BEET SUGAR CONVENTION.

Lincoln Board of Trade Will Encourage the Industry.

ALL NEBRASKA WILL BE REPRESENTED.

December 17 Named for the Occasion - How the State Will Be Divided-Other Capital City News.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 20 .- Special to THE BRE, |-President Oakley of the Lincoln Board of Trade has issued a call for a beet sugar convention to be held in this city on Thursday, December 17. A general invitation is extended to all persons interested in the question, and a large attendance is anticipated. Representation in the convention will be apportioned as follows: One delegate from each newspaper and five from the State Agricultural society, the State Horticultural society, each board of trade, real estate exchange, commercial organization, from each county agricultural society and each county. The convention will be a rep resentative gathering of the citizens of No braska, the delegates being selected from al classes. All names of delegates selected should be sent Immediately to C. A. The builet is firmly impedded in the left pelvic bone and cannot be removed. If inflammation does not set in the young man will recover. Evans came from Omaha yesterday afternoon with Frank Harrison and Fred Sullivan. Harrison is not a bad looking boy, and says that he never met Evans until yester-day. Sullivan is evidently a tough young specimen. He claims to reside at the corner of Thirteenth and Chicago streets. The boys were arrested for singging two farmers, one of them an old man, without provo-cation. After they had been arrested Evans, who was identified as the one who performed the slugging act, broke away and ran, Hence his temperary residence in the hospital.

Another Election Contest.

Election contests are rapidly becoming the proper fad in Lincoln. Late last evening C. E. Waite, the republican candidate for clerk of the district court for Lancaster county, and who was defeated by Elias Baker, filed a notice of contest in the district court. He alleges that a large number of votes were content for him which were thrown by the cast for him which were thrown out by the returning board. The total number of votes legally cast for him and which were illegally rejected was 604, which, had they been counted, would have elected him by a good majority.

Louise Wanted to Die.

When Louise Lindsay retired to rest last night she firmly believed that long before another morrow dawned her spirit would have winged its way to the evergreen shore In order to basten her departure she swal-lowed the contents of a vial of laudanum. Her family discovered the fact and a cold-hearted physician with a most unromantic stomach pump brought her back before she had traversed more than half of the distance to the other land. She attempted suicide because her lover had spoken harshly to ber and unjustly accused her of attending a dance at a questionable resort on O street.

Wedding Bells and Orange Blossoms at Crets.

CRETE, Neb., Nov. 26 .- | Special Telegram to Tng Bag. |-This pretty city on the banks of the Blue was the scene today of one of the prettiest home weddings ever solemnized here, the contracting parties being well known in the social and intellectual life of this growing university town.

Thanksgiving came with particular joy to two hearts, although the ceremony was somewhat delayed, owing to the lateness of a western bound train which carried a num ber of friends to the nuptials of Miss Leona White and Mr. D. R. Hopkins.
In honor of the occasion the White resi dence was made brilliant with flowers. and smilax, the chandeliers being wined with ropes of evergreen, while chrys anthemums, roses and potted plants gave color to the pretty parlors of the bride's

The deep bay window of the parlor was converted into a temporary altar, pretty plants and flowers adding to its effectiveness white from the center was suspended a floral umbrella composed of white roses, chrysanthemums and smilax, under which the con-tracting parties stood to hear the words which united their lives on this Thanksgiving day. Shortly after 3 o'clock the orchestra, which was stutioned above stairs, began the "Wedwas stationed above stairs, began the "Wedding march" from "Lohengrin," the wedding party entering the drawing room from the hallway and passing up the aisle to the altar at the head of the room. The officiating clergymau, Rev. H. T. Davis, presiding elder of the Beatrice district of the Methodist Episcopal church, led the procession, followed by two little sixters of the bride Jessie and by two little sisters of the bride, Jessie and Lillian White, who acted as maids of bonor. Then came the bridesmaid, Miss Barnwell, a cousin of the bride, and the best man Mr. F G. Hansen; next the groom and the bride's mother, and lastly the bride, leaning on the arm of ber father.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served which was enjoyed by the guests

McCue, Beatrice. Their Golden Wedding.

ARLINGTON, Neb., Nov. 26,-[Special to THE BEE. ]-To comparatively few people is granted fifty years of peaceful, happy wedded life. Such, however, has been the favor bestowed on those early pioneers of Nebraska, the venerable and highly respected Mr. and Mes. John A. Unthank, whose golden wedding was celebrated last evening amidst great splendor in the ele-gant new half of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

The present occasion has been looked forward to with interest by the elite of the city, and when the hour of 8 o'clock arrived last evening the throng of honored guests gath-ered from all parts of the town was ushered into the commodious reception room of the beautiful ball. It was not long until the large hall itself was filled with the morry nultitude. At a few minutes before 9 o'clock the bride and groom passed through the large folding doors from the reception room to the center of the principal hall, where they were met by Mr. M. E. Taylor of Fort Calhoun, who repeated in a solemn and impressive manner the ceremony performed fifty years ago, and again they were pronounced man and wife. Again friends gathered around them to wish them much happiness. The bride wore a cream colored merino dress with long train, trimmed with satin and looked the picture of a bride indeed, still retaining in a marked degree the freshness and overiness of youth.

Inspection of the numerous and beautiful presents bestowed on the happy couple by thoughtful and generous friends next occupied the attention of the guests. Among the many other gifts the following are deserving of special mention: Water set, Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Unthank; card basket, Messrs. Chapman, Garane and ladies and Colonel L. C. Weber; bonbon dish with spoons and salt dish, Messrs. Badger, Jewitt, Dye and ladies; set of four salt dishes, Rev. and Mrs Ayers, and Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn; an elegant golden thimble, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cook; mustache cup, coffee cups and saucers, all gold lined, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scheettern Mess. Schoettger, Messrs, Campbell, Baith, Bat-son, Bacon and ladies; gold pencil and holder and button hook, Mr and Mrs. L. A. Schnei-der; napkin ring, Mr. and Mrs. Morley and Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield; gold watch guard and pin, Dr. and Mrs. Crawford; beautiful family emblem plaque with three painted coses representing three generations, Mrs. Or. Palmer of Blair; tea-pot trimmed in gold, Judge and Mrs. Hammany of Blair; two gold-lined goblets, Mrs. Hammar of California; gold hair piu, from friends in Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs. Dick Campbell and Mother, pair badges: Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stapies of Fremont, gold tootbpick holder; fruit dish and spoon, Mrs. Warner of California; Mr. and Miss Anson Hewitt, ar. elegant book. Games of various kinds were next indulged n and all were in a joyful frame of mind when refreshments were announced, and about one hundred people sat down to an abundance of the delicacies of the season. Mr. and Mrs. John A. Unthank were born in Ohio, but lived in Indiana just befre im-migrating to Nebraska in 1856, where they settled upon a homestead three miles east of Arlington, on the farm now occupied by Mr. John Fink. After some time he engaged in the grain and stock business at Ariington from which he recently retired.

AMUSEMENTS.

It was a happy Thanksgiving day for William J. Gilmore because the fates vouchsafed him two fine audiences for "The Devil": Auction." Every seat at the Boyd was sold last night, from the hithermost row in bald head paradise to the uppermost perch in "nigger heaven," while the boxes bulged with stag parties and the terraced ranks of sitters were fringed with standing numanity, and the entertainment was worthy the mag-nificent audience which it moved to alternatng storms of applause and choruses of

There was not much story in "The Devil's Auction" that was taken off the stage four years ago, and there is even less in its reuvenated form. George H. Adams, our friend of happy "Humpty Dumpty" mem-ory, carries the only speaking part of any particular merit, and he gives a frolicsome, lunny, donkeyesque impersonation of "Toby" that is irresistibly infectious; but the performance does not depend on acting ability in the scattered dialogue, and the inities even survive the betraval of a fairy who ceases a virtuous piatitude to sing an indifferent topical song. The story, what little there is of it, is an insipid mixture of demon and fairy with right triumphant, a sort of a dramatic milk and mush to feed simple mentalities, but that is the smallest part of the entertainment. The performance s largely extravaganza, and who ever suc ceded in fixing any limitations to that

"The Devil's Auction" in its new form is full of unique specialties, and is staged with great magnificence. It was to be expected that the costuming would be fine, but the scenery was beautiful to gorgeousness. The manager who favors public with such a wealth of pretty scenic effects is entitled to kindly, even generous, consideration. Among the specialties were several ballet divertisements much better and more elaborate than the average of-fort in that direction. The three Lorellas gave a pantomimic act which was not only new, but startling to the imagination and puzzling to the senses. The Bosbobles, man and woman, gave an acrobatic performance, in which the female turned handsprings, flipflaps and somersaults so gracefully and perfectly that her draperies were scarcely disarranged and never exposed more of her person than her ankles. But, early, the only way to get an adequate idea of this spectacular affair is to go and see it.

One of the most realistic scenes ever put upon the stage, 'tis said, is the railroad building scene in the second act of Dau'l Sully's play, "The Millionaire," which will be seen at Boyd's theater next Sunday and Monday evenings. In this scene a practical railroad track is laid complete by a large corps of Irish and Italian laborers. A strike among the laborers lends to the realism of the scene.

Union Thanksgiving services were held at the Methodist Episcopal church, Twenty-third and O steets, at 11 a. m. After the doxology, creed and gloria patri, Rev. Robert L. Wheeler delivered a most earnest and eloquent invocation. A beautiful anthem was then rendered by the choir. The scripture lesson was read by Rev. Marion Boles, after which the entire congregation joined in "America."

The guests of the Reed hotel gave a grand party last evening at the hostelry which they call "home." Nearly 150 invited guests were present, and the event proved enjoyable in every respect. The order of the even-ing was dancing, and twenty-four numbers constituted the program. J. H. Weir acted as master of ceromonies, while A. E. Brigham divided the honors as assistant. The floor committee, consisting of Messrs. Z. Cuddington, A. Owen, C. W. Puelps, G. B. Gotschail, W. S. Fletcher and L. J. The Knights of Pythias festival and bail held yesterday and last night at the Col-

The Coliseum was appropriately decorated with Pythian and United States flags, and the very atmosphere seemed to be laden with fraternal fellowship. Ample preparations had been made to serve supper, and when the time came for that part of the program to claim attention the tables were liberally patron-ized. The character of the assembly was a credit to the order and the sir knights ap-peared to improve the shining hours in genuine sociability.

The knights marched to the Coliseum from Metropolitan hall in the afternoon. The address of welcome was delivered by Mr. Will L. Selsm, and Mr. Richard O'Neill responded. The T. K. quartette sang several very enjoyable pieces and Mr. William S Hamilton delivered an address upon Pyth-

How Thanksgiving Evening Was Spent at the Y. M. C. A. Rooms. About 130 young men assembled at the Young Men's Christian association rooms last evening and enjoyed several nours of delightful sociability.

After an hour spent in conversation in the pariors the assembly was invited into the lecture room. Secretary Ober welcomed the guests to the hospitality of the association for the evening in a few appropriate remarks.

Mr. L. A. Torrens led in singing several familiar war songs while Mr. Thomas Kelly played the plane accompaniment. Several very fine selections of music were furnished by the banjo club. The gentlemen of the club were C. A. Baumgardner, G. F. Gellenbach, C. C. Rowden and A. J. Beaton. Mr. F. O. Carmack, commercial traveler from St. Louis, recited several humorous selections in a catchy and effective style, and was heartily applauded.
Dr. Duryea happened in and was called upon for an address. He spoke earnestly for ten minutes exhorting the young mon to renew their zeal for vigorous Christian effort and to do all in their power to rescue Omaha from the thraidom of sin.

The entire party then undertook the discussion of a barrel of apples, and everybody took part in that particular exercise. The success of the event was due very largely to the excellent manner in which Mr. Fred Abel superintended the arrangements

According to the prisoners' story, they walked and stole rides on freight trains all They first struck a job working as section men on the B. & M. In a few days they became tired of this kind of work and struck out for easier picking. Their next job was husking corn for a farmer. A boy working in the field near them overheard a conversa-tion about their desertion and told what he knew to his parents. Sheriff Leverich was notified and he placed the deserters under arrest. The prisoners confessed and the commanding officer at Fort McKinney was telegraphed. A message was sent di-recting the sheriff to bring his prisoners to Omaha and turn them over to the post com-mander at Fort Omaha. This will be done

In order of merit of posts in the department Fort Logan, Colo., stands first this year, whilst Camp Pilot Butte, which has stood first for the last four years, has dropped to the sixth place. At the annual rifle competition held at the Bellevue rifle range in August, every company in the department was represented by an enlisted man. The Seventeenth in-fantry was represented by two officers, and the Eighth, Sixteenth and Twenty-first regiments by one each. The Second and Seventh infantry had no officer representative,

The results of the competition were very satisfactory, showing a total for the first ten men of 5,388, a gain of 155 points over the first ten mea of last year. The phenomenal score of 590 points made by Private Richard N. Davidson, Company G. Sixteenth infantry, is worthy of notice, it being the highest ever made at the Believue riffe range. The feet of the team had a total of 521 points as against 511 points last year. The aggregate gain over last year is, for all competitors, 689 points, being a gain of 425 points at known distances and 264 at the skirmish firings. The per cent of all firings was 59.30, against 57.7 for last year. For the team of ten a total of 217, or 80.42 per cent, was made at known distances, against 3,235, or 80.87 per cent, 1890. At skirmish firings a total of 2,171, 54.27 per cent, against 1,998, or 49.95 per cent, The highest skirmish score this year is 258, against 222 of 1890; the lowest 68, against 99

At the army competition held at Fort Sheridan, III., this year the quota of five from the Department of the Platte rifle competition ecured one gold and two silver medals, and the quota of two distinguished marksmen one gold medal.

The annual cavalry competition for the Departments of the East, the Platte and Cali-fornia was held at the Bellevuo rifle range August 17 to 20 inclusive and the revolver natch August 21 and 22. There were twentyfive enlisted competitors from the First, Fourth, Sixth, Eighth and Ninth cavalry, and three officer competitors from the Sixth and four from the Ninth cavalry, thus makng thirty-two competitors in all The Sixth cavatry secured six places and the Ninth cavalry three on the carbine team, and each of the above regiments four on the revolver team, thus winning two gold medals ive silver medals and ten bronze medals. Of the quota of five representative competitors to the army carbine competition bree of the Sixth cavalry and two of the partment competition, and at the army com-petion they won two gold medals. The quota of two distinguished marksmen won one gold This year, owing to the many ranges, there tion for shooting galleries and ranges, there have rent for the Believus rifle range, but, rather than have the depart ment and cavalry competitions held else-where, the parties who own the land upon which the range is located consented to its use by the government without charge.

This range, with its beautiful surroundings, should be kept in condition for the department and other competitions. n good order, with a complete supply of camp and garrison equippage, tent floors and a per-manent bake house, and to break it up until such time as a new range can be prepared on the site of the new post of Fort Crook would e a misfortune.
