At the Musee. Manager Lawler of the popular Eden Musee has secured one of the best bilis of the season. Always looking for novelties, he has secured the greatest feature in that line in the rooster orchestra. This is composed of seven barn yard fowls who perform on stringed instruments, keeping precise time to the beat of their leader, a majestic redtopped Shanghai. Without doubt of contradiction this is the greatest act of birds ever presented in the world. In the Theater Comique the famous Dan Mason, late of Kelly & Mason's tigers, and his coterie of stars will give one of the most laughable and entertaining burlesques of the day. His wife, Miss Millicent Page, one of the leading soubrettes of the comedy world, will also appear, together with a company of sketch artists, minstrel men, burlesquers, comed ans and acrobats, making an unusually strong attraction. Prof. Catulie, the famous Parisiene illusionist, will exhibit some of the wonders of his art. Another Paris novelty appearing this week is the Musical Masons, who play on all concievable grotesque instru-ments imaginable. On the whole the man-sgement promises the best entertainment of W. T. Seaman, wagons and carriages. The Celebrated "Wheelock" Pianos Only at Meinberg's, 109 North 16th street.

of Pocahontas, will give their ball Recention to Scharwenka. The reception tendered Herr Xaver Scharwenka by his former pupils, Messra. Cummings and Jones of the Omaha Conservatory evening, was ant tribute to one of the world's greatest omposers and musicians. During the hours of the reception, 9 to 12, the handsome rooms of the conservatory were crowded with musicians, music lovers and their friends, and the pianist had abundant opportunity to indge of the work being done in the west by the pioneers of musical life and thought by contact with those who were present on Wednesday evening. So different was it all from what Scharwenka expected, so enthusiastic did be find the musicians here, and so cultured the people, that the reception was an oasis in the life of the particular guest of he evening, who has so lately come to America.

Mrs. F. W. Gray, Mrs. Evelyn Allen, Miss Myrtic Ketchum, Mr. Adolph Moyer, Mr.
E. M. Jones and Mr. J. G. Cummings received the guests in the parlors of the con-servatory. Later the large audience room on the fifth floor was converted into a ball room and the guests danced until midnight. delightful refreshments were served, the gentlemen at the head of the institution exerting themselves to make the evening pleasurable. In conversation with Herr Scharwecka he expressed himself as in-debted to the people of Omaha for their ap-preciation of his work and thought that our ity had a great future, musically, before it A mong the large number of people present during the evening the following are recalled during the evening the following are recalled:

VELASCO, TEXAS, A COMING CITY

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES

The Wheat Crop of the West-How to Transe port it to Foreign Countries-Great Benefits for the Western Grain Raiser,

VELASCO, Ter., Feb. 17, 1892.—[Special Correspondence to THE BEE.]—So much has been said concerning a deep water harbor on the coast of Texas, and its attendant beneficial results to all the great interests of the transmississippl country, that there are but few business men in all this great section who have not, at least, a general idea of the benefits which such a harbor would assure to which such a harbor would assure to them. The average man, however, has not given the such a bacter that careful thought which erters into details, and he is, therefore, 'at prepared to hear the statement man, that such a harbor on the Texas coast, leep enough to short vessels which usefully engage in the grain trade with ferbign countries, would have saved the farmers of the transhave saved the farmers of the trans-mississippi at East $25,000,000 on the shipment of their wheat crop alone in

The wheat crop of 1891 was 611,780,000 bushels, valued at $513,472,711. Of this 611,780,000 bushels the transmississippi raised at least two-thirds, or 400,000,000 bushels. At least 350,000,000 bushels of the entire crop was or will be consumed at home, and the balance of 261,780,000 bushels exported to England and the European continent, Of these millions of bushels for export, 200,000,000 of them were or will be shipped from the country west of the Mississippi river. There being no por on the gulf coast ready to receive or sandle last year's crop, it was exported via the Atlantic seaboard 565 miles further from the grain fields than the gulf coast. Tho cost of transporting this wheat 565 miles is 12f cents per bushel, thus entailing a loss upon the farmers of this great section of $25,500,000 or 124 cents per bushel on 200,000,000 bushels of

All this vast sum of money lost in freight bills to the producer of wheat. because there was no port on the coast of Texas to handle his crop for export! Then imagine, if you can, the loss in freight bills to the farmers on all tho Tuesday evening. The bachelors had given cesses, and the ladies aimed to repay their products of this great country which are the bachelors at the same time. Their sucseeking an outlet to foreign shores, cess was flattering in each case. Knights of through the ports on the Atlantic sea-Pythias hall never looked more inviting. In board, pouring further riches into the effete east, and only coming back to us when we exchange a mortgage for "Welcome Bachelors," was suspended in gilt letters across the hall. The bachelors entered in a body and prethem. The average value per bushel to the farmer for last year's wheat crop was 83,93 cents. If the farmer of the transmississippi had shipped through a port on the gulf coast, it would have netted him 96.68 cents per bushel. Mrs. B. F. Carpenter, entered from the east parlor and gave the most elaborate grand inarch ever attempted in South Omaha. Mrs. Carpenter welcomed the bachelors and Mr. S. P. Brigham, president of the club, responded and presented flowers. Dancing followed and refreshments were served at midnight. The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watts, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel T. Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Menefee, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. D. Sul-Another loss that the western farmer pockets is that occasioned by the grain blockades, which occur annually on the roads leading to the eastern seaports, and when the loss sometimes reaches $50 or $60 a car. A new era, however, has dawned for he western farmer. He need no longer sustain this heavy loss. His day of emancipation from the thraldom of the east is at hand. The long hoped for re-M. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Monefee, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. D. Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Van Dusen, Mr. and Mrs. George Kisor, Mr. and Mrs. John Doe, Mr. and Mrs. James Bulla, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hayward, Mr. and Mrs. W. Witten, Mr. and Mrs. T.G. Lauer, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cheek, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cornish, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Saxe, Mr. and Mrs. William Cook, Mr. and ief from heavy freight bills, grain blockades and grain speculators, through a deep water harbor on the gulf coast, has come at last. This deep water har-bor is here at Velasco, and it will be ready to receive and handle the wheat crop of 1892. Will the farmers and grain shippers of the west embrace this opportunity and utilize this port for which they have been clamoring so many years, now that they have it? Would it not be folly to refuse to do so in the face of all the facts and figures which are or can be adduced to prove its value to the agricultural and commercial interests of he transmississippi?

Taking it for granted that the business udgment of the western farmer and merchant is sound and that they never neglect an opportunity to furtheir their financial interests, Velasco is preparing to handle as much of this year's crop of cotton, grain, grain product, live stock live stock product as the limited time for preparation will allow. A 250,000 bushel elevator will be ready for the wheat, and a 500 barrel per day roller mill will probably be ready to receive some of it. A cotton compress will be in active operation when the cotton season opens. A refrigerator packery is one of the big institutions booked for the near future. All these things, with the now completed railroad connections, a new trunk line chartered and two more great systems of road preparing to build to us, means increased activity and rapid growth for this, the only deep

Velasco is the only port on the Texas coast where a vessel can lie alongside the elevator and load wheat in bulk, or alongside the refrigerator and load refrigerated beef to a depth of eighteen feet and then sail out to sea, and is therefore peculiarly the harbor for grain and meat shipments. At every other point on the Texas coast only a portion of cargo of wheat can be loaded in bulk, when the vessel is obliged to sail out over the bar to deep water and there finish the cargo from barges with wheat in sacks. This is expensive and no advantage over the long haul to the east. The same process in loading must be carried out in the case of refrigerated beef, which is entirely impracticable. Refrigerated meats cannot be loaded in that manner and say the cargo. Let the western business man and farmer coddle the above statements in their brains. Better still, come to Veasco, make thorough investigation as to their truth, and they will soon discover that rhis port offers to the great west an advantage in its race for commercial supremacy which it has hitherto nover enjoyed. Albright's choice, 50 lots, bargains,
