposition. He was asked to exhibit his samples, but refused for the reason that his bid had been rejected and he was no longer in the fight. Other companies had been asked to change their figures and submit new specifications since the opening of the bid, but he had been

Like one man the sixteen councilmen marched out of the rotunda of the Paxton and wended their way to the Millard hotel Weavy of the Andrews Furniture company f Chicago.

These gentlemen knowing the wants, nucilmen, invited the members walk. They did not walk a mile before they stopped in front of the bar, where the genial agents invited them to look through the bottoms of some glasses at the pictures on the walls. A second invitation was not necessary and a moment later the liquor disappeared like dew before the August sun on a hot day. Thinking that cigars might make the furniture look better, they were passed over and then each man took another for future use. The committee of the whole then adjourned to a room on the second floor where organs and the furniture were on exhibition.

The glib-tongued agent took the floor and explained that all of the articles on exhibi-tion had been taken out of the Chicago

Formally Organized. President Lowry intimated that there was too much talk on the side and suggested the election of a chairman. Several members opined that Mr. Lowry was right and Mr. Bechel was elected to the honorable position.

After he had been given the chair, a rich upholstered concern, Mr. Osthoff told the two agents to explain what they had. Mr. Weary stripped his coat and started the ball to rolling. He used the bids of the other companies for a foot ball and explained that the Andrews' furniture was the best in the world. About everything had been bid on at Chicago prices and if changes were deto add only 5 per cent to the prices submitted. He hoped the mayor's office would be furnished in mahogany and the furnishings of the council chamber would look better in that kind of wood. He told the councilmen that they could go to the furniture store and buy goods that would

The agent waxed warm and branched off the original subject. He told the councilman that he did not care what the newspaper said, as his house had been in the business for years.

look as well as his but they would not stand

Two or three councilmen looked as though they wanted to go, but Mr. McLearie allayed their fears by telling them that he was in favor of taking a rope and hanging the newspaper men. There was more talk about furniture, after which Agent Reemer invited all of the councilmen to dine with him. They pleaded other engagements, or told him that they dined at home. Then he suggested that they might want to ilquor up. Acting upon this suggestion, the city fathers adjourned to the contract for the city hall furniture. Its Matinee Performance.

While on their tour of investigation the members of the committee met a prominent citizen who promised them he would urge blacklisting the members of the council who woted against home industry in awarding the contract for the city hall furniture.

The city council held its matinee in room 300 of the New York Life building. That was the room where Mr. Hayker, western manager of the Ketcham Furniture company of Toledo, O., had his samples of proposed city hall furniture on exhibition.

Two o'clock was the hour set for the meet ing, but some of the councilmen were tate in arriving. When the last man was shot up the elevator shaft President Lowry and Mr. Osthoff were found enjoying a game of checkers to see which should decide to make the race for the mayorality upon the demo-cratic ticket. The arrival of the crowd put stop to the game and it was declared

The whole souled agent of the foreign house passed around the cigars and then un-limbered his tongue. He started by saying that unlike his competitors his furniture had not been put up for show. It was samples of goods that had been intended for the court house at Red Oak, Ia. The carvings were all by hand and in quality and finish the fur niture could not be excelled by any house in the land. It was not manufactured in Omaha by Omaha workmen, but would last 100 years. Some councilman suggested that it was dry. The agent did not have to be kicked down stairs to see the point. He realized that the man had no reference to

The sergeant-at-arms of the council was present and being a handy man was pressed nto the service. With a corkscrew in hand he was seen busy and the popping of corks passed around and then more cigars.

Mr. McLearle opined that the reporter should be invited to leave the room.

"Not for $500," protested Mr. Osthoff.

After the Irrigation. Cigars were handed around once more and then the agent got down to business. He explained his furniture and room fixtures to the satisfaction of some of the members, while Mr. Elsasser cracked another stale joke about pug skin for chairs.

Different councilmen tried different stuffed chairs and remarked, one to another, "This is about my size." For two hours the talk went on and then some very pleasant sound-ing testimonials were read in behalf of ing testimonials were read in behalf of Ketcham furniture.

It was suggested that some councilman might want to wet up. The sergeant-at-arms of the council was equal to the emergency, and drew several bottles of beer from their hiding place. It was then that he performed a mean trick. While no person was watching he filled the glasses partly full of beer and then filled them with whisky. Just as he had about completed the dastardly work some member caught him in the act of making the ville description of half-and-half making the vile desection of half-and-half and refused to drink. The difficulty was smoothed over and then the agent stated that mahogony would cost from 16 to 20 per cent more than oak for the mayor's office. The detailed drawings were inspected, while the cigars were once more passed around the room, after which Mr. Morearity moved that the contract be awarded then and there but to whom he would not say. There was a protest raised by Messrs. Bechel and Davis against such unseemly haste upon the part of Mr. Moresrity, and the committee adjourned to meet in the clerk's office at 10 o'clock this morning.

IN PARTNERSHIP WITH KEELEY Judge Helsley Does Missionary Work

Among His Bibulous Guests. Judge Helsley is doing a little quiet work on the side for the Keeley institute at Blair. Yesterday when Pat Carney appeared before him in dusty raiment and the vivid recollection of a Saturday night jag, and while admitting that he had taken on "a bit of a load," but that he was a law abiding citizen and the owner of some Omaha realty, the court discharged him with the admonition to go out to Biair and see that his next load was of the celebrated bi-chloride of gold. Another individual who is sauly in need of liquid Keeleyism, but who was overlooked by the judge, was Victor Lindholm, the one-legged tailor. Victor appears in police court on an average of three times in two months, and the judge religiously divides it up be-tween fines, jail sentences and discharges. Yesterday! Sergeant Sigwart said that Victor had no dirt on his back when arrested, which in his case was prima facte evidence that he had on only an ordinary consignment and he was told to go.

Jim Carr, a colored vag who had failed to avail himself of an opportunity to go out of the city, had his suspended sentence dropped on him and went up for thirty days.

Western Traffic Association Absorbing Many Lesser Organizations.

ATCHISON AFTER OMAHA CONNECTIONS.

Traffic Arrangements With the Chicago, Ft. Madison & Des Moines With a View of Reaching Nebraska.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 14 .- It is becoming apparent to the close observers of railroad affairs that the Western Traffic association is quietly working to extend its power and influence by taking away from some of the smaller associations their strength. Not only has the Western Passenger association been affected by this movement, but the Western Freight association has also been deprived of much of its importance and individuality by the gradual encroachments into its deliberations of the rules and regulations governing the presidents' organization, and the practical nullification of all rules conflicting therewith. This has been combatted by the lines not members of the Western Traffic association, but their opposition seems to have had little effect. Not the least significant circumstance as showing the drift of offairs is the fact that the Western Freight association has decided to hold its meetings bi-monthly instead of monthly. There has been some talk of holding these meetings quarterly, and it is probable that meetings quarterly, and it is probable that the question of making such a change will be discussed before the end of the year.

Another circumstance is the absence of Chairman Midgley from the last two meetings which were presided over by his chief clerk and still another is that the September meeting was for the most part attended by assistant general freight agents instead of by the higher traffic officials who have heretothe higher traffic officials who have hereto-fore taken part in the proceedings. Railroad men who are not in the secret of the movement are beginning to realize that the Western Freight association is sinking into on the part of those people who are chiefly interested in the success of the president's agreement. Much of the business formerly disposed of by the association is now performed by the board of commissioners of the Western Traffic association finding its way to them through appeals by companies that are members of both organizations.

A meeting of the special committee to pre pard a new agreement for the Western Pas senger association, to be put into conformity with that of the Western Traffic association will be held tomorrow. The committee con-sists of Passenger Traffic Manager White o the Atchison, General Passenger Agent Thrail of the Northwestern, General Passenger Agent Eustis of the Burlington and Commissioners Walker, Finley and Vining. But the Western Passenger association has but one member that is not already in the Presi-dents' association, and it will no doubt be a much more difficult task to whip into line the several outsiders than the Western Freight ATCHISON'S OMAHA CONNECTIONS. Some of the local gossips are trying to make sensation out of a traffic arrangement ena sensation out of a traffic arrangement entered into by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe with a little sour of a road called the Chicage, Fort Madison & Des Moines on the ground that it will eventually give the Atchison an independent line to Omaha. At present the Chicage, Fort Madison & Des Moines road runs from Fort Madison northwestward toward Liberty, Ill., and it is claimed that a syndicate of Chicage, Boston and London capitalists have purchased the line with a view of extending it to Des Moines and thence to Omaha. thence to Omaha.

EAST-BOUND SHIPMENTS. East-bound shipments of freight by all lines east last week amounted to 60,191 tons, against 55,950 for the week previous, an increase of 5,241 tons, and against 72,520 for the same period last year, a decrease of 12,-329 tons. The shipments by lake amounted 133,649 tons, an increase over the preceding week of 31,552 tons. The shipments of flour, grain and provision from Chicago to the sea-board by the lines in the Central Traffic association aggregated 25,578 tons, against 25,246 for the week previous, an increase of 372 tons, and against 34,357 for the corresponding week of 1800, a decrease of 7,789 tons. The Vanderbilt lines carried 61 per cent of the traffic, the Pennsylvania lines 19 per cent, the Chicago & Grand Trunk 11 per cent, and the Baltimore & Ohio 9 per cent.

CHICAGO LINES GET LEFT. The fact that the price of wheat is 4 to 6 ents higher in St. Louis than in the Chicago market, is causing considerable uneasiness among the traffic officials of the Chicago roads. As a natural consequence of such a state of affairs, the wheat from Kansas and Nebraska is mostly going east by way of St. Louis, some of it being shipped by river to New Orleans for export.

WORK FOR THE BIG SIX. The commissioners of the Western Traffic association will meet September 22 to consider, among other matters, a proposition to advance the rate on salt 2 cents per 100 pounds in barrels and 4 cents per 100 pounds in bulk from the salt districts to Neoraska points. The Burlington applies for authority to make the same rate on salt from Chicago to Nebraska City, Omaha and Lincoln that is made from Hutchinson, Kan. The commis-sioners will also consider a proposition to transfer from the Western Freight associaion to the Western Traffic association jurisliction over certain traffic from Colorado a nd Itah points.

GERMANS' DAY. How It Will Be Celebrated in Omaha

October 6. The meetings which have been held of the representativescof the local German societies have resulted matherough understanding as to the manner in which Germans' day, October 6, shall be delebrated.

In the early gatherings there was a division of sentiment. Some of the delegates favored only an entertainment in the evening in which all the German singing societies of the city should take part, and in which an address would delivered by a distinguished speaker from abroad.
Others wished to have also a parade during the day. The programme now comprises both these features. The parade will take place in the morning, moving at 10 o'clock sharp. It will move through the principal streets of the city and moving at 19 o'clock sharp. It will move through the principal streets of the city and will be the first one of the kind which has ever taken place in this city. It will be illustrative of the colonization in this country of Germans in 1634, when a small number of thrifty and skillful weavers settled in Germantown, now a suburb of Philadelphia. It will also show the progress made by the Germans in all branches of business, as also in the arts and sciences. There will be life-like representatives of General Steuben, Baron DeKalb, Muhlenberg, the first speaker of the national house of representatives, and other statesmen and patriots who have been identified with the history of this country. There will be one float especially devoted to the weavers, another to the vessel in which they sailed to these shores. The former will be designed and decorated at the expense of Mr. Fred Krag.
