TOLEDOS PLAY NICELY, BUT CAN'T WIN

Milwankee, Kansas City and St. Paul Also Win-Chicago Hoodlums Beat Uncle Anse-Four Double Games-Other Sporting News.

T WAS the first game between Omaha and the Black Pirates of Toledo, and it was a puddin' stuffed with raisins.

Just why the Toledos have been dubbed the Black Pirates is one of those things no fellow can find out. It is certainly not on account of their uniforms, which are very much George Strief, only a little more so; nor their demeanor either, if we are to judge from yesterday's sample, for it was as mild as dishwater, and they went through the game in a perfunctory sort of a way which said as plain as words that they didn't even hope to win.

Although the day was bright and sunshing the crowd wasn't anything like what it should have been considering it was Saturday and the third championship game of the season Maybe it was because the weather was s bad all week that the people could not make up their minds that a pleasant day was possible. There couldn't have been over 1,500 people there, but wait until this afternoon and if the weather continues fair Sportsmen's park will be tested to its capacity.

Vickery Did the Pitching.

Yesterday afternoon the management set 'em up twice, first to a delightful open air concert by the Musical Union pand, and in the second to a clean and immaculately played ball game. To be sure there was a couple of blunders made, but as nothing evil resulted, what's the use of complaining.

Sir Thomas Gilbert Vickery was in the box for the Rustiers, and although suffering from an exeruciating cold he held those truculent marauders of the high seas down to three hits. That wasn't bad for a sick man, was it? Hereafter, on the night before Vickery is to pitch, Manager Rowe should hang him out on the clothesline in some cool place behind the house and let him catch cold.

To offset Vick, Manager Nicholson had Pears in the points, but he might just as well have had peaches, or any other vegetable—it would have been one and the same thing, we had to have the game.

However, he did admirably considerin' the fact that the frigid weather has retarded his growth and kept him from ripening. ngles was the sum total of the hits off of

As to the other players it would be supererogatory to particularize, as all did splendidly. Gilks made a catch that brought down the house, and King Kel a muff that raised it right up again. Dave Rowe was a bushel basket at first, Shiebeck whirled his tree with eclat, and Hayes caught out of

One of the most refreshing features of the occasion, it might be not amiss to note, was the excellent umpiring of Charlie Suyder. He is a handsome fellow, dresses for an ap-pearance before ladies and gentleman, and, by the way, in his day, was the way, in his day, was ever stood be behind the plate. Why! how he used to lam 'em down to second—the ball would leave a streak behind it like a new cotton clothes

DAVE ROWE AT But the game. Won it in the First.

It only require a single inning to win it Shy stopped jauntily up and with little ceremony led off with a pretty single to left. Then Mr. Pears placed one in Robert Gilks' side; Kelley scratched one over Campion's head, Collopy pasted her safe, and Uncle Drvid likewise, and before the verocious Pirates could appreciate the seismic disturb ance four large and flagrant tallies had gal

Then some smart people said the Parson's Pears were rotten, but he showed them a tricks later on.

It was one, two, three, out goes he for th Parson's crowd, and in the second the Rusers drew a blank themselves, the Toledo having some more of the some in their half.
Gilks opened up the third with a nice smash, and ran all the way home on Nicholson's muff of Kelly's high fly. Rowe, Camp and Hayes were speedily retired. The Toledos then came in and by a spasm of energetic play secured the only two runs made in the game.

It happened thusly.

How They Got 'Em.

After a bard run Kelly dropped Campion's long fly and Thomas Vickery inadvertently amote Pears, and on Jeremiah Hurley's sacrifice they both advanced ninety feet. Armour hit a hot one down to Fitz, and the ex-Brower was nipped at the plate, but Pears got round to third on the put out. Then Major Armour stole second, and after Gettinger had reached first on balls, Nichol hit safe and the two first runners scored. Ely ended the agony. Shy slamming him out at first. After this there was an unbroken row of goose eggs for both sides, and in just exactly one bour and thirty minutes the last Pirate was killed, and the battle was o'er.

His Own Grounds. CHICAGO, Ill., April 23.—Captain Anson and his colts made their first appearance at home today, crossing bats with Colonel Pfeffer's aggregation from Louisville. The game put up was perfect, but ended in disaster for the Chicagos, owing to the disorderly conduct of several thousand cranks, who jumped over into the field in the last half of the ninth inning, completely blocking the game.

The home club had 4 to the visitors' 2 when the trouble arose and after waiting fifteen minutes to have the field cleared Pfeffer demanded the game be given him, which was done. Pfeffer was presented with an clegant floral piece standing six feet high and was also serenaded by an amateur band, organized for the occasion. Score:

The Reading combination will not only control absolutely the greater part of the anthracite coal output of this country, but it will own the mines themselves and be able to do what they like with them. Some Deals of the Week-Working for a Freight Russau-Some Individual Opinions-Bank Clearings for Pive Days.

The almost continuous rain fall during the first four days of the week, with the accompanying mud beyond the paved streets, was decidedly unfavorable to any activity in the realty market. The best of property cannot be expected to look inviting in the midst of a rain storm. However, some business was transacted and negotiations were gotten under way looking toward still further deals in the future.

The fact that real estate dealers are feeling more confidence in the situation and that they are all busily engaged in some particular line, is very good evidence of a renewal of real estate activity. The sentiment is rapidly spreading that Omaha real estate is at the bottom notch and that the present is the time to make an investment.

The action of the banks in reducing the rate of interest paid on deposits will have a tendency to force like money into permanent investments of some kind, and with a good outlook for city property much . 's quite likely to go in that direction.

The assertion made a short time ago that eastern capitalists, for various reasons pointed out at the time, were looking toward Omaha as an inviting field for investment is still further proven by the attention that is being given to this city by eastern real estate publications. Anything bearing on the real estate situation in Omaha is easerly picked up by these journals and given wide publicity. The articles published in THE BE2 on the subject have been copied entire by several of hese papers.

It is understood that the nursely seed this ground is the stood that the purchase of this ground is the first step toward the building of the finest hotel in the west.

Real estate men express themselves as highly gratified at the action of The Ber in bringing to the attention of the public the fact that Omaha real estate is good property. Residents of Dundee place are very much gratified over the opening up of the motor line, which brings this addition within easy access of the business center of the city. J. J. Gibson asserts that he has noted an increased demand for houses in the north part of the city. Speaking of the interest which people outside of Omaha take in the city, Mr. Gibson remarked that the best sale of property that he ever made was due to an item published in The Bee, which attracted the attention or in outside purchaser.

Omaha and South Omaha Shippers Organizing for Protection. A freight bureau will probably be established in Omana. With a view of establishing the bureau a joint meeting was held yesterday afternoon at the Board of Trade rooms by members of special committees of the Omaha Commercial association, the South Omaha Live Stock exchange, the Manufacturers and Consumers association and the Grain and

The meeting was called to order shortly after 4 o'clock when Charles F. Weller took the chair. Rules governing the bureau were read by John A. Wakefield. They provide for a president and an executive committee of eighteen, who were to select a commissioner of the bureau.

E. E. Bruce was of the opinior that a com-mittee should be appointed to prepare a constitution and by-laws, with instructions to report at Tuesday night's meeting, when plans for the organization will be discussed for final approval of the establishment of the bureau. The committee, composed of Messrs. Fowler and Knox, was appointed. It speaking of securing subscriptions from business men for the maintenance of the organization, Mr. Wakefield thought that the subscriptions should at least amount to $10,000 a year for a period of three years. The constitution committee was then instructed o prepare a subscription paper with its Mr. Weller said that the commercial association was going into the organization simply for the benefit of Omaha in general, as the merchants had, at present, no griev-ance to speak of. About the only complaint heard was the 5-cent bridge toll, but he un derstood that efforts were being made to abolish thet. The association believed in the proposed organization of the bureau because it would be a great benefit to the prosperity and welfare of the city. A. B. Jaquith unders'ood that the bureau's purpose was not to hold a club over the heads of railroads, but as a body or organization representing the interests of both Omaha and South Omaha, would have much power in settling grievances and making class rates without antagonizing the roads.

W. N. Bahcock of the stock yards and John S. Knox of the Cudaby backing house were both of the same opinion in discussing the manner of securing rates. They said that it would be received to the fright. that it would be necessary for the freight commissioner to be continually after the dif-ferent roads in order to get satisfactory

An adjournment was taken until Tuesday night, when a general meeting will be held in the Exchange hall of the Chamber of Com-merce for the purpose of considering the re-port of the joint committee from each of the organizations to formulate and report a plan for the permanent organization of a bureau in the interest of the brganizations. Customs Officials Running Down the Smug-

Cmroxeo, Ill., April 23.—The full extent of the tobacco frauds, committed by San Francisco ringsters against the government by undervaluations, is beginning to be learned. In the last six months 600 bales of Sumatra tobacco, valued at over a quarter of a million dollars and dutiable at $2 per pound, have been entered at the port of San Francisco by the payment of but 35 cents per pound duty. This is a loss of revenue to the government of nearly $100,000. This enormous quantity of tobacco was distributed to various cities in the country and the government is just beginning to locate it. Radioff stole a body from the cemetery last March and buried it in his chicken Then Radloff insured his life. John G. Willis asked to be allowed interest from last November on the amount about to be paid him for the Fort Omaha school site. A committee will ponder over it before the board takes final action.

The bill of Theodore Henck amounting to $78, for balance due on the Kellom school plumbing, was referred to the finance committee.

Miss Etta Powers of the Lake school was granted a leave of absence for the balance of the school year, as her health is failing.

Miss Alice M. Root applied for a position as teacher in any grade below the high school. Referred.

Sarah J. Dewey and John'S. Collins offered the two lots at Fifth and Hickory streets, now needed by the board in order to creet a new building, for $5,000. The communication stated that the board agreed to take the property two years ago for $7,000 and then property two years ago for $7,000 and then backed out. Referred to the committee on buildings and property.

The board refused to adopt the report of the committee on buildings and property recommending that the cost of placing the walls in the Kellom school in shape for the liquid slating be charged back to the plasterer. The board will stand the expense. The contract for moving the two-room building now on the Paul site to the Lathrop site, was let to H. W. Barnum for $160.

The board decided to purchase the Barker and Darling lots adjoining the Hartman school, with a 200-foot front on Fifteenth treet, for $12,500.

The finance committee reported in favor of the following apportionment of the $108,395.47 sold bonds placed to the credit of the board by City Treasurer Bolln: Fort Omaha school site, $2,500; Gibson school site, $2,500; Lothrop school site, $8,000; Monmouth park schoo rop school site, $5,000; Monmouth park school site, $4,400; Hartman school site, $10,839,65; Central school building fund, $20,000. Adopted.

The board went into committee of the whole with Dr. Gibbs in the chair to hear the report of the special committee and the architect's explanation of the merits and demerits of direct and indirect systems of heat-ing and ventilation. The architect was in-clined to favor the steam heat system, and Mr. Wehrer felt cailed upon to tell him that he didn't know as much about architecture and ventilation as a pig knows about arch tecture. When Architect Lateusen insisted that it was impossible to prepare plans for a build-ing contemplating one system and then use the other without rendering the plans unsatisfactory, Mr. Webrer again called the archi-tect down, telling him that he was employed to do as he was told, whether it was to pre pare plans for one system or both, and that if he wasn't disposed to obey orders he would get accidentally spilled overboard. The relative cost of putting in the two systems was reported to be about $500 per room for the steam and $475 per room for the dry air system.

The committee rose and reported that it had received the report of the special com-mittee, and recommended that it be placed on file. Adopted. The contract for laying a water service pipe at the Monmouth park school, was let to Balfe & Read for $84.

President Spaulding reported that Mc Clelland & Co. had instituted suit to recover money paid into the city treasury for a coal license. The attorney was instructed to as-certain whether or not the board had received any money from this source, and to flie such an answer as he thought best. The committee on claims reported in favor of allowing Contractor Mengedoht 8639,37 as the balance due him on streets. Adopted

AMUSEMENTS.

Miss Gale is for smiles rather than for tears, as was again demonstrated in "Much Ado About Nothing," at Boyd's last even ing. Beatrice does not dominate the play and affords less opportunity than Rosallud for the display of Miss Gale's artistic tinesse, but it is enough to permit a delightful characterization, and the construction of the comedy throws upon the supporting company an action and a numor which have no counterparts in "As You Like It." Miss Gale's mockery was delicious, her lovemaking bewitching, and her company appeared to much better credit than in any other performance of the engagement. All in all, this rare old comedy of the great mas-tor was a more than ordinarity satisfactory entertainment. entertainment.

The engagement will close this evening with "As You Like It." Miss Gale's Rosalind is an exquisite piece of dramatic art, and those who wish to see this star at her best or seek to enjoy one of the fluest interpretations of a famous role in a classic play may gratify their desire at the Boyd tonight. Carteton a Success.

ductory remarks to a ballad, Mr.

Will Carleton, the creator of "Betsy and I Are Out," and the author of other farm ballads, delighted an immense audience last night in the lecture hall of the Young Men's Christian association building. He is simply the poet laureate of the farm, and got into the good graces of his hearers as soon as he announced that he had the extreme pleasure of introducing to the audience himself. His "Drama of Human Nature," which was the subject of his musings was interested. musings, was interspersed with humor, pathos and story. At times he held his audience spellbound while at other intervals he had it in an upcoar, "The Drama of Human Nature," he said, was, like everything else, old. It commenced centuries ago and the curtain has not yet been drawn upon the whirling stage. It was a drama in which men and women acted in real life. In the drama thoughts and feelings come over the actors that men could not describe. Mr. Carleton depicted the drama of the family circle, the drama of discussion, and described them in verse. He also alluded to the great sacred drama of the church, as he called it, and the star actor thereof—the pas-tor—who ministered to the mind as the doc-tor to the body. He followed this up by painting a scone in verse of "Old Elder Lamb's Donation.

"Poor Picule Sam," who was a street waif. came in the drama of the Sunday school, and was a very pretty, pathetic story. Mr. Carleton spoke of the drama of the day school, the drama of the frontier, of the plo-neer, of the old veteran on Memorial Day, of the humbug and the humbugged, and the drama of the value, importance and danger of words in their usages, saying that a touch of nature made the whole world kin.

The audience was one of the most appreciative that has been within the walts of the Young Men's Christian association build-ing for many months, and in its entirety the entertainment provided by Mr. Carleton was

How a Bank Clerk Was Aided to Dispose of Other People's Money. GRAND FORKS, N. D., April 22. - Further de velopments in the case of Nelson, the bank defaulter, reveal the details of an immense conspiracy among half a dozen gambiers to use Nelson as their tool to steal the funds of the bank. Archie S. McNabb, a German, whom Nelson in his affidavit implicates, attempted to placement him by exposure; he made an affidavit corroborating Neison.

McNabb says that Ramsev told him all about the scheme to "skin" Nelson, implicating three other gamblers named Daul, Murray and Shaw, and told how they had won $0,500 from Nelson in two nights. Me-Nabb attempted to blackmail Nelson, telling him he would make public the facts concerning his gampling unless he were paid a good round sum to keep quiet. Nelson made an appointment to meet McNabb and pay the money, but the blackmailer got frightened and dropped the matter. Nelson's case will not be pushed further until the New York company, which gave conds for him, is heard from. It is expected that the surety company will take the prosecution of the bank officials' hands and reimburse the bankto the extent of Nelson's bond, $7,500.
