Played for a Sucker. A story has just come to light in which A M. Hayden, a well known resident of this city, is the chief hero. He formed the acquaintance of a smooth talking individual the other day, and the smooth talking individual gave him to understand that he was looking for men to work for him at Des Moines. He held forth enticing inducements to Hayden to enter his employ, and the old, old story that has broken so many hearts and pocketbooks was told over again.

Hayden and his to-be employer left over the Rock Island for Des Moines, and the employer did not discover that he was dead broke until he reached a small station this broke until he reached a small station this side of Atlantic. Then the awful truth burst in upon him. He had to have $10, and as that was the size of Hayden's nile it was all Hayden could do, but he did it. Pretty soon he left the train, and when he reached Atlantic Hayden began to ask where his friend had gone. The conductor told him that the fellow he had been riding with had done a good deal of riding back and forth over the Rock Island, and he had spotted him for a confidence man. Hayden got off the train and dence man. Hayden got off the train and retraced his footstens. He telegraphed back to the other stations along the line and succeeded in having the fellow arrested. He gave up the money, however, and Hayden has not yet decided whether or not he will

How a Gang of Desperate Prisoners Arranged to Break Jail.

DISCOVERED AT THE LAST MOMENT

When the Jailer Captured the Implements With Which the Work Had Been Done the Men Weakened-Local News Notes.

The sind hearted jurors who set George Wells free after a trial in the district court the other day may be thanked for the almost successful attempt that was made by the prisoners now confined in the county jail to escape. Wells was one of the fellows who robbed the residence of L. M. Treynor, and aithough he claimed to have been merely a spectator of the affair, his story was so thin as to deceive no one excepting the average juror. He was discharged, however, while Anderson, his accompilee, was found guitty. At a fate hour Tuesday night it was discovered that in some way a saw had been smuggled into the jall and the prisorers had been busily engaged in sawing their way out. The discovery was purely accidental as the men had covered up their work very ingeniously by making a paste composed of soap and dirt, and had fastened the broken ends of a chain and a padlock together so that no one unless he happened to be looking very closely would have noticed that any-thing of the kind had been done.

The suspicions of the jailer were aroused by some strange actions on the part of some of the prisoners, and he stationed himself where he could see without being seen. It was not long till he saw Adderson, the convicted burglar, working with a fine saw in one hand and a rudely constructed handle in the other. Pouncing upon Anderson, he made him give up both saw and handle by means of various blood-thirsty threats. A search was at once made to see what harm had been done, and it was then learned that the pris oners had succeeded in getting a chain sawed through and a padiock half way severed, so that the other half of the padiock and an iron bar were all that kept them from the fresh air.

All the prisoners were locked up in the steel cylinder, where they will be kept until their cases are finally disposed of. The gang s an unusually hard one, eight of them hav ing aiready served terms in the penitentiary and a large proportion of the whole number on a fair way across the state again. Two of the prisoners were induced by Sherif Hazen to talk. They stated that four saws done up in a small bundle, were thrown through the rear window by a man shortly after 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, and all the after 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, and all the sawing was done between that time and nightfall. It is the opinion of the sheriff and his men that the saws were bought in Omaha by Wells, who was discharged Saturday night, and brought to the jai with a view to giving his pal, Adderson, his liberty. The tools are of the finest steel, and cut through an iron bar in short order. Another half hour's work would probably Another half hour's work would probably have enabled all the prisoners in the jail to make their escape. If the story told by the prisoners is true, there are still three saws concealed in the jail, but as the prisoners are all confined in the steel cylinder there is no danger of their using them in making their Enthusiastic Over Mining. All the lawyers and politicians and many others in western Iowa snew Platt Wicks of Shelby or know of him. He was in Council Shelby or know of him. He was in Council Bluffs for a few hours yeaterday. He is no longer "of Shelby." but of Pueblo, to which place he moved about two years ago, and there he is now located, engaged in the practice of law and on the side looking after extensivo mining interests. Ho is on his roturn trip from Chicago, where he has been on business for other parties, one of the purposes of which was to close a $50,000 deal by which some of the prominents in the World's fair city become still further anvestors in western mines. Mr. Wicks is enthusiastic over the mining outlook. The great interest centers about the Cripple Creek camp and Creede. In the former such well known men as Carter Harrison of Chicago and Messra, Wright and St. John of the Rock Island are largely and actively interested.

Mr. Wicks says that while the excitement is most intense about these two points, yet there is a rapid and substantial development going on among many other good properties. There are thousands of eager prospectors roaming over the mountains, and this intelli-gent, enthusiastic search for further treasures must result in the development of many valuable and new properties.

Mr. Wicks is the president of the Mining Stock exchange of Pueblo, and is as conver-sant on mining as he is enthusiastic.

BIT OFF HIS CHEEK.

Jalius Zimmerli Badly Disligared in

Julius Zimmerh, who keeps a saloon at the junction of Broadway and Scott street, lost a large section of his face yesterday afternoon, and although the man who swallowed it was caught soon after the deed was done he could not be made to disgorge, and Zimmerli will probably go down to his grave with the marks of his experience. Three strangers entered his saloon and commenced to create a disturbance. Zimmerli remon-strated with them, but without effect. Soon he went into the back room of the saloon and was basy about something, when his visitors followed him, and, according to the statements of eyewitnesses, jumped upon him without any provo-cation, and commenced to pound him. One of the assailants pulled a murderous looking of the assailants pulled a murderous looking chisel from a hip pocket and would probably have used it with serious effect had not one qf Zimmerli's friends seized it. Zimmerli was apparently gaining the botter of the other man when the latter siezed the left cheek of his adversary and bit out a piece about the size of a silver dollar. During the encounter Zimmerli's thumb was almost sevored from his hand. The affair was reported to the police, and within an hour three men were captured and put in the city jail, but no charge was en-tered against them. They gave their names as Scott Butler, Dan Curtis and Frank Me-

Neal. Curtis was the one who did the chewing, and the other two, so far as known, were not particularly implicated in the fight, were not particularly implicated in the fight, except that they were with Curtis when he entered the saloon. Curtis will be charged with maybem and will undoubtedly go across the state. What charge will be placed against the other two is not positively known The opinion of the police is that the three were members of a housebreaking gang that were members of a housebreaking gang that had come over from Omsha with the intention of doing a job during the evening. They think that the fellows entered Zimmerll's saloen and Curtis and Butler engaged the proprietor in a fight so that in the excitement McNeal could go through the cash drawer. The fact that one of the men had a large chisel, such as are commonly used for getting into houses, is thought to be an ingent of the country of the commonly used for getting into houses.

Effect of Warm Weather on the New Stradamant Paving. The effect of the hot san of yesterday was very evident on the Stradamant paving on Twenty-fourth street. The bill of the Strad amant company against the city, amounting to $68,000, was protested by the city council on the ground that the pavement was not what it was represented to be. A suit is now pending and the city has been waiting to see whether the pavement would stand the sun before confessing judgment. The pavement cracked and softened perceptibly yesterday. The horses' hoofs and the tires of heavy wagons cut into the paying and patches of soft material began to appear here and there during the afternoon. The impressions of wagon wheels could be distinctly seen and in one place even a bicycle left a plain track.

NEED ASSISTANCE

Pennsylvania's Stricken Cities and Their Pressing Needs.

KEEPING UP THE SEARCH FOR THE DEAD

Every Pile of Wrechage Gives Up a Victim of the Disaster-Chicago Proffers Assistance - Relief Measures That Have Been Comme seed.

Oil City, Pa., June 8.-At a conference today of the Pittsburg, Philadelphia, Oil City and Titusville relief committees it was decided to give Titusville 65 and Oil City 35 per cent of the relief fund. Rudolph Blankenburg of Philadelphia expressed great confidence in the local committees, and said as the loss had not been exaggerated he thought the people of the country should be requested to make up a fund of $500,000 to relieve the sufferers. Find More Dead Bodies.

Titusville, Pa., June 8 .- It is raining hard again, but it is hoped that this will not add additional trouble to this afflicted city. As the debris is being cleared away more bodies are found, and it may be several weeks before the entire story of the disaster will be known as far as the loss of life is concerned. Witnesses who were on top of the iron tanks and houses report that they saw scores of bodies floating down with the rush of waters, and it is not known yet where they have been lodged.

Among the 4,000 telegrams which have been received here the past three days there are about 150 which the telegraph companies have been unable to deliver for the reason that the persons addressed cannot be found. About fifty cablegrams have already been received from Europe, making inquiries about friends here.

Mayor Washburn chas wired Mayor Post that Chicago will do its part in this hour of our calamity, as Titusville did in 1871 when Chicago called for aid. The mighty rush of waters has changed the channel of the creek so that one of the reflueries which was situated upon the bank of the creek is now in the center of the new channel and a number of dwelling houses which were high on the bank lifty feet from the creek are now at its very edge. Damage to Property.

While the loss of life here is probably not much, if any, larger than that of Oil City, much, if any, larger than that of Oil City, the damage done to property is probably ten times greater. The devastated area is nearly three miles in length and four or five blocks in width. For most of that distance the less is to the tracks and sidings of the different lines of railroads. The severest loss, however, is in the destruction of the refineries and manufacturing plants where so many of the survivors earned a slivelihood. It is this loss of permanent a slivelihood. It is this loss of permanent employment for months to come that will fall heavily upon the working classes, and which will necessarily put them on the list of those requiring relief. All of those who escaped lose clothing and household effects, and many little hoards of money which they were saving up for a rainy day.

Many persons were led to believe that the disasters along the valley approximated Johnstown, but bad as it is, there is no com-Johnstown, but bad as it is, there is no comparison between the two places. Johnstown and connecting towns were blotted out, while both at this place and Oil City only portions of the places were in the track of the devouring elements. In Johnstown the rescuers were all strangers, while in this place and at Oil City the work was done by citizens, and some of the most heroic deeds were performed by those who offered their lives in their efforts to save others. The relief committee is now fully organized and is doing effective work. Clothing and supplies are distributed to all in need and as these were forthcoming immediately, there has been but little if any physicial suffering.

DISASTROUS FEGOD AT OELRICHS.

Much Property Destroyed and One Life Lost by a Sadden Rise.
ORLRICHS, S. D., June S.—[Special to THE BEE.]—This section experienced a downpour of rain Sunday morning and the preceding night, and Horsehead creek was raised very suddenly from an insignificent stream to a mighty torrent, which rose at the rate of about four feet per hour until the whole valley, nearly a mile in width, was covered with a solid sea of rushing water about eighteen feet above low water mark, and from three to ten feet over the entire valley. All settlers in the valley left their houses for high land, with some narrow escapes on account of the suddenness of the rise, and many took chances on their lives in attempting to iberate stock that was inclosed in the low lands. One man, Homer T. Hunt, lost his life in attempting to ride a borse across ravine near the main channel, in order to iberate some horses that were on the om. Although he was an expert swimmer the swift current carried him down the val ley about eighty rods until he struck the main channel and was sucked under in a mighty whiripool. His young wife, to whom he had only been married about three months, with his other relatives, stood on the shore to see him perish without being able to offer aid. Other fatalities are apprehended. Som stock was drowned.

All the bridges in the valley except one were washed out. The railroad embankment was cut out in half a dozen places and six trains, including one passenger train, are detained at this town waiting for the track and bridges to be received. and bridges to be repaired. The water soon ell. leaving the treetops and bushes along the creek lodged with drift rubbish, but ieft the meadows in good condition. No damage was done to the crops which are looking exceedingly promising.

The body of Mr. Hunt was found today after two days' searching. It was dragged from the bottom of the creek, in about lifteen feet of water, near where he was taken under in the whiripool. Over 100 men, including graders and bridgemen, with a number of grading teams, are busy repairing the damaged railroad. The dump was washed out and damaged in many places along the creek, the longest being about 300 feet of grading taken out. Crops and grass are looking splendid, and the farmers are feeling very jubilant over the fine prospects. For Their Relief. Mr. J. A. Bollman just received a telegram from the scene of the recent great oil fire in Pennsylvania asking for aid. The message is from the Daily Derrick and says "every dollar's worth of relief that we can get is needed."

Mr. Boliman lived in the oil regions for nearly twenty years and knows just how badly these oil fire sufferers need relief, and is already preparing a program for a grand benefit entertainment for this cause to which Omaha people will be asked to contribute. The entertainment is to be given soon.

Removing Ruins at Oll City. On Cirr, Pa., June 8 -- Seven unidentified victims of Sunday night's fire and flood were buried this morning. The relief fund for this city and Titusville now amounts to $63,500. Seven bundred beople have already been aided. It is believed the number will be 800. The people have recovered from the stunning effects of the blow and the work of removing the ruins is being actively prose-cuted. Five hundred men are at work. Nothing has yet been done on the west side.

Cloudburst in Iowa. Dunuque, Ia., Jone 8 -- A cloudburst at Zwingle last night caused Otter creek to rise thirty feet in two hours. The flood struck the hamlet about 11 o'clock and swept away several small buffdings. Eighty rods of the Cascade narrow gauge railway were torn up and carried away by the torrent. No lives were lost, but about 100 head of horses and cattle were drowned. Forty Funerals at Titusville.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., June 8 .- About forty

on. It is supposed many corpses are lodged under piles of rubbish. Disenfectants are being freely used to prevent the spread of disease. Many people are already sick through excitement and exposure. Aid from the Standard Oil. On City, Pa., June 8 .- The Standard Oil
