JACK DAVIS WAS WHIPPED.

Billy Woods of Denver Conquers the Brawny Omaha Gladiator,

HAD A FREE FIGHT IN THE RING.

Fitzsimmons and Dempsey Give a Little Exhibition that Wasn't Billed-Uncle Anse Headed For the Pennant.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 21.- [Special Telegram to THE BEE, |-The great battle between Billy Woods of Denver and Jack Davis of Omaha, a fight to a finish, took place tonight before the Pacific Athletic club. Upwards of 4,000 persons witnessed the contest, which, by the way, has attracted more inter est than any fight in this city since the Jackson-Corbett meeting. At an early hour long before the advertised time for the contest to commence, the had was crowded with sporting men. Nearly every western city was re presented.

M. J. Sullivan acted as master of cere monies, while Jack Dempsey, the Nonparell, officiated as referee. Davis was seconded by the doughty Bob Fitzsimmons and Danny Needham, champions in their respective classes. Woods' seconds were Bat Master son of Denver, Martin Murphy and Paddy Gorman. Seldom has such an aggregation been found concentrated in a ring before in America.

The sports predicted that the fight would not last over ten rounds. Betting was lively during the day, although the wagers were mostly small. At Corpett's headquarters Davis sold in the pools at 100 to 80, and there were plenty of takers at these figures on both sides of the house. Davis got his backing largely owing to his fight with Choynski.

There was first a preliminary event, a six round go between Mick McCarthy and Martin McCaffery. It was a regular wrestling match and McCaffery was not in it. Two young fellows followed in a friendly setto and then the principals of the big event were called by the master of ceremonies.

Then the Fight Began.

When Jack Dempsey appeared there was loud cheering and prolonged applause. Some one proposed three cheers and the 4,000 sports went wild. Davis stepped into the ring first, looking fine as silk. He weighed 175 pounds. Woods came on with a hop, skip and jump, and looked as hard as leather. His weight was 180 pounds. First round—Time was called at 8:20.

After some feinting Woods landed a light right hand body blow. After more fidding, Woods led, and slipping around Davis' neck nearly went to the floor.

Second round-Davis landed his right on Woods' ear: the latter broke ground, but Davis failed to catch him. Davis urged him to the ropes, playing his right on Woods' ribs. A left drive landed on Woods' nose, Third Round-Davis several times rushed Woods to the ropes, but returned each time to the center of the ring, having inflicted but little damage. Fourth Round—Woods ied a straight left, falling short, as 11d Davis' right for the body. Woods landed a good left on Davis' cheek and got in return a sounding left on the cheek. Several rallies followed, Woods cleverly ducking.

Jack Meant Business.

Fifth Round-Woods' left glanced from Davis' jaw. Davis got in his left on the face and the right on the ribs in quick succession. Woods twice again landed on Davis' jaw, the latter ducking vainly; then rallied and re-turned a couple of hot ones on the jaw, stag-Sixth Round-Davis led, falling short then stopped a rush with a left cross-counter. The men were now getting to close quarters, but taking no chances. Woods led with his left and Davis uppercut him; Woods clung to the corners and seemed disposed to clinch. Seventh Round—Woods countered with his left on the jaw and dodged an ugiy swing. Woods parried and landed a short left on the point of the jaw, staggering Davis. The latter rushed to catch his nimble opponent, but his swings generally fell short, though near the close of the round he landed two hot ones Eighth Round-Woods was sent to the ground twice with a right swing as the round

Billy Played Possum. The ninth opened with Davis chasing Woods around the ring on a run, Woods hid-ing his face and Davis landing his right on the back of the neck. Woods suddenly retaliated with his right on the jaw, dazing Davis for a minute. They then slugged each other at close range until both were groggy hammering each other about the head. Woods with half arm drives and Davis upper cutting with his right. Woods caught him as the gong sounded and Davis went down, half rose, then fell and was carried to his corner.

Tenth Round Pavis recovered quickly and rushed Woods around the ring gamely, essaying to land his powerful right and going to the floor with his own effort. He successed in stooping Woods! drives for his succeeded in stopping Woods' drives for his jaw and puzzled tholatter.

Eleventh Round—Davis slipped to the floor in his ewn corner from the effects of Woods' two-handed drives. He was dazed and bleeding freely from the left eye and mouth. He appeared blinded with blood, but played right for Woods' jaw, making the latter wary. The round closed with Woods smashing Davis in the mouth with his right. This Settled It.

Twelfth Round--Woods appeared tired, but more confident; Davis shaky, but game, laughing as Woods brought blood from the injured eye with right hand smashes. He frequently essayed his right, but Woods

Thirteenth Round-Woods showed a swelling on the left cheek, but otherwise was un-harmed. Davis landed on his jaw lightly with his left. Woods caught Davis on the head with a right smash, sending him to one knee. As he rose Woods sent him to the ropes, smashing his helpless opponent with his right. Dayis was unable to respond and appeared to be banging on the ropes. Fitzsimmons rushed into the ring and a fight was narrowly avoided between Woods and the wrathy New Zealander, wno claimed a Denverites sided with their mau, and the ring was soon filled with struggling, excited men. Dempsey endeavored vainly to restore order. The police then entered the ring and Davis announcing he would give up the fight, the referee pronounced in favor of Charges of Foul.

It was claimed that Woods struck Davis nearly five seconds after the gong struck in the critical ninth round, but the foul, if such it was, was condoned by Davis' seconds allowing the fight to go on. The confusion was such at the time that few of the spectators beard the sound of the gong. Opinions differ as to whether or not Davis was actually over the ropes when Woods struck him in the last round, but the decision of the referee was against this. Davis was punished badly. Woods was little marked

AMUSEMENTS.

"Men and Women" teaches lessons of selfienial, of noble self-sacrifice, of love, which appeal strongly to the real men and women sitting beneath its spell, and higher standards of living unconsciously result. In such plays religion fluds her chiefest ally for they emphasize the truths that for 1,900 years have possessed the world. In the first act of the play, which was produced last evening at Boyd's to a magnificent first night audience, there are two proposals of marriage both refused; two incipient proposals—both encouraged; one business failure; one defalcation; one fight, on the stage, fisticuffs; one suicide—off the stage; the presentation of a valentine; a criminal's confession of guilt, and a betrothal. With this vivacious and healthly lively opening "Men and Women" starts off on a career of the most exciting character. There are no bad women in the play, thanks to the authors. All are good, some of them angels. But there are a good many bad men, who, in the final moments of the play, the grand climacteric by confessions of crime done in youthful days when the blood ran hot, and their final forgiveness by the parties in interest. And they go forth to new created lives with the benediction of the Nazarene ringing in their ears.

There is one scene in the play which would make any drama stand out from the long list of the commonplace. It is a midnight meet-ing of the directors of the Jefferson National bank called to discuss the prevarious condi-tion of the bank and its possible closing on the morrow. The defalcation of a lot of bonds is known. Suspicion points to the assistant cashier as the thief. Then comes his cross-examination by the counsel of the bank his enemy) and Teabury's indignant

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria, When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria, When she became Miss, she chung to Castoria When she had Children, she gave them Castoria denial. Governor Rodman, an ex-convict, risen from a prison cell at Auburn to the executive of a great state, offers to loan the money that shall tide the bank over, the refusal to accept it, all working up to Prescott's (the cashier) silent confession, is crispy and sharply interesting. It touches just the fringe of tragedy, and then, to cap the climax. Prescott tenders his hand-cuffed hands to the officer; the guilty man at last is found. All this bit comes with a sort of solemn dignity after the excited interview Prescott has had with his financee, Agnes.

and the curtain closes out a picture that is rare in dramatic art. It is indeed a pleasure to testify to the merits of the excellent organization now producing "Men and Women" at Boyd's. Throughout, the nicest possible discrimination has been shown in the selection of the players and they give a beautifully rounded erformance. Mr. Henry Dalton plays an open handed Hebrew gentlemen, Israel Cohen, the president of the bank delightfully. In fact, he presents to the stage a new figure—a highminded, gentlemanty Jew, and it is singularly refreshing to see him as he does exist in the world and not as "Sam'l of Posen" would have us believe. William Prescott, the cashier, was well piayed by Byron Douglas, a new comer in our midst, and in manner and method sug-gested Henry Miller, formerly with the Frohmans. Mr. Charles Macsay made a great deal out of young Seabury, the hot-headed youth, ready to fight at the drop of the hat when it came to a question of his honor. Mr. Theodore Hamilton as Governor Rodman, has a wonderfully sympathetic roice and his reading in act one was a gem of purest diction. In manuer and make-up he looked every inch a commanding figure, such as you find in these western states at the head of the government. Mr. Coarles Gotthoid, a sterling actor, played the villain, Calvin Steadman, with a nonchalance that showed the true artist.

Miss Esther Lyon as Agnes, a Dickens type of woman, played the part with con-summate ability. The intense sentimentality of the part is hard to deal with, but there never was the least show of overacting here, and the lady scored the triumph of the even ing. The other female characters are won-derfully well taken while the male members of the cast show themselves actors deserving of individual mention.

Many Fall Suits. Once more the Omaha lawyer has reasons for being giad. His fall harvest is on in good shape and the indications are that he will garner a bountiful crop, which means an abundance of fees and a new overcoat.

The September term of the district court opened yesterday morning, and from now until Christmas the court rooms wiil be the drawing cards for the judges, the lawyers and the litigants. The hour was 9:30 when Judges Hopewell, Davis, wiil Estelle and Ferguson ascended the bench in room No. 1 in the court house. Sheriff Boyd in a clear tone remarked, "Hear ye! Hear ye! The henorable, the district court of Douglas count is now open."

Quiet and 250 attorneys held pessession of the room while Judge Ferguson announced that the bailing had been appointed. They are the same gentlemen who were on duty last term and will be in attendance upon the same judges. The following bar committee was an-nounced: Howard B. Smith, Guy R. C.

docket. The general docket is almost as large as last term. It contains 2,406 cases. The first case for trial is Lewis Lowry et al. against James W. Davis et al., and the last, T. R. Jabobs against Glea R. Hodson et al.

After making the usual announcements Judges Davis and Estelle devoted the morn-ing to getting the trial juries ready for the term. Ninety jurors had been summoned and forty-six responded to their names. Of this number, sixteen wanted to be excused Some of them went but more staid and will serve the county at $3 per day.

C. N. Deitz was late in arriving, but he picaded that he was not feeling well and was excused. George P. Bemis who arrived in company with Mr. Deltz offered the same excuse, but it would not go, so he urged that he had private business, excuse was no better than excuse was he other and those parties having business with Mr. Bemis can find him at the cour house during business hours. MAY OBVIATE DIRECT TAX.

Mr. Poppleton's Report on the Condition of the School Fund.

SOME MIGHTY INTERESTING READING.

One Recommendation Adopted -Routine Work of the Board of Education at Last Night's Session.

Mr. Poppleton presented a very interesting eport at the meeting of the Board of Educacation last night upon the question of the feasibility of meeting the expenses of the school district without resort to direct city taxation.

The report placed the amount of the dence January 1, 1898, without any levy in 1893, at $36,041.

On the strength of the deficit the committee concluded to recommend that the beard defer decision on the question of asking for a tax levy until the time arrives for making application for such levy to the council. The committee offered several recommen dations, the principal one of which contemplates the raising of the average of the num ber of pupils per teacher from last year s average of thirty-four to forty, which meas ure it was estimated would result in a saving of $37,000 over the present system between now and January 1, 1893.

This portion of the report was presented in the form of a resolution and adopted. Mr. G. M. Hitencock, who has sold that Board of Education a school site out in hir addition, asked the board to allow him to skip the grading on the east side of the school site. The agreement made called for a cut of eleven feet below the present grade. Mr. Hitchcock wants to be relieved from making about half of this cut. He frankly admitted that he wanted to save a few hundred dollars on the lob. The board failed to take any action on the request.

Superintendent Fitzpatrick reported the closing of a rented room at the Pacific school and the transfer of some of the pupils to the main building. The report was approved and further use of the rented building dispensed with.

The superintendent of buildings recom-mended a long list of repairs needed at the various schools. The report was cussed and discussed for an hour, and finally referred to the committee on buildings and property with power to act.

An estimate in favor of Contractor Menge-doht for $3,476, for work on the Kellom school was allowed. A long petition asking the board to reconsider its action in the election of a janitor for the Central Park school was referred to the committee on heating and ventilation. The janitor elect's plea for continuance in his position was referred to the same committee. The petition of property owners asking for an appropriation of $25 toward the grading of Park avenue east of the Farnam street school brought out a discussion which showed that the board has a claim of $10,000 against the city for property taken for the opening of the street. The matter was re-ferred to the committee on public property and buildings and judiciary. President Goodman was instructed to confer with the Coliseum managers relative to a children's day at the coming industrial exhibition. The committee on buildings and property was instructed to confer with the City counil with a view to having the water mains extended to the new school in Hitchcock's ad The salary of the teacher of drawing was fixed at $300 per year, that of the teacher of calisthenics at $1,000 and that of the teacher of music at $1,400.

The High school committee reported the scale of salaries for the ensuing year, making a few minor changes. Prof. Beals' salary was reduced from $1,500 to $1,200, Prof. How ard's salary raised from $1,100 to $1,200, and that of E. J. Kelsey and Mary E. Sanford reduced from $1,000 to $900. The report was adopted. The special committee appointed to devise means for relieving the overcrowded condition of the High school reported in favor of the following plan: The session of the High school shall continue until 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon instead of until 2 o'clock as at present. The teachers of the High school shall be divided into three divisions; one division shall teach from 9 o'clock until 2 p. m., with the same recesses as at present: the second division shall teach from 9 until 10:35 and from 12:35 until 3:30; the third division shall teach from 10:40 to 3:30 with a half hour's intermission for lunch. In this way only two-thirds of the teachers will be teaching at any one time and vet each one will teach the same number of hours as at present. This will render it unnecessary to use the small rooms unfit for use which are required at present. The report was adopted.

The board decided to pay one-fourth of the cost of the new election booths, and at 11:30 o'clock adjourned suatil next Monday night, when a meeting will be held to discuss. mong other matters, a bond proposition to be presented at the coming general election.

NEAL'S DEATH WARRANT. Sheriff Boyd's Official Notice of the Supreme Court's Finding. Sheriff Boyd received a communication yesterday from Judge Cobb that is of considerable importance to Ed Neal, the murderer, who is ow confined in the county jail. The document in question is the death warrant, and while it is not lengthy or burdened with legal phrases, it speaks right to the point. It states that the supreme court has passed upon the case and as there is no reason for legal interference, commands the sheriff to hang Neal on October 9, between the hours of 9 o'clock in the forenoon and 5 in the afternoon.

Neal knows nothing about the receipt of the warrant and probably will not be officially informed of its contents until a day or two before the execution when it will be read to

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

At Boyd's New theater for three nights and Saturday matinee, commencing Thursday evening next, Mr. J. K. Emmet will present "Fritz in Ireland" with its new and beautiful scenery and many novel features. Mr. Emmet intends that the revival of this popular play shall be augmented by the very finest scenic and mechanical effects that the play has yet had, and to that end he has employed the first scenic artists in America. Among the features offered in "Fritz in Ireland" are a mammoth church organ, a Swiss zither quartette, and a real Irish jainting car and donkey. Four infant choristers will assist in the musical portion of the entertainment. The sale of seats will open Wednesday morning.

Attention Veteran Firemen. There will be a meeting of the Veteras Fireman's association on Tuesday evening, September 22, at 8 p. m. at police court rooms. A full attendance is requested.
