

THE BIG UNWORKING HARD

The Story of John L. Sullivan's Present Every Day Life.

WHAT POMPADOUR JIM WILL MEET

Early Morning Promenades—Bag Pouching, Rope Skipping, Hand Ball and the Bath—The Champ in Splendid Fig.

ASBURY PARK, N. Y., July 31.—There are probably few, if any, persons besides those that have really been through the mill work that realize how much self-denial and hard work it takes to thoroughly prepare a man for a big prize fight.

Training is looked upon by those who have not trained themselves or come in actual contact with a man preparing himself for a feat of strength and endurance as an easy, rolling time in a country of endless resorts.

A large number of men—sporting men and good judges of physical culture—were of the opinion that Sullivan could not train again.

Sullivan has been living a life of indulgence and ease to long over to be able to get into condition again. Sullivan himself always insisted that he could train, and he certainly knew what he was talking about—that is, judging from the shape the big fellow is in now.

The training place selected by Charlie Johnston and Sam Casper for Sullivan is an ideal one in many respects. The air at Bay Head, or Good Ground, as it is called by the natives, is pure and bracing.

Canoeing, fishing, and Sullivan and his trainers live, is within a stone's throw of Shinnecock bay and only a few yards from the Great Peconic bay.

Sullivan trains differently from most pugilists. He is not in love with the idea of a midday, and although heat doesn't seem to affect him, he does his most important work early in the morning.

Yesterday he was up at 6 o'clock. As soon as he was awake his trainers were made aware of the fact. He began to sing snatches of songs in his powerful baritone voice, and had Ashton, Morgan, and the other boys in a state of panic before he had awake five minutes.

Another rib-tickler and the champion, with a face and skin as pink as a baby's, none the worse for his ten-mile jaunt, was eager for breakfast.

He rubbed down the big muscles with olive oil, then he was rubbed until he was thoroughly dry and placed between blankets for a few minutes.

As soon as he reached the house he was taken in charge by Casey, Ashton and Morgan, stripped and bathed in a hot water tub. Then he was rubbed until he was thoroughly dry and placed between blankets for a few minutes.

—skipping, brought out many hearty laughs from the youngsters.

He jumped the rope 250 times and then was wrapped in blankets, and saturated as he was with perspiration lay down for an hour.

ACCOMMODATIONS FOR THE VISITORS

No Pains Will Be Spared to Make Them Comfortable—Pitting the City in Holiday Attire—Features of the Conclave Week.

DENVER, Colo., July 31.—As the time for the great Knights Templar convalesce approaches the different committees of the local commandery are hard at work completing the details of the reception and entertainment of their visiting brethren.

At a meeting of the members of the Blue lodges of the city and the Denver chapter, it was decided to form a reception committee of sixty men for each day during the arrival of the guests.

Every man, and every man on these committees especially, will furnish information as to the different points in the city and will act as guide to all visitors, whether Masons or not.

The headquarters will be also for the use of all persons, whether Masons or not.

A feature of the convalesce week will be an enormous parade on Wednesday evening, August 10, of the different bicycle clubs of the city, in which many wheelmen from all parts of the state will participate.

Beginning August 4 and continuing through convalesce week, decorated wheelmen, in tournament, in conjunction with Dr. W. F. Carver's Wild West show, will give performances at the Elks' hall.

The decorations of the streets of the city are assuming shape. That furnished by the men of electric lights will probably equal anything of the kind ever attempted in the United States.
