

IT IS BECOMING TIRESOME

Tariff Talks Not Exciting Much Interest in the House of Representatives.

YESTERDAY'S DEBATE UPON FREE WOOL

Proceedings in the House and Senate—Meeting of the Cabinet—The Raun Investigation and Other Interesting Washington News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15.—The tariff discussion is beginning to tire the house, and there was a lack of interest in the proceedings today until Mr. Walker of Massachusetts, who has a very strong personality and expresses his views in a radical fashion, took the floor. A number of democrats stirred him up with a continuous crossfire of questions. During his speech he alluded to the decline in the price of wools and drew out his own views for the purpose of making an illustration and laid it on his desk until the time should arrive for him to make his point, but some fun-loving member appropriated it and when Mr. Walker desired to refer to it, it was missing, and he was greeted with the suggestion that he was fortunate enough to retain his chair.

The conference report on the urgency deficiency bill was presented and agreed to. As finally passed the bill appropriates $17,950,000.

The house then went into committee of the whole on the free wool bill and Coombs of New York concluded his speech in favor of the bill.

Not Even Technically True. After Mr. Coombs had finished speaking Walker of Massachusetts said most of the statements made by the democrats were not even technically true. The manufacturers of this country had not the slightest interest directly in the tariff. It was not their slightest interest to manufacturers whether they have free trade or protection. They were satisfied with one or the other. If tariff was not in the way of their business and wagers were then he would vote to repeal it and accept free trade.

Dockery (Mo.) asked whether the gentleman meant to say that the manufacturers would be as prosperous under free trade as under protection, and Walker replied in the affirmative.

Mr. Dockery—Then under the theory of protection manufacturers merely become disorganizing agents.

Mr. Walker—That is mere fiction.

Dockery—That seems to be the logic of your position.

Walker replied that the manufacturers of the country were not interested in the tariff, but more prosperous under free trade than protection.

Mr. Harter of Ohio asserted that in Canada the tariff on wool is not less than that was in the United States. Mr. Walker replied that Canada was a country which had failed to collect its taxes for exportations and was burdened with debts. On his own collected our taxes and paid our debts. Mr. Walker was proceeding to cite authors in support of his position when he was interrupted by Mr. Harter to consult Mr. Blaine.

Mr. Walker—You may consult Mr. Blaine as much as you like; I choose the man I wish to consult. I am not a politician. I am a business man, not a politician.

Mr. Walker entered into a general defense of the McKinley bill, declaring that under it in one year our foreign trade has increased $400,000,000, or 27 per cent increase.

Attacked the McKinley Law. Mr. Scott of Illinois attacked the McKinley law. He held up its injustice and inequalities as bearing on the consumer, and a special stress on the unconstitutionality of the sugar bounty provision.

Mr. Chipman of Michigan criticized the tariff speech of ex-Speaker Reed and said that notwithstanding the decision of the supreme court, he was all of the McKinley bill. He said that the cutting of a quorum under the rules of the House was unconstitutional.

Turning his attention to the tariff, he denounced the McKinley law as a paternal system, which built up the few at the expense of the many. Mr. Dockery of Missouri followed.

Mr. Dockery increased the burdens of the farmer and the Blaine reciprocity scheme would prove fallacious. It proposed that the natural laws of trade be disregarded, and that commerce should be regulated by correspondence between state departments. The committee then rose and the house adjourned.

In the Senate. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15.—Mr. Berry introduced a bill for the adjustment of the rights of Indians in Indian Territory with a view of having the territory admitted as a state.

Mr. Morgan introduced a bill to increase facilities of the postoffice department.

Mr. Peffer introduced a bill which was referred to the finance committee, to regulate the value of certain coins and pieces of money and to give to all sorts of current money the legal tender quality and to prohibit the payment of any debt in favor of gold coin or bullion as money.

Mr. Hale presented the conference report on the urgency deficiency bill and it was read.

The senate then proceeded to the consideration of the military academy appropriation bill. It was passed and the senate went into executive session. When the doors reopened the senate adjourned.

BAUM ON THE STAND. Examination of the Commissioner of Penitentiaries by the Investigating Committee.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 15.—Commissioner Baum was examined before the house investigating committee today. He was questioned as to his connection with the Gypsum Mining company, and refused to answer, saying that he would not answer any questions relating to his private affairs.

Mr. Wheeler said there was no power to compel the testimony and the matter could be brought up later and, if necessary, taken to the house.

Mr. Hoar asked if witness had not borrowed money on the endorsement of an attorney named Lockwood.

The witness said he had borrowed $500 of Mr. Lockwood.

In answer to further questions he said he had written the letter on the street and was asked him for a loan of $500 for a few days. Lockwood replied that he did not have it, but could get it. They went to the office of W. W. Thompson, president of the National Metropolitan bank, and was given $500 on a note for three days, endorsed by Lockwood. He paid the note and 50 cents interest as well as the note and the money.

General Baum said he had made speeches in Mr. Cooper's district in Indiana before the last election and tried to defeat him. A number of old soldiers had called on him with reference to pension claims. He had taken their memorandum and Jesse Weeks, an Indiana politician, had written the letter in reference to the pension claim. He had informed Mr. Dunbar, Cooper's republican opponent, that he would send a request from him in relation to pension claims received attention. He had given this privilege to other prominent citizens in different parts of the country. The letters and his orders in answer were on his side and would be produced.

Representative Little of New York asked the commissioner had ever given democratic candidates for congress the privilege of making claims specific, and if the pension office was not in that way being used for political purposes. The commissioner said he did not recall any case in which he gave demo-

MEMPHIS, Miss., March 15.—Several thousand people were assembled at the depot this morning when the train bearing Senator Hill and party rolled into the city. A salute of musketry from "The Mississippi Southerners" announced his arrival.

Senator Hill was introduced by Captain W. H. Hardy, chairman of the citizens' committee, as the "great democratic leader, who never leads but to victory, who never won a victory in the past, but who is now leading the people to a new era of prosperity."

Senator Hill spoke briefly and forcibly on national political issues and was loudly cheered. He denounced the force bill and the billion dollar congress, and said the people would pronounce against the republican party in the coming election.

JACKSON, Miss., March 15.—Governor Hill was met at Meridian by a committee representing the state capital and conducted to Jackson, where an immense crowd was assembled. Governor Stone met the senator at the depot and welcomed him to the state, amid the cheers of 5,000 Mississippians.

Governor Hill's Remarks. Senator Hill faced his Mississippi audience, calm and collected, and after the applause which greeted his introduction had subsided, he spoke as follows:

"Governor Stone and Gentlemen: Before commencing my remarks I am tempted to remark that from this vast crowd, to whom Mr. Hill, who was once speaker of the house of representatives, but is not now—[applause]—would have no difficulty in counting a quorum of the legislature. [Laughter and applause.] I am deeply sensible, gentlemen of the legislature of the state of Mississippi, how rare your bestowal of such a great honor is to me."

"I have had no time to search for the exact words."

O'NEILL, Neb., March 16.—[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]—In the early settlement of South Dakota, a bold attempt was made by a well organized syndicate to steal thousands of acres of land from the government.

The plans were carefully laid and matured in the last three amendments. The syndicate had been organized in Sioux City, and its members were scattered all over the state.
