SUGGESTS NEW SYSTEM

Investigating the Adjutant General's Office Indicates Legal Deficiencies.

APPARENT SHORTAGE CAN BE EXPLAINED

Though a Hasty Examination of the Records Would Favor the Idea of Irregularity. It is Understood the State Will Lose Nothing.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 14.—(Special to The Bee.)—The resolution of the military board authorizing Governor Boyd to send an expert to go over the books of the adjutant general's office has naturally created some comment. It is asserted by those who know that the hasty examination of the records reveal a shortage of something like $2,300 in the accounts of General Cole. Checks drawn by the general for the payment of his family expenses are in the hands of those who are pushing the inquiry. General Cole met with the military board last week and stated that he could and would explain the apparent shortage in a manner perfectly satisfactory to all parties concerned, and even those who are pushing the inquiry. General Cole did not hesitate to declare his belief in his ability to do so, and that the state will not be the loser of a single penny.

Speaking of the charges that are being whispered around the state house corridors against the late adjutant general, a prominent state official said this afternoon that the laws of Nebraska are deficient in at least one respect. It is said that the provisions of the legislature should be disbursed by any other officers than the treasurer, who is not only paid out of the treasury but also by the legislature for the support of his militia in this manner. It is also pointed out that the state is being brought against him at the present time.

Changing the Law Needed. It is understood that the state house corridors are being frequented by a number of prominent state officials this afternoon. It is said that the provisions of the legislature should be disbursed by any other officers than the treasurer, who is not only paid out of the treasury but also by the legislature for the support of his militia in this manner. It is also pointed out that the state is being brought against him at the present time.

Adjutant General Vignaux was today preparing a general order instructing all companies of the Nebraska National Guard to adopt the new tactics and regulations prescribed by the War department for the reorganization of the National Guard. The order is being issued by the national guards of all states in order to bring the guards in full accord with the regular army, of which it is properly an auxiliary. General Vignaux thinks the new tactics are no particular improvement over the old ones. They are calculated to be a power that will only result in a waste of money. The new regulations will, of course, take up the new regulations and by the next enactment will exhibit them with their usual pomp and circumstance.

Will Indefinitely Recover. It is now believed that Judge Bergelt, who was shot in the police court by a drunken vagabond last week, will recover from the effects of his wounds. His condition has steadily improved since Saturday night, and his family, as well as his physicians, feel greatly encouraged. No indications of inflammation have as yet made their appearance, and the patient receives nourishment at intervals. The portion of the bullet is still occupying a place in the hidden recesses of his brain, and it is not known whether it will be removed. Whether it will be a source of danger to the judge if it recovers his physicians are unable to say. His friends feel a little encouraged by the fact that the count of the man in Nebraska City who died recently after living for over twenty years with a bullet imbedded in his brain.

While the Crime Was a Bad One Its Rewards Were Not Very Great—Churchill's Loss a Small Sum.

Hiram Walker & Sons of Canada Get an Injunction Against a Chicago House. A case recently heard before Judge Grosman of the United States circuit court for the first district of Michigan goes to show that persons who use whisky must be on their guard if they would escape being imposed upon.

The plaintiffs are Hiram Walker & Sons, limited, of Walkerville, Canada, distillers and bottlers of the famous "Canadian Club." Under the Canadian excise regulations whisky may remain in bond indefinitely, and the distiller may, if he so wishes, bottle it while still in bond. This guarantee is naturally very much prized by the distillers who have the old whisky to secure it, being a stinkily notorious fact that the Walker establishment is so guaranteed.

A Chicago firm have put up a spirit which they call "Montreal Club," alleged to be made by the Montreal distilling company, which was shown to have no existence. In all but name, the Walker labels were closely imitated, and also the name "Canadian Club" was used. The proceedings were rendered somewhat novel by the appearance of Mr. J. A. Lash, Q. C. of Toronto, on behalf of the plaintiffs. The court granted an injunction against the defendants from further use of the counterfeit certificate. The defendants were promptly enjoined from continuing to infringe upon the plaintiffs' trade-mark or labels, or to copy the Dominion excise stamp.

Penalty of Being Pious. The residence of Mr. Bauserman 244 Dodge street was empty yesterday morning while the family was at church. An enterprising burglar grasped the opportunity and when the household returned they found one of the shelves empty and a hole in the wall. A pane of glass and blotches of blood in every direction.

A small sum of money, a gold necklace and a watch and a small ring were missing. The burglar had evidently been sneaked by the burglar himself from a cut received, while opening the window.

DRIBBED A WITNESS. Anton Webber and Alfred C. Ogilvie in Serious Trouble.

The state, in the case against Anton Webber, charged with selling liquor on Sunday, failed to prove that Webber was a licensed saloonkeeper and he was discharged, court holding that the provisions of the license law were for the regulation of licensed saloons. It developed during the trial that witnesses for the prosecution had been bought off, and the police judge advised an investigation.

Sergeant Ormsby looked into the matter a little and the result was a complaint charging Alfred C. Ogilvie with compounding a crime. The complaint charges Ogilvie with accepting a bribe of $40, paid to him by Webber, as an inducement to stay away from the trial and refrain from prosecuting the case. As a result of Ogilvie's absence the prosecution failed to prove anything and the case fell through.

A warrant was issued and given to Detective Savage, who found Ogilvie sitting on the curbstone in front of the Paxton hotel and placed him under arrest.

After Years of Unsuccessful Search for a Cure, Martin Anderson Gets Relief from the Chinese Doctor—A Voluntary Testimonial.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 15, 1902. To whom It May Concern: This is to certify that I have been a constant sufferer for many years with catarrh, asthma and bronchial affections of the throat, and tried all the latest medicines and remedies I ever heard of, but with no success. I treated with doctors in various parts of the country, but none of them could do me any good further than giving me short temporary relief. I suffered night and day, and continued to grow worse notwithstanding all the medicine I had taken. I had almost given up my case as hopeless when I was informed by a friend of mine that Dr. C. G. Woe, a Chinese doctor, and advised to go and see him in the hope of getting relief at last. If not a permanent cure for my trouble. I was slow in making up my mind to make such a radical change in my treatment, but I knew a trial with the Chinese doctor would bring me, but I finally concluded to give him a trial, so I called at his office with that intention. I found the doctor a clever, entertaining gentleman, thoroughly posted on my condition, and it took only a very short time to convince me that he was the party I was so long in search of. He told me my case was curable, and that he could cure me, and prepared me a special treatment to suit my condition, and in two weeks' time I was much better than I had the fullest confidence in the doctor's ability and committed my case to his treatment. I continued to grow better rapidly and am now entirely well. I know a trial with the Chinese doctor would bring me, but I finally concluded to give him a trial, so I called at his office with that intention. I found the doctor a clever, entertaining gentleman, thoroughly posted on my condition, and it took only a very short time to convince me that he was the party I was so long in search of. He told me my case was curable, and that he could cure me, and prepared me a special treatment to suit my condition, and in two weeks' time I was much better than I had the fullest confidence in the doctor's ability and committed my case to his treatment. I continued to grow better rapidly and am now entirely well.
