Thomson-Houston Electric Light Company Neglecting Its City Contract.

NO ATTEMPT TO GO ON WITH THE WORK.

Gasoline People Doing Business at the Old Stand at Old Prices -History of the Deal in the Council.

The new Thomson-Houston Electric Light company, on the 4th of August of this year, entered into a congract with this city to furnish 700 electric lamps for street lighting purposes at the rate of $30 per year per lamp. The lighting was to be begun on November 1 of this year, the contract to run for two years, each light to be of twenty candle power. For faithful compliance with the terms of this contract, the company in question has given a bond in the sum of $5,000, which was signed by S. L. Wiley and J. J. Johnson, the former the president of the company.

November I was the limit set for a specific product of the company.

compliance with the contract, and, so far as appearance go, the new Thomson-Houston Electric Light company has done nothing to keep its word with the city. It has not noti-ned the city that it does not intend to furnish the light proposed, neither has it made any attempt to protect itself on its bond or to withdraw the same.

This is considered a remarkable proceeding by many citizens who unhesitatingly pro-nounce it a sharp trick in the interest of the company which is now lighting certain parts of the city with gasoline. If this view be correct, those same citizens claim the scheme is calculated to shut out competition in the matter of gasoline illumination and perpet-uate the monopoly enjoyed by the Ohio Street Lighting company, which is now serving the city in a very indifferent man-ner, and which is bound by no contract

The history of this case is fresh in the mind of the people, and need but briefly to be recapitalated.

On the 29th of June, 1886, the city entered Into a contract with the Ohio Street Light ing company for the lighting of 100 gaseline street lamps, and more if required, the light to be of twelve candle power at the rate of $19 per lamp per year. It was understood that the contract, at the expiration of one year, could be extended for two years more. Accordingly in June, 1887, the contract was extended for two years, B-C. Goodwill, the manager of the company accepting the terms of the previous year.

In June of 1889, the contract ran out and was not renewed. Neither was another contract entered into to take its place. But the same company has continued to furnish gasoline lemp light receiving therefor the rates it charged under the original contract. The latter, it may be stated, is vitally defective as far as compelling the company to furnish a maximum candle power. As a consequence, for years past, there have been hundreds of complaints made regarding the poor lights furnished but nothing has been done to deduct from the bills of the company an equivalent for the minimum light which it has so often given. Indeed, there is no authority to do so to be found in the contract, though there is when a lamp falls to be lighted or has been extinguished by the The monotonous existence which the com pany had enjoyed in this manner, for a long time was becoming irksome. It was desirous of varying it and, at the same time, pull more money out of the people's pockets.

It claimed that it had a new burner which which would give better light and which it would furnish to the city at the rate of $22 per lamp per year. This was an advance of $3 per lamp. The matter was referred to a committee and the latter recommended that the offer be accepted.

On motion of Councilman Elsasser, however, it was decided to ask for bids. Several replies were re-ceived, among them being one from Cedar Rapids of $20 for sixteen candle power; the Ohio Street Lighting company of $22 for sixteen-candle power; and the new Thomson-Houston Electric Light company, $20 for twenty-candle power. Bids on electric light not having been asked, and notwithstanding that there was a lower bid than that offered by the company now supplying the light, the bids were rejected.

The second advertisement for bids brought in Seeger with a bid of $15 for sixteen-candle power; the Onio Street Lighting company with $19 for sixteen-candle power. In this case, however the electric light company did not make its appearance. make its appearance.

The contract was awarded to Seeger, greatly to the mortification of the Onio company, which had counted upon the support of certain conneilmen, which it did not re-coive, as also that of the electric company, the support of which, to the surprise of the then manager, Captain Bell, mysteriously dis-

The Ohio company then commenced a fight upon the Seeger contract. The latter, it may be stated was a duplicate of the contract under which the Ohio people had always furnished their light. Yet when they were knocked out, they pointed out the fact that the contract with Seeger did not protect the city in that it did not provide a penalty for the failure to furnish the maximum candle power demanded by the contract, The objection was considered a valid one and the contract was returned, for the reasons mentioned, to the council without the approval of the mayor. The council could not pass the Again bids were opened, Seeger rising to $16.85 for sixteen candle power, the Ohlo people bidding $18.50 for sixteen and the New Thomson-Houston company $20 for twenty candle power.

The contract was awarded to the latter but, as before stated, the company has strong no wires, erected no posts to comply with its

This inexplicable conduct was greatly marveled at by many taxpayers and wonder became the greater the more inattentive the city scemed to be regarding the matter. Finally, at the last meeting of the council, Councilman Elsasser Introduced a resolution referring to the inactivity of the electric company and suggesting the appointment of a committee to inquire what the Thompson-Houston people proposed to do in the pre-mises. This committee was appointed and consists of Messrs. Elsasser, Blumer and

These councilmen will meet on Monday and endeavor to be ready to report on next Tues-No councilman could explain vesterday the unusual conduct of the electric people but the impression is general as has been hinted that it simply proposes to protect the Ohio com-pany in its present job, at least until the lat-ter can be driven out or confirmed in their contract by a new understanding. It is not apparent yet, however, how the Thomson-Houston people can do this without forfeiting the $5,000 bond which they have given to begin illuminating tomorrow.

The suspicion that the two companies last referred to are working together is strengthened by the fact that the Ohio folks have, since the contract was awarded to Thomson-Houston, put in probably 600 new burners, repaired their lamps and otherwise their plant as if they had a monopoly on the gasoline business "That doesn't look," says Councilman Elsasser, "as if they felt that Thomson-Hous-Eisasser, "as if they felt that Thomson-Hous-ton were going to shut them out. If they did not think that they were going to be all right would they go to such expense for a few months! They've put some of those new burners in my ward. The burners keep all right for a couple of weeks, and then you've got to take a lantern to find them, even when they're lighted."

President Wiley of the Thompson-

President Wiley of the Thompson-Houston people was out of town yesterday, and nobody at the office of the company could speak for him on this subject.

Meanwhile, the Ohio Street Lighting company continues at the old stand without a contract, furnishing its indifferent light, and svidently calculating to remain in the business as long as city affairs are conducted in a loose manner, and as long as they can get the assistance of the Thompson-Hou ston company.

Parnell's Nephew Attacks the Mc-Carthyite Leader. DUBLIN, Nov. 3 .- Mr. McDermott, a nephew of the late Mr. Parnell, today pubicly horsewhipped Timothy Healy, the most bitter of the anti-Parnell leaders. The horsewhipping was the direct outcome of language used by Healy at Longford Sunday last, when the anti-Parneli leader referred to Miss Parnell and to the widow of the late Charles Ste wart Parnell. Healy was rescued by the police, who arrested McDermott. Healy declined to make charges against his assallant and McDermott was released. Mr. Healy was reading in the library of the four courts when Mr. McDermott sent a messenger to say that Mr. Healy was wanted in the refreshment room. Mr. Healy on going into the hall, was seized by McDermott, who immediately began to apply the whip, saying at the same time: "That is for insults at Long Ford."

Mr. McDermott, after applying his whip, walked away. Mr. Healy at once retired to the library, as he says McDermott was At a league meeting today on the announcement that Healy had been horse-whipped, the audience rose and cheered. Mr. Healy, at Long Ford, stated that on visiting Puris to inquire about the release of the fund, he found a telegram from Messrs. Harrington and Kenny to the bankers, claiming a prior lies on the fund. "The bankers did not mind that," continued Mr. Healy, they minded more a letter from 'Kitty,' blocking the relief fund. Mr. Healy asserted that he saw the letter signed by 'That Woman,' he could not help believing that an alliance existed between the descendents of men who betrayed the Irish at Bellina Muck and the present fomenters of disorder. In the League of Lenglords and Free Masons' they heard a great deal about 'English dictation.' Was Mrs. Parnell an Irish woman! If the movements of Irishmen were to be controlled in England, it was better that they should be controlled from Hawarden than from Brighton."

After disposing of a few minor matters the Exchange took up the proposed new rute, No. 22, which made it unlawful for purchasers to weigh back lump jaw or diseased cattle to sellers after 4 o'clock of the day on which the purchase was made. There was considerable discussion, after which the adoption of the rule was put to a vote and lost. The general sense of the meeting brought out by discussion was expressed in a resolution, which was unanimously adopted, recommending that the slaughterers request the government inspectors now stationed at the various houses to station themselves at the scales or in the yards to inspect each bunch or cattle as it is weighed and furnish them with a certificate of inspection, this inspection to be final. The local inspector is to look after all other cattle, not bought by killers. The secretary was instructed to

The public schools were dis-missed upon the train's arrival and the teachers and pupils, numbering in all about 500, marched in a procession to the train, These visitors were given preference and busied themselves on their way through the cars with taking an object lesson on the wealth of Nebraska in agriculture and horticulture. The teachers expressed the opinion that this was the most valuable lesson learned for many months. Several hundred persons were unable to gain admission to the cars.

The train reached Piqua at 4 o'clock, being met by the mayor, Hon, E. M. Wilbee, who extended to the members of the party the freedom of the city. He was entertained at
