How a Noted English Earl Cared for and Treated His Wife.

COUNTRESS RUSSELL'S SUIT FOR A DIVORCE

Disgusting Details of the Case—The Earl Looked Upon by Spectators with Disgust—Testimony of the Countess.

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Countess Russell today applied for a judicial separation from her husband, Earl Russell, a grandson of Lord John Russell, on the ground of adultery.

The parties to the suit are well known in society and the allegations and counter allegations have afforded topics for conversation in many circles of upper society.

In his presentation of the case for the countess, Sir Edward Clarke stated that a divorce petition was filed in 1888, but was not proceeded with.

The earl made no attempt to leave her room at night, and stay late with a man named Roberts, who was sleeping in the house.

As an evidence of her estimation in which she held her husband, Sir Edward stated that he often said he would like to see her carried out of the house in a coffin.

Referring to the earl's accounts, Sir Edward said that he would not consent to arise after she had retired and go down stairs to fix them up.

When Sir Charles Russell began to probe into the relations between the earl and Roberts the interest in the court room became intense.

Who'll Handle the Transcript of Testimony Discussed at Length—Interest on City Funds—Routine Matters.

The crowd that filled the lobby at last night's council meeting was sorely disappointed, and nursing its disappointment fled out of the chamber and went home.

Contrary to the usual custom, no member attempted to speak the face of the pale moon with blood.

The report of the committee appointed to investigate the charges of boodling and submitting to be a witness in the case of the late Mr. White.

Everybody was anxiously waiting for the witness to dispose of the routine business. At last it was concluded and then President Lowry asked, "Are there any special committees to report?"

Mr. Chaffee was the first man to respond. He detailed the fact that many weeks ago a special committee had been appointed and told the subject that it had had under consideration.

IN JESSE JAMES' TERRITORY.

Train Robbers Invade Missouri and Bidly Hold Up an Express.

JUST TEN MILES OUT OF ST. LOUIS.

Dynamite Used to Blow Open the Car Door and the Messenger Bally Hurt—Made a Big Hunt.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 1.—A bold and successful train robbery took place on the St. Louis & San Francisco road near Glendale station, about ten miles from this city, shortly before 10 o'clock last night.

The Adams Express company was the victim of the job it was evident that they had planned to make a clean sweep of the express car.

When the train reached Old Orchard it is supposed four men boarded the express car. The other two, it is believed, boarded the train at Glendale.

Shortly after the train left Glendale the two robbers made their way to the engine cab, and placing revolvers at the heads of the engineer and fireman, compelled them to stop the train.

As soon as the train came to a stand still the engineer and fireman were taken to the express car. In the meantime the express messenger, who suspected something wrong, closed and belted the doors of the car and inside ready to defend the property entrusted to his care.

When the two robbers piloted the engineer and fireman to the car, they placed them under guard and tried to induce the messenger to open the door of the car.

The latter was obstinate. A stick of dynamite was placed against the car and exploded, blowing a hole in the side of the car.

The robbers then entered the car, and taking the key from the messenger soon had the safe open. Everything in the safe was taken and the messenger's gold watch and chain.

Estimates of the amount of money secured vary widely, ranging from $20,000 to $50,000, but nothing definite is yet known on this point.

Superintendent Damsell of the express company says it will be several days before the exact amount can be ascertained.

While the robbers were doing the work at the express car the other four bandits kept the remainder of the train crew and passengers in a state of terror by the constant fusillade which they kept up all the while.

Fourteen shots were fired into the smoking car, but fortunately no one was hit.

The only description of the robbers obtained is of the two that climbed into the engine. One of them was a young man, tall, with light complexion and heavy mustache.

The other had a dark complexion, dark clothing, was about five feet six inches, had a very thick nose, which had a peculiar motion. Both men wore light overalls.

The reports that the postal car was also denuded is erroneous, as authentic reports say that the express messenger was the only one who was robbed.

Express Messenger Mulrean is said to have been seriously injured in the hip by the explosion and is now in a hospital. The butts of revolvers in the hands of the robbers, a large posse is making a search for the bandits.

It is definitely known as to how much money was stolen by the robbers. Manager Damsell of the Adams Express company says that the amount of money secured was about $20,000.

Dispatches received from Missouri, Mo., state that the robbers were seen at the station at Glendale, Mo., and that they were seen to enter the express car.
