

DUN'S REVIEW OF THE WEEK.

Business Prospects Remarkably Favorable for the New Year. NORTHERN PRODUCTS IN GOOD DEMAND.

New York, Jan. 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The first week of the new year has been marked by some striking events. These changes do not threaten, but promise to keep the legitimate business of the country with over confidence speculation at this time might have embarras-

The government issued this week its final statement of the yield of wheat, corn and oats. The yield of wheat now reported so far exceeds previous department estimates that the price has dropped sharply 3/4 cents for the week on sales of only 15,000,000 bushels. Oats also dropped 3/4 cents, but corn rose slightly 1/2 cent. Large exports, actually exceeding those of wheat, for three days of the week sustaining the price. Pork products scarcely changed. Oil rose 2 1/2 cents and coffee one-fourth of a cent. Cotton has dropped to the lowest price since early in 1891, viz., $7.41 for middling uplands. Receipts at the south continue greater than last year, and although exports are also greater the stock accumulated and largely carried by banks at various points has a depressing influence. This effects trade throughout the south, and at Memphis the outlook is considered poor and collections are very slow. At Nashville trade is only fair, though money is easier. At Little Rock trade is dull; at Galveston very conservative, with failures much exceeding those of last year in number; at Savannah trade is quiet, though money is easy, and at New Orleans no cash exports and a better feeling is seen in the money market, though unusual quantities of cotton, sugar and rice are being carried. The demand for sugar and rice is strong and active, with slightly better prices, but cotton is declining with heavy receipts.

Trade in the North. Trade in other parts of the north is fair for the season; new wool is quiet not having entirely passed. At Boston business is better in some lines. At Philadelphia liberal orders are noted for spring materials, while trade in other branches is very light. The prospect is considered good. Baltimore reports a healthy money market and Cincinnati a fair business in moderate trade in whiskies, with a favorable start for the year. At Cleveland trade is good for the season and rolled iron in good demand. At Pittsburgh the outlook seems better, pig iron is strong and finished iron is in good demand. Chicago reports some increase in receipts of barley, cured meats, cheese and butter. Flour is quiet, double last year's of four, corn, rye and dressed beef fully double, and of wheat three times last year's. Dry goods sales are light, though exports are heavy. Clothing and shoes are larger than a year ago and more in fair demand, with the supply ample. The trade in millinery is good and gives good indications for the spring trade and heavy snow helps the lumber business. At St. Paul trade is quiet, as usual, with excellent prospects. At Minneapolis the car famine is over and the output of flour for last week was 12,000 barrels, against 11,000 last week, with lumber sales of 1801 exceeding those of any other week. At St. Louis cold weather causes better trade in heavy clothing, and other trade is reasonable, the grain blockade having broken. Trade in St. Louis is quiet and money in light demand.

Collections throughout the northwest are very fair, though slow at most southern points.

Improvement in the Great Industries. The great industries report no important change, though in iron a large business is being done and the tone is improved. Some improvement is noted in the steel, a fair business in structural iron. The coal trade is ragged, though the demand is beyond all precedent. Less demand is seen for copper, though in some grades a fair supply, weaker and load dull. The money market has been well supplied at this point and other markets throughout the northwest, are well supplied. In the northwest the country are remarkably favorable for the beginning of a new year, excepting at the south, and while the depression in that section may continue for some time, branches of manufacture the uplifting influence of large northern crops and of unprecedentedly heavy exports of raw wool products give substantial ground for the great confidence which prevails.

The business failures occurring throughout the country during the past six months, since the center 31 are 438, as compared with a total of 329 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 403.

WEEKLY WALL STREET REVIEW.

Market Active and Striking Advances Made with Excellent Prospects. New York, Jan. 8.—Bradstreet's Weekly Wall Street Review says: To all appearances the favorable anticipations in regard to the course of speculation have been verified by this tendency during the first week of the year. The activity of the market has been remarkable, and advances of a striking character have occurred in many portions of the market. At the same time that the transactions have increased in volume it is evident that the participation has broadened, and that the January disbursements, with the encouraging financial conditions and steady increase of railroad earnings, have produced a great deal of fresh buying. It was noticeable that London and Europe generally took no part in the upward movement of prices which so characterized the week. Indeed, there was selling from that quarter during the greater part of the week, and speculative sentiment in the foreign markets is apparently not so confident as to the bullish disposition which prevails here. At the same time our market, though widening and improving in character, is not so active as supply seems to be largely professional in character.

Beard's Sentiment Broke Out. That manipulative influences should be so strongly at work is not surprising. Indeed, such manipulations are the order of the day in the market in motion. But the fact is apparent that the smaller professional operators in their new found bullish enthusiasm, tended to become quickly overreached, thus preparing the way for a reaction. Early in the week, therefore, particularly as London failed to show any disposition, the upward progress of the leading stock was checked and the advances become confined more to the specialties and manipulated stocks, while the other members of the group chop out in some quarters. Little impression, however, was made, and on Thursday the market resumed its upward course, though in the afternoon it was checked by a rally in gold, which had been executed by a large result in some liquidation by overreached speculators. At the same time the general market continued to be bullish and though it was recognized that its progress toward a higher level may take a slower and more orderly of the market in such a course as to very northern and Friday's speculation, though somewhat feverish, was strong in its tendencies.

Heading Railway Shares Active. The Vanderbilt trunk line stocks with Erie were somewhat neglected, although the Erie, the only member of the group which had been left behind in the previous rise, was taken in hand and advanced from 7 1/2 to 7 3/4. The other members of the leading group, Rock Island, however, with exception, being very active on Wednesday and Thursday and advancing from 8 1/2 to 8 3/4. The general market, with few exceptions, was to some extent, allowed to rest, the most noticeable movement in them being in Western Union. Union Pacific, however, was decidedly active, showing a very favorable earnings, which was in marked contrast to the very decrease shown in the current earnings of the Northern Pacific company and to the weakness of that stock

Some interest was displayed in the coal group. The real interest of the week centered in a number of specialties. New England, which opened for the week at 2 1/2, advanced rapidly to 2 3/4, and nearly to 3, resuming, however, its upward course and touching 3 1/4. Mitchell Terminal was depressed at first, but recovered ground. Among the prominent speculators were Chicago, New Albany & Chicago, which was very active, advancing from 30 to 31, with Wheeling & Lake Erie, Iowa Central, Chesapeake & Ohio and others. Chicago Gas was the feature of the industrial. It was strongly supported and worked up to 80. This, however, was followed by a sharp manipulative break on Thursday, which carried the price to 75, and was efficient in demoralizing the general market, although the stock participated to some extent in Friday's recovery of value.

Dr. Cullimore, oculist, Box building Oscar Olsen's Death. Careful Investigation Fails to Clear Up the Mystery of the Case.

The inquest over the remains of Oscar Olsen, the Western Union messenger boy who died under such peculiar circumstances Thursday morning, was held yesterday in Coroner Maul's undertaking rooms.

The jury was composed of the following gentlemen: Charles J. Meiner, George H. Whitmore, William Traflet, Ed Emery, W. A. Sharp and John G. Drexel. County Attorney Manney was present and conducted the examination of the witnesses, of whom there were five—the two doctors who conducted the autopsy, the two messenger boys who found Olsen and the night clerk who had charge of the office.

During the examination the mother of the dead boy testified that he had been in the room and listened intently to the evidence.

Edgar Apple, 611 North Eighteenth street, night clerk for the Western Union, testified that he last saw Olsen in his office in good health about 2 o'clock, when he left the office with sheets of the night report for the Western Union. He, thirty minutes later he was called into the office by two messenger boys. He was bleeding from the nose and ears, but was able to help himself, and took off his coat, folded it up and put it on the table and then rolled up his sleeves and washed his face. The injured boy said, "Don't hit me—I ain't got nothing." Another boy, who was sent out by Olsen left, came back from The Bee and the witness asked him for the "skeletons." The boy said that the elevator man at The Bee, claiming old him had been sent down by messenger boy. Witness asked Olsen about them, but he said he knew nothing about them. They were subsequently found in his outside pocket.

The only bruises noticed was his outside left temple, and he frequently said, "Oh, my head."

The boy wore a soft cap, but witness didn't know whether he had it on when he was assisted into the office. He was gone about ten minutes longer than the other boys, and a receipt sheet was signed at the World-Herald office at 2:30 and at The Bee office at 2:10. He was of a peacelike disposition, well behaved, and was a boy who always had friends.

Dr. H. C. Sumney was the next witness. He was called to attend the boy and found him suffering from contusion of the brain, but there was no compression of the brain at that time, as he had not bled enough. He was with the boy about three-quarters of an hour, and found the contusion on the left side of the forehead, and found a horseshoe shaped fracture about five or six inches long. He did not think a fall would have caused such a fracture. The boy must have run against something or received a heavy blow. The blood clot on the brain was about five inches in diameter and nearly an inch thick. The bones were not compressed. Death was caused by compression from blood clot caused by rupture of an artery due to a blow from some dull instrument. A blow from a slick hammer would have caused the injury without brass knuckles or a similar weapon. The wound would be ordinarily fatal, although if treated would not have been so fatal, had the boy recovered. The witness was not called until 3 hours after the injury occurred. The injury could hardly have been caused by a fall on the paving block which had been seen tripping and plunging against some object standing vertically in front of his desk.

Dr. W. P. Wilcox, who also assisted at the autopsy, said he never saw a more extensive fracture of the skull, which extended five and a half inches. The blow fell on the left temple at what would be the toe of the shoe. The force fell on an area not exceeding two and a half inches square. Witness thought a man would have to fall from a great distance to make such a fracture. He did not think the boy could have fallen against the iron post of the railing with force enough to do it. A fist could not have done it, and a club or bat would have been a loaded weapon covered with something, or the cap might have been used to strike the boy on the skin. The witness did not think the boy could possibly have inflicted the injury upon himself or that it could have been the result of a fall.

This was all the evidence that the coroner had to introduce, and as the county attorney expressed a desire to look over the ground where the boy had been killed, a preliminary examination of the locality. The two messengers, Nelson and Kennedy, took their positions in the hallway near the door where they heard Olsen's outcry. One was about thirty feet east and the other eighty feet west of the point where they found Olsen standing in the condition in which they heard him cry out about his head.

Three of the jurors were satisfied that Olsen slipped and fell, striking his head on the knob of the iron post. The fall occurred around the area way about three feet from where he was standing when discovered. The others were undecided, and one of them was not sure that the boy was struck by some unknown person who afterward concealed himself in the area way. The following compromise verdict was agreed upon: "We, the jury, find that Oscar Olsen came to his death from compression of the brain resulting from injuries received in a manner unknown to the jury."

LIBERALITY OF "CASH K."

The Unknown Friend of Charity Doubles His Use of Some Year's Donation. Some philanthropic individual in Omaha whose heart reaches clear down to his finger tips has for six years been sending cash to those engaged in charitable work, and signing his name as "Cash K." The identity of this generous person has been completely hidden from the public and from every body but himself.

The money was sent for several years to Rev. W. J. Harsh, and it was invariably sent by special delivery or registered letter, so that the identity of the sender could not be ascertained. For five years, just about the middle of December, when the charity work began, "Cash K." has been sending his contributions to the Rev. W. J. Harsh, and it was invariably sent by special delivery or registered letter, so that the identity of the sender could not be ascertained. HAVE A CORNER ON ALCOHOL. The Whisky Trust in Trouble Over a Clause in a Contract. REGULATED BOTH SALE AND PURCHASE.

Mr. Meyer of the Omaha Distillery Explains the Working of the Trust and Tells of a New Scheme of Its Managers.

For many months past the Western Distillery and Cattle Feeding company, more commonly known as the whisky trust, has had a corner on alcohol, and it seems that no other trust has been able to obtain that article unless he bought it from the trust. In order to get alcohol he had to comply with certain conditions made by the company, but the trust, in return, would issue a 5 per cent rebate certificate which now reveals the operation of the alcohol trade in trust.

Advices received from Chicago state that the department of justice at Washington had instructed United States District Attorney Mitchell to investigate the methods and business of the trust.

The basis for the proposed proceedings by the department of justice is a complaint received from the Alexander Drug & Seed company, of Augusta, Ga. The company says that it has been unable since last summer to buy nearly a single barrel of alcohol, except on the terms mentioned in the certificate. The Georgia drug house claims that it has inquired and cannot discover where to buy the alcohol on the terms as set forth in the certificate. According to the firm's statement the purchaser of alcohol was slightly bound to buy from the trust, but was absolutely at the trust's mercy.

The rebate certificate reads as follows: FROM: THE DISTILLING AND CATTLE FEEDING COMPANY, 215 So. 4th St., Omaha, Neb. TO: THE ALEXANDER DRUG & SEED COMPANY, 120 S. W. 4th St., Augusta, Ga. This certificate is valid and payable only upon condition that the above named purchaser, the signature on this certificate from date of this voucher to the time of its payment, shall have bought their supply of alcohol from the distilling and cattle feeding company, or its agents, at the price of 75 cents per gallon, and all companies dealing in alcohol and all companies buying alcohol for one or more of the dealers named in the above certificate, shall be bound to sell the alcohol at the price of 75 cents per gallon, and shall not be permitted to sell the alcohol at any other price, with freight, if any, is paid by purchaser, added, and shall also have subscribed to the above certificate.

A. L. Meyer, manager of Her & Co.'s Willow Springs distillery, stated yesterday that the trust has a corner on alcohol, and has sold only goods so purchased at any lower price than said dealers' list prices, with freight, if any is paid by purchaser, added, and shall have subscribed to the above certificate.

Apprehending that the government would commence some kind of proceedings to prosecute the trust, Mr. Meyer said, the clause was stricken from the certificate. The trust came to the conclusion that it was unconstitutional to try and compel dealers to sell at a certain price. A new certificate of rebate is now being issued, and a customer is given the rebate on condition he buy of the company. The rebate varies from 70 to 75 per cent, according to the price of alcohol, and is authorized by the company for six months in order to make the purchaser comply with the terms of the certificate. When the goods it is with that implicit agreement.

"As the certificate now reads," said Mr. Meyer, "no one can interfere with our business, and we have eliminated the objectionable clause."

The complaining Georgia drug firm, as you mention, was not obliged to deal with our company. There are distilleries in Cincinnati, St. Louis and Nebraska City that are not in the trust, and all of those are in business to buy alcohol for the public. The rapid absorption of the whisky trade by the company has aroused much feeling in many quarters and the action of the district attorney is being awaited with interest.

Not Troubling President Greenhut. Reports, Ill., Jan. 8.—A dispatch from Chicago calling that District Attorney Mitchell would lay the methods of the Western Distilling and Cattle Feeding company before the next federal grand jury was shown to President Greenhut last night. He said the charge was continually being made that the company was doing wrong, but the charge would be revoked in such a case. His people were not giving any thought or anxiety to the matter, as it came up every little while.

Real Merit Is the characteristic of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it is manifested every day in the remarkable cures this medicine accomplishes. Drugists who keep a stock of Hood's Sarsaparilla to see when a new customer we are sure to see him back in a few weeks after more—proving that the good results from a trial bottle warrant continuing its use. This positive merit Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses by virtue of the peculiar combination, proportion and process used in its preparation, and by which all the ingredients are absorbed into the system, and the ingredients used is attained. Hood's Sarsaparilla is this peculiar to itself and absolutely unequalled in its power as a blood purifier, and as a tonic for building up the weak and weary, and giving new strength.

The board consists of the sanitary and health commissioners, chief of police and other committees on streets and alleys and sewers, but there are no such committees now in existence, as the old committees died with Mayor Cushing. Health Commissioner Gapan and Sanitary Commissioner Andra are still looking after affairs as best they can, but they claim that there is no definite authority for doing anything and they are disconsolately waiting for the turn of the official axe that will again give them the right to live.
