THE OMAHA BEE. NEWS FROM COUNCIL BLUFFS

Indications That the Present Grand Jury Investigation Will Cause Trouble.

SALOONKEEPERS ON THE ANXIOUS SEAT

Lewis Township Citizens Believed to Be Giving Some Testimony Calculated to Embarrass the Refreshmen Stand t Proprietors-Bluffs News.

The grand jury is grinding merrily away on crimium; cases, as it has been for a week or so past, and a great deal of interest is being manifested in certain quarters as to the outcome of their deliberations. All their work is done with the utmost secrecy, but enough can be learned from the character of the witnesses who are being subposneed to show that unless they are disappointed in the amount of knowledge the witnesses have in the matters about which they are supposed to testify, something interesting may be expected. It is known to a certainty that the grand jury has been investigating the authorship of the anonymous circular which gave rise to the libel suit brought by John Schoentgen against the Nonpareil. A couple of other alleged shady transactions have been made the subject of inquiry, and new developments may be expected in the course of a few days that will recall to the minds of the public some things connected with school board affairs that had almost been forgotten.

A report is expected some time during the latter part of the week.

The saloonkeepers of Lewis township are also on the auxious seat and some of them are contemplating taking vacation trips to Canada or some other out of the way place until the storm has blown over. A large number of witnesses have been subpounced from that part of the county. That the saloonkeepers see the handwriting on the wall is shown by the fact that one of them informed Sheriff Hazen a day or two ago that he was expecting to come in to board with him awhile immediately after the ad-journment of the grand jury. Quite a cru-sade has been started against the saloons in Lewis township under the state law and number have already had to close.

Shunke Will Play.

Shunke's band of Omaha has been engaged by Messrs. McGee and Treynor to play at the coming assembly of the Twin City Chautauqua. It will consist of twenty-one pieces and will include all the members of Boyd's theater orchestra. Shunke's band is the one that furnished the sacred concerts at Hans-cem park last year and the name alone is a guaranty that the music will be first class. The news that an Omaha band was to be selected for the assembly was circulated selected for the assembly was circulated yesterday and caused quite a feeling among the members of Onlbey's band. A petition was circulated by one of the members and the signatures of a number of citizens were obtained remonstrating against the employ ment of a foreign organization. Before the circulation of the paper had been commenced, however, a contract had been drawn up and signed by the leader of the band and the managers of the Chautauqua, as Shunke's terms were better than those of Dalbey's, and the latter had given the management to understand, they claim, that he was not anxious to secure the contract.

Wants a Receiver.

S. Harter commenced an action in the superior court yesterday against J. C. Cole, his partner in the Ogden livery stable at 158 Broadway. In his petition he states that the present business was commenced last July, but that no agreement was entered into as to the length of time for which it should continue. He is not willing to continue the partnership any longer, as he claims that the place is not doing business enough for two men. Cole is unwilling to dissolve the partnership, and he therefore asks the court to step in and appoint a receiver who shall carry on the business so long as it may be necessary to close it out. He also demands that Cole be compelled to make an accounting and division of the profits. The case will probably be argued before Judge McGee Saturday after-

The membership now numbers over eighty but not all of that number can be counted upon as active members. It is the wish of the members of the guard to have an active membership of about fifty, and an effort will be made to interest enough of the old members and enlist enough new ones to accomplish the desired purpose. The new code of drill rules went into effect on March I, so that the old and the new will be on an equal footing so far as learning military tac

Counterfeiter Bound Over. Peter Lynch, who passed a counterfeit dollar on a Broadway saloonkeeper, was fined $10.20 in police court yesterday morning for drunkenness. During the day an information was filed in the United States court, charging him with passing counterfeit money, and he was given a preliminary examination before Commissioner Steadman in the evening. Several witnesses testified, among them the saloonkeeper, after which Lynch was bound over to the federal grand jury. He gave bond for his appearance.

Discussing the Occupation Tax. The city council held an informal session last evening to consider the question of levy ing an occupation tax upon the business firms of the city. The council is unanimously in favor of the proposed measure, and the discussion last night only referred to the equalization of the tax. The schedule favored by a majority of the council differed in no ma-terial respect from that published in Tan Bgg yesterday. The general opinion of the council was that the ordinance should be made to favor local business firms in preference to out of town houses who do business in the city through their agents. The mat-ter will be further considered at the special meeting of the council Thursday evening and an ordinance will undoubtedly be passed levving the tax. It is claimed that this action is necessary considering the financial condition of the city. According to the estimates of the present year there is a deficiency of $5,000 in the fire and water fund, a nearly equal deficiency in the police fund and a shortage of about $2,000 in the salary fund. It is for the purpose of meeting these deficiencies that the occupation tax is to be levied. It is hoped that the amount furnished by this adj dional levy will be sufficient to overbalance the present deficiencies and place the finances of the city on a sound basis.

The question of an occupation tax was the principal subject of discussion on the street vesterday. While it was expected that some such action was under consideration, it was not thought that the council would make the matter the first subject of official action, Judging by the opinions expressed by leading business men the passage of the ordinance will precipitate a fight all along the line, A Bes reporter interviewed repre-sentatives of the various business firms yes terday. Most of them expressed themselves as in favor of the measure, but desired a small tax on their especial line of business, They were perfectly willing that an occu-pation tax should be levied, but without exception believed that the council was about impose an exorbitant rate upon their

The saloonkeepers are among those who are most openly opposed to the measure. A few of them are silent because they fear that if the occupation tax does not become a law the license will be raised to $1,600, but most of them are entering a vigorous protest against the measure. Tom Rock says that he is not opposed to paying an occupation tax as long as it is properly equalized, but he does not want to pay $200 while men in other branches of business who are making as much money as he is are assessed $10 or upwards.

The banks are not opposed to the tax and the stock yards and packing houses are of the same mind, providing their assessment is confined to what they consider reasonable limits. The real estate men are in favor of the tax as a general proposition, but insist that the real estate men should be taxed only from one-state men should the mount assessed to the half to one-third the amount assessed to the

Another view of the question which is shared by many property owners was voiced by F. J. Persons. "I am in favor of any project," said be, "that will help the city out of financial difficulties, but will this tax ac-complish the ends! I am willing to pay my share, but I would like to know first whether this tax is levied than we were before, Councilman Waiters stated last night that the first object of the proposed measure was to freeze out outside dealers. There are a number of out of town firms who sell their goods from house to house in this city and pay no taxes for the privilege. They will al be obliged to pay for their privileges under the proposed ordinance, and the same rule will apply to peddlers of all descriptions. The matter will now rest until Thursdav night, when the ordinance will be presented for final approval by the council.

Diphtheria Prevails. The prevalence of diphtherm in South Omaha is arousing some attention among those who have families that are daily in danger of exposure to the disease. There has been no time in the last three months when there have not been one or more chil drep sick with the disease within the city limits. The city has no regularly appointed health officer and the only precautions taken to prevent the spread of the disease have been by the afflicted families. Physicians no not besitate to say that it is only by good fortune that the city has escaped a scourge of the disease.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Ingomar" has the quality of picturesqueiess, which lends it a peculiar interest, and even an ordinary company can give it a measurably acceptable presentation. Miss Gale's company does more than this, because Miss Gale is of finer merit than an or-dinary artiste. She has a gracious pres-ence, which counts for much, and she plays Parthenia with a refinement and an intelli-gence and a womanliness which charm, even though she falls short of filling the measure of her conception. In her Parthenia there is a note of artificiality which was wanting from her Juliet, nor is it as colorful or as sympathetic. The deliberate enunciation is more obtrusive, and the suspicion aroused in Juliet that there are distinct limitations to Miss Gale's powers in strongly emotional passages, is deepened. But these are nice distinctions observed only by the couldy critical. To the average auditor her characterization may not appear as strong or as passionate as that of other interpreters, but it has light and sweetness and beauty to atone for any lack of thrilling power. Mr. Clarke is an acceptable Ingomar, and the rest of the company is passable. The audience, though not as enthusiastic as that of the night before, was appreciative and gave the star hearty
