

THE SPECULATIVE MARKETS

Trading Was Again Restricted by the Oppressive Weather.

SEPTEMBER CORN WAS UNCHANGED

Prime's Crop Report Was Generally Regarded as Bullish, as the Prospects Were Said to Be Decidedly Poor - Stocks and Bonds.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 25.-Trading was again restricted today by the oppressive weather and apprehension on account of the anti-oppression bill. The grain market closed weak with wheat 5c lower, corn unchanged, soybean 1/2c higher, and oats 1/4c higher.

Wheat for September started at 75 1/2c, and during the greater part of the session kept within the range of 75c and 75 1/2c. The early buyers were disappointed in reporting dullness and lower markets abroad.

Corn was very low and while there was hardly any business, prices were well maintained. Prices of soybeans were regarded as bullish, as it indicated that a poor crop in the north was likely.

On the Produce exchange to lay the butter market was firm and unchanged; eggs, 15c.

NEW YORK, July 25.-Flour.-Receipts, 31,246 bbls.; exports, 9,875 bbls. Wheat.-Receipts, 1,300,000 bu. of futures, 5.00 bu. per bushel.

NEW YORK, July 25.-Flour.-Receipts, 31,246 bbls.; exports, 9,875 bbls. Wheat.-Receipts, 1,300,000 bu. of futures, 5.00 bu. per bushel.

NEW YORK, July 25.-Flour.-Receipts, 31,246 bbls.; exports, 9,875 bbls. Wheat.-Receipts, 1,300,000 bu. of futures, 5.00 bu. per bushel.

NEW YORK, July 25.-Flour.-Receipts, 31,246 bbls.; exports, 9,875 bbls. Wheat.-Receipts, 1,300,000 bu. of futures, 5.00 bu. per bushel.

NEW YORK, July 25.-Flour.-Receipts, 31,246 bbls.; exports, 9,875 bbls. Wheat.-Receipts, 1,300,000 bu. of futures, 5.00 bu. per bushel.

WHO BURNED THE FORT?

Chicago Herald.

The recent reported burning of Fort McKinley, in Wyoming, reminds many an army man of the destruction of old Fort Discovery, in New Mexico, some twenty years ago.

Discovery was manned by two companies of infantry, two cavalry troops and a battery. Among the cavalymen was Mark Whipple, as handsome an enlisted man as ever went into the army.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

THE OMAHA DAILY NEWS

Chicago Herald.

The recent reported burning of Fort McKinley, in Wyoming, reminds many an army man of the destruction of old Fort Discovery, in New Mexico, some twenty years ago.

Discovery was manned by two companies of infantry, two cavalry troops and a battery. Among the cavalymen was Mark Whipple, as handsome an enlisted man as ever went into the army.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

THE OMAHA DAILY NEWS

Chicago Herald.

The recent reported burning of Fort McKinley, in Wyoming, reminds many an army man of the destruction of old Fort Discovery, in New Mexico, some twenty years ago.

Discovery was manned by two companies of infantry, two cavalry troops and a battery. Among the cavalymen was Mark Whipple, as handsome an enlisted man as ever went into the army.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

THE OMAHA DAILY NEWS

Chicago Herald.

The recent reported burning of Fort McKinley, in Wyoming, reminds many an army man of the destruction of old Fort Discovery, in New Mexico, some twenty years ago.

Discovery was manned by two companies of infantry, two cavalry troops and a battery. Among the cavalymen was Mark Whipple, as handsome an enlisted man as ever went into the army.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

THE OMAHA DAILY NEWS

Chicago Herald.

The recent reported burning of Fort McKinley, in Wyoming, reminds many an army man of the destruction of old Fort Discovery, in New Mexico, some twenty years ago.

Discovery was manned by two companies of infantry, two cavalry troops and a battery. Among the cavalymen was Mark Whipple, as handsome an enlisted man as ever went into the army.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.

Whipple found out in an unaccountably short time that there was a heart who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort, and who had been in the fort.