Democratic Delegates.

The democratic central committee met yesterday afternoon and selected the following delegates to attend the judicial convention to be held in this city on Tuesday, September 29:

allly throughout the Rocky mountain region, including the greater portion of North and South Dakota. Light showers occurred over Texas and thence northward over Indian Territory and portions of Kansas and Nebraska, but generally there was a total absence of rain over the central valleys, and thence eastward, including the greater portions of the cotton and winter wheat belts. Drought conditions continue in New England and along the Atlantic coast, and the reduced rainfall has not only retarded farm work, but reduced the water supply in many places, and this has resulted in suspension of operations of numerous mills and factories which are operated by water power.

ures and winter apples are being injured. Stock water is scarce. Kansas—Fall plowing in progress in western portion, but none in eastern. Corn harvest progressing in all parts of the state. Colorado—The cold weather of the latter part of the week was unfavorable. General rains have placed ground in good condition for fall work. Utah—The week past has been exceedingly hot and dry with only southerly winds and prevailing clear skies. The temperature has been phenomenally high for this season of the year, ranging from eight degrees above the normal in the western part of the state, to fifteen degrees in the eastern. Warm winds have blown almost constantly. No rain has fallen in most parts of the state and not over half an inch anywhere. The corn has matured rapidly during the past week and is now safe excepting some late pieces in the northern part of the state; the hot weather and southerly winds have dried it out so fast as to materially lessen the weight of late pieces, but the crop as a whole promises to be decidedly above the average. The ground generally is too dry for plowing, which has hindered the putting in of fall grain, and rain is also needed for the pastures. With this, the last weekly bulletin of the season, we desire to express our thanks to the observers who have kindly furnished the information which has been embodied in these reports.

MAY FIGHT CITY HALL BONDS.

Omaha's Organized Labor Makes a Bold Stand for Home Industries.

PLAIN PROPOSITION TO THE COUNCIL.

Unless the Ketcham Contract is Reconsidered the Central Labor Union Will Fight the Proposed Bonds.

A CALL.

For the Douglas County Republican Convention.

The Central Labor union has decided to make an active part in the city hall furniture middle and will present a communication to the council tonight giving the views of Omaha's organized labor on the recent action of the council.

Last week the Woodworkers' union presented resolutions to the council ensuring that body for awarding the furniture contract outside of Omaha, to the direct injury to Omaha workmen.

Fire's Gradually Dying Out. ST. PAUL, MINN., Sept. 26.—[Reports from various parts of the state indicate that the danger from fires is about over. In some portions the flames are still destroying grass and timber. Around Hinckley the whole country is swept by the flames and almost everything outside of the town is burned.

doing to a large body of skilled workmen in this city, who have families depending on them for support. In Omaha a deep interest in their homes and our own fair city. We therefore, in behalf of organized labor, representing those people, consisting of the best talent of skilled workmanship in the city, have resolved to petition your honorable body to reconsider your action and encourage home industry. By so doing you will meet with the approval of those engaged in such work and of the business men dependent upon the success and employment of the laborers.
