HARMONY DECLARED TO HAVE FLOWN

Postmaster General Wanamaker Accused of Entertaining Ideas Not in Accord. With the President-Where Jay Gould Figures in the Case,

> WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE BEE, 513 FOURTEENTR STREET, WARRINGTON, D. U., Feb. 11.

This has been another of Postmaster Genoral Wanamager's days for falling into the high carnival of democratic liars. The lies have mostly related to his alleged retirement from the cabinet, announced probably for the twentieth time on creditable authority. The reasons for this certain retirement are probably more amusing now than ever. The "alleged reason" was that Mr. Wanamaker had cut down the pay of the small postmasters, a thing which is regulated by law, and with which he has no more to do than the wife of the man in the moon. Another alleged reason was that he had discontinued too many country postoffices to suit the president, when the records of the department show that never before in the history of the ser-vice have so many needed postoffices-petitioned for by patrons of the mails-been es tablished.

A third "reason" why the postmaster gen eral was to retire was that he must make room for J. S. Clarkson, lately the first assistant, when it is well known by his confidential friends here that the chairman of the national committee would not, if he could, accept any place in the gift of the administration because of the position he holds as party chair man.

Another Alleged Reason.

Still another alleged reason why the presi dent was determined, was that Jay Gouid, who is opposed to postal telegraphy, which Postmaster General Wanamaker advocates had taken the president into camp and had done violence to the integrity of his cabinet, when the fact is that the post-master general's fight for postal tele-graphy was never so warmly supported by the prominent members of his party as it is now, and that it is stated on good authority that Jay Gould himself is more convinced now than ever before that postal telegraphy under Mr. Wanamaker's limited contract plan, where no extra expense or employment of people by the government would be in volved, would not only be a great public convenience to millions but an almost certain source of revenue to the Western Union.

It may not please the carnival of demo to know it, but the id the members of his cratic liars t president and cabinet, especially his postmaster general, the chairman of the republican national committee and the leaders of the party in general, are on the best of terms. Mr. Wanamaker will stay and will continue to advo-cate his postal reforms to the end of his term, it not longer, and Mr. Clarkson will continue to discharge the laborious duties of party chairman. These statements are made on good authority, sure enough.

In the Interest of Veterans.

Today Congressman Seerley of Iowa, in apeaking of the bill which passed the house yesterday for the extension of the charter for the bridge across the Mississippi at Burlington, said that the company had not had money enough to build the bridge, but by an extension of two years they will have an op portunity to erect it. Mr. Seerley was asked about the amendment which he introduced in relation to evidence in pension cases and he replied: "As the law now stands an applicant for a pension must have evidence from the officer of his company of his regiment and it is a very difficult thing for officers to remember the men who served under them twenty five or thirty years ago. My resolution provides that the evidence of a private soldier shall be received in such cases just as the testimony of officers is re-ceived now. I understand that the pension committee will bring out a bill incorporating this idea into a proposed law, amending many of the peculiar features of the present pension laws and I feel sure it will get through "both houses of congress."

At present the rate from Texas points to St. Louis and Kansas City is considerably lower than the rate between the same points and South Omaha. Mr. Babcock is endeavoring to secure an equality of rates from these points and it is thought that the visit of the Kansas City and St. Louis officials has something to do with the matter Mr. Patterson expressed gratification at the rapid growth of the South Omaha vards, but smilled incredulously when the prospect of Kansas City being surpassed was montioned. Don McN. Palmer, superintendent and general manager of the stockyards at St.

Louis, and C. P. Patterson, general traveling agent of the Kansas City yards, were the guests of Manager Babcock yesterday

Their visit is stated to be merely for the purpose of looking over the South Omaha yards. It is known, however, that at a recent meeting at St. Louis Manager Babcock made an effort to obtain an adjustment of rates which would be favorable to this city.

The fact that Mr. Swift intends to devote himself to the development of the South Omaha plant is thought to indicate his opinion that the Magic City is destined to be the most important packing point of the company Mr. Swift is now in California put is ex pected to arrive in South Omaha so this month. He will superintend the exten sive improvements contemplated by the com E. F. Swift, who has been in charge of the Kansas City plant, will be transferred to Chicago.

Not Scared at Indian War News.

J. M. Delmont, a weil known Colorado ranchman, was at the yards yesterday. He is an old resident of Colorado and New Mexico and did not attach much importance to the reported outbreak of the Navajo Indian near Coolidge, N. M.

"I have become pretty familiar with these Indiains." said he, "and I do not believe they will ever fight except to the extent of petty depredations. The same circumstances re ported in the morning papers have existen for years. There have always been bad blood between the Navajos and the cowboys and there is scarcely a year when it does not result in trouble. It never amounts to anything more serious, however, than the theft of a fow cattle, and i do not believe that it will be any different this time."

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 11.-[Special to THE BEE. ]-The talk of an extra session of the legislature is becoming more emphatic. As yet Governor Boyd is noncommittal and to all inquiries makes answer either that be wishes to do only what the people want or that he desires to consult with prominent members of his own party. It is a significant fact that he has today received calls from several democratic members of the last legislature, among them being White and Shyrock of Cass and Ames of Otos. Tabe Castor, the democratic warhorse of Saline county, was also a caller. A prominent demscrat who is, it is believed, in the confidence of Governor Boyd, said this afternoon that the only thing that may possibly deter the governor from calling an extra session was the uncertainty as to just how tractable the independent majority may be. It is understood that the two p cipal points to be included in the call for possible extra session is a bill for the regulation of freight tariffs and another for a new apportionment of the state into legislative districts. There may be other matters in-cluded in the call, especially a proposition to "Michiganize" the state: but at least one democrat, who is in a position to know, as-serts positively that such a proposition will not be considered.

Another Significant Straw, It has generally been supposed that the leading members of the independent party would be opposed to an extra session. The Farmers Alliance, a newspaper generally acknowledged as the mouthpiece of the independent party, is out this evening with the following significant editorial reference to the proposed extra session : "The constitution is mandatory as to the daty of making a reapportionment after every state and national census. As a matter of fact the legislature at its first session could not constitutionally have passed an apportionment oill, for the reason that it had no knowledge that an enumeration of the population had been made. After the session had been well ad-vanced unofficial information was received of the number of inhabitants of the state and counties. We cannot ascertain at the state department that official information as to the census has ever yet been received. A called session, therefore, for the purpose of an apportionment, would be legal and regular. In fact, it seems to be mandatory upon the governor to call it. If it is not done no appor tionment can be made until after the state census of 1895. The governor can include some other objects to be acted upon if he chooses to do so. But as we now understand it, it is imperative that he should call the legislature together. The plain intent of the constitution cannot be otherwise fulfilled."

On a Business Basis,

One of Governor Boyd's first official acts will be to bring about the reorganization of the grain inspection department at Omaha a business basis. He will appoint R. P. Thompson, the present deputy, as chief in-spector. He said to THE BRE representative this afternoon that he should certainly not appoint any but a practical man as chief inspector. The difficulties which have been encountered in the grain isspection departspector. ment of Omaha will doubtless be done away with. Mr. Thompson is acknowledged to be practical and experienced man and his appointment it is believed will give general satisfaction to the grain men of Omaha. The friends of Fred Race of this city are etitioning Governor Boyd to appoint him hief inspector for the Lincoln department. Before the governor makes this appointment he will give the construction of the ware-house law a thorough consideration from a practical standpoint. He will not, however, be able to give the matter any attention until heart matter any attention until next week. Although the warehouse law

Four more precincts were canvassed, making twenty-four in all. Waite's gain has been fifteen. There yet remain thirty precincts to count, but Baker's attorneys have filed objections to that procedure, claim-ing that as the returns were stored in a vault in the court house cellar, where they were accessible to anyone who cared to see them alone, they should not be counted. Argu-ment on this point will be made before Judge Lansing tomorrow morning. A meeting of the Lancaster County Ber association was held at President Wilson's office this evening. In his petition the plaintiff avers that on April 21, 1891, he leased from Martin Quick 100 acres of land that is located in the disputed territory in the vicinity of Cut-Off lake. During last November Callahan institated proceedings in ojectment, claiming that he owned the land. December 15 the case was heard before Justice Shaw, who decided that Callahan owned the land. A few days inter a constable appeared upon the scene with a writ of ejectment. Christiausen's wife, who was sick, was put out doors, and everything turned over to Callahan. Later on Christiansen moved upon the land, and now asks for an injunction to restrain Callahan from instituting any further proceedings until the question of title and boundary can

Peoria, 111. On Western Weather.

Senator Pettigrew some time ago suggested to the signal office in the Agricultural department that the office collect data of certain states showing what the weather had been and everything in relation to it upon which could be based predictions in the future. The weather office has prepared a report upon the investigations thus far made covering the states of Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Montana and Nebraska and will in a short time submit it to congress. It is said to contain some very valuable statis tics and it will open up for the signal office a wider field than it has heretofore occupied relative to the influences upon the weather of the past year at subsequent periods.
