AFTER THE CONVENTION.

Delegates Hurry Home and No Committee Meeting is Held.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 5 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE. ]-Lincoln is practically deserted tonight, so far as the politicians are concerned. Most of the delegates have taken the early evening train for home. A consensus of the opinions of hundreds of the delegates and attendants is entirely favorable to the ticket nominated today, and the republicans of the state who attended the convention pronounce the ticket as strong, clean and conservative, and one which will win in November.

The state contral committee was to have held a meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon, but many of the members had not been notified of their selection and no meeting was held. A. E. Cady, who was elected temporary chairman, will call the committee ogether in a short time, when a permanent organization for the campaign will be effected.

Chairman Cady this afternoon received the following telegram from Judge Crounse:

the following telegram from Judge Crounse: WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 5.—Hon, A. E. Cidv, Chairman Republican Convention: Please express to the convention my full ap-preclation and heartfeit thanks for the high honor just conferred on me and for this re-newed expression of couldence. Be assured that I shall do all possible for the success of the party of which I have no doubt and to merit the confidence bestowed on me. L. CROUNSE.

The executive committee of the Republican State learne mot at the Lincoln hotel this evening and issued the following call:

By authority delegated to the executive committee the annual convention of the State Republican League of Nebraska shall convene in the elity of Grand Island at 8 of cock p. m., August 24, 1892. The business which will come before the convention will include reports from the officers of the league, the election of officers for the ensuing year and the election of delegates to attend the national conven-

W. J. Connell-It is a most excellent normi-nation, and will result in putting the Douglas county republicans back into line. Judge Crounse is a good man. U. B. Balcombe-Judge Crounse is the strongest man the convention could have nominated. He has a reputation that is un-tarnished, and is a standard bearer around whom all republicans can gather. He is a man who is in function that is un-man who is in touch with the people. Theodore Olsen-It is a great nomination. The facts are that Judge Crounse is the only republican who can beat Van Wyck and now that he is nominated you will see Nebraska drop back into the republican ranks with its

John Grant-Judge Crounse has always been my choice. The people of Nebraska have tried him before and as they have found him true to their interests they are willing to try him again. Charles Beindorff-I've talked Crounse for nine months and of course I'm glad that he's nominated. He will poll more votes he's nominated. He will poil more votes than any other republican in the state. While he is the choice of Douglas county, his opponents cannot say that he is a Douglas county man. R. W. Richardson-Judge Crounse is a most excellent man. I knew him as a su-preme judge and his decisions do him great credit. I have no doubt but that in the ex-ecutive office he will represent this great state in a most creditable manner. state in a most creditable manner.

John Dale-It was a master stroke upon the part of the republican party when its convention nominated Judge Crounse. He is an old resident, an honest, brainy, true and tried man, and being a strong anti-monopolist I think he is well fitted for the office of governor. E. R. Duffie-I think it was the best nom-ination that could have been made by the re-publicans. As far as I have been able to learn Judge Crounse has always been a man learn stood up for the people. who has stood up for the people.

J. C. Wharton-Judge Cronnse is the strongest man in the state. We are sure of winning this fall, and with such a candidate for the head of the state ticket we will sweep the state this fall. Why, right now there are thousands of democrats and independents who are ready to jump into the band wagon and go for Crounse.

J. G. Tipton-From what I know of Judge Crounse's record he is the strongest una who could have been nominated. His stand ing is good in every community where he is known and there is no reason why he should not carry the state.

South Omaha Satisfied.

Judge Crounse's friends in South Omaha are numbered by the believers in republican principles, and there are several bundred of them in the city. The nomination of the Sage of Calhoun was enthusiastically re-ceived, and every time republicans met m hearty handshaking was indulged in, and it Mayor Miller, a friend for many years of Judge Crousse-No other course was loft open for the republicans, and his nomination shows that he was the most available man. His election is an assured fact and he will defeat Van Wyck by a handsome majority. Judge Crounse is especially well fitted for the governorship, is strong with the people and is free from any of the petty and fac-tional fights within the party. His nominational lights within the party. His nomina-tion suits me completely. City Attorney Van Dusch-The South Omaha delegates to the state convention stood lovally by Judge Crounse and sup-ported his candidacy as enthusiastically as did the delegation in the county convention. His nomination means success and the republicans will be enabled to push an agessive campaign and not a defensive one A. L. Sutton - The nomination of Judge Crounse means the loss of thousands of votes to the alliance. The entire state ticket is a strong one, and success to the republicans in Nebraska is assured. Justice of the Peace Hedges-Judge Crounse is the strongest man the republicans could have named, but I think we will pull Van Wyck through and defeat him.

He Feels Highly Honored and is Confident of Election. WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 5.-[Special Telgram to THE BEE. |-The news of Judge Crounse's nomination was carried to the reasury department by THE BEE shortly after noon today. Judge Crounse had heard nothing from the convention at that time, After reading the telegram telling of the convention's action, Judge Crounse said that he feit highly honored, not only by the nomination, but by the handsome tice Mason dissenting, supported the power ner in which it came to him. Of this repeated mark of confidence in him by the ra-publicans of his state, he said he felt excongress to prescribe conditions upon which the admission of a state into the union publicans of his state, no said no feit ex-tremely proud and should be ever grateful. Asked as to his opinion of the political outcome in Nebraska this fall, he said he was confident of republican success. "Nebraska," he said, "ought to be and normally is a republican state. The condiis to be effected. The result reached by Judge Crounse is in conformity with various later decisions of the United States su-preme court and has been quoted approvingly in several text-books by writers of authority. bormally is a republican state. The condi-tions of two years ago are not those of today. Good crops and the failure of the present house of representatives had robbed the campairn liar of his stock in trade. Some of our re publicans were deceived once, but there are very few that can be fooled the second time. The administration of President Harrison speaks for itself, and it seeals as well that Again in the case of Hallenbeck vs. Hahn, a case arising in Douglas county from the re-fusal of a property owner to pay a tax part of which was intended to go as a bonus to a railway company, occasion was given to elucidate the articles on finance in the or-ganic law. He held that the limitation on the amount of money which the state might borrow, rested upon loans for state purposes only and not upon boad issues of coputies Again in the case of Hallenbeck vs. Hahn, The suministration of President Harrison speaks for itself, and it speaks so well that there is no reason for a change." Some time after the news of his nomina-tion was brought to him by THE BEE corres spondent Judge Crounse received a messag-from Chairman Cady telling him of his nom-ination. He immediately sent the following really: only and not upon boad issues of counties and other public corporations; that aiding a railroad, constituted a public purpose and that in authorizing such aid, the legislature did not transcend its legally granted powers. The railway is a public highway constructed under the right of eminent domain. "How reply: "Please express to the convention my full Appreciation and heartfelt thanks for the high honor conferred upon me, and this re-newed expression of confidence. Be assured I shall do all in my power for the success of the party, of which I have no doubt." is it, then," asks Judge Crounse, "that we regard a railway as public till we have invaded the most sacred rights of the private vaded the most sacred rights of the private citizen by wresting his land from him, will-ing or unwilling, and immediately become blind to its public character when we under-take to use the taxing power, which has no limit under the constitution?" The bonds in question were in the hands of innocent, bonafide holders and their integrity must be upheld without taint of reputation. In ar-riving at this conclusion house. Judge Crounse cannot make definite plans for the immediate future. His office is very busy just now. But as soon as he can put his business in condition he expects to resign the position of assistant socretary of the treasury, that he may take an active part in upheid without taint of repudiation. In ar-riving at this conclusion Judge Crounse drew distinctly the dividing line between the fields of legislative and of judicial action. "Unless the constitution is violated in some of its parts, the plain office of this court is to declare the act constitutional. With any question as to the wisdom of the iaw or the policy of its enactment, we, in common with all citizens of the state, may have one the campaign.

His many admiring friends in Clay county are wonder fully well pleased sud go into the campaign with redoubled entbusiasm because of th certainty of electing him. His nomination at the present critical period in Nebraska politics was like that of Lincoln in 1861-providential. BRATICE, Neb., Aug. 5.-[Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-The nomination of Hon. Lorenzo Crounse is very generally approved by republicans throughout this region.

LORENZO CROUNSE. Sketch of the Career of the Candidate for Governor. Lorenzo Crounse was born January 27. 1834, in Schoharie county, New York. One of his great grandfathers had come to this country from Wittenberg, famous in the history of the world since the time of Luther. Young Crounse went through that early training from which so many great Americans have graduated-a common school education followed by several years of work as the head of a country school. Mr. Crounse began his career as a teacher at the age of 17, and continued in that occupation for three successive winters, during which period he saved sufficient means to give him two summer terms at Charlotteville seminary, New York. He then read law at Fort Plain in the same state, and was admitted to set up his office and entered on the field of law. Four practic he set upon years later, he was married to Miss Mary E Griffiths, lize him, a native of New York state. A Brilliant War Record.

At the outbreak of the rebellior. Mr. Crounse enlisted at his country's call. He raised the company known as Battery K, First regiment New York light artillery, and was at once chosen as its captain. In the summer of 1862 he was severely wounded at Beverly Ford, on the Rappahannock river, and was compelled on this account to resign and return to his home in September follow-

He resumed the practice of his profession, continuing in Fort Plain until 1864, when he removed to Nebraska, and settled at Rulo, Richardson county. He was elected, in the fall of 1865, to represent that county in the territorial legislature. In this session, the last that was to act under the territorial regime, he served on the judiciary committee, as, also, upon the special committee an-pointed to draft the first constitution for the proposed state of Nebraska. He took a promi-nent part both in drafting that document and in advocating its adoption by the people. Graced the Supreme Bench.

With the adoption of the constitution of 1866, Mr. Crounse was elected at the age of 32 as one of the three justices of the first su-preme court of the new state. He was associated on the bench with the late Oliver Mason as chief justice, and George B. L associate justice, and was assigned the Third judicial district comprising all the state north of the Platte except Douglas and Saroy counties. In the deliperations of the court he at once took a most active part, partici-puting particularly in those cases demanding an exposition of the provision of the new constitution. His share in defining and applying that document to the various intricate problems that arose was one of no little im-portance and was marked throughout by a profound study of the underlying principles The opinion in the very first case reported in the series of Nebraska re-ports was written by Judge Crounse and dealt with the intricacies of the law of iandlord and tenant. In the case of the Peo-ple vs McCallum, the judgment of the court rendered by Judge Crounse interpreted the clause in the constitution restricting any bill from having more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in the title, as not intended to prevent the legislature from selecting its own title although the one selected might not be the most suitable and comprehensive. This tiberal reading of the clause was necessary to the validity of vari-ous acts that had been passed. Another opportunity was given for inter-preting the new constitution in the famous case of Brittle vs the People. The point at issue turned on the question whether under the constitution of Nebraska a colored man had a right to sit on a jury. The question was decided in the affirmative, and gave Judge Crounse an opportunity to review at length the history of the "funda-mental condition" which congress had attached to the enabling act, namely, the clause striking out the restriction of the suffrage to white citizens only. of the frontier, and sechrol the passage of an net subjecting all lands, included in the Paci-ne rail way grants to state and local taxation. His efforts to obtain an appropriation of $50,000 for a permanent fort on the Loup river in Nebraska failed, but he succeeded in having a bill pessed for the railef of settlers upon public lands in this state who were suffering from injury by grasshoppers. He put forth his utmost endeavor to get an enactment by congress compelling the Union Pacific to prorate with the south branch of Pacific to prorate with the south branch of the B. & M. In the course of his remarks upon the bill, he denonced the monopoly of the Union Pacific as one of the grossest kind. "The experience of the people of Nebraska," said he, "is not an encouraging one. The Union Pacific company bas even undertaken to run the politics of the state. At our last convention, the unseemly spectacle was pre-sented of Jay Gould and Sidney Dillon being at Omaha in communication with the superat Omaha in communication with the super-intendent of the road, at the convention, the wires communicating between them. The influence of the corporations at Wash-ington, however, was too strong, and the same fate overtook his bill to reduce the charges of the Union Pacific for hauting freight across the bridge at Omaha from $10 to $5 per car which passed the house but was and elected state superintendent.

Three years later he was given, without solicitation on his part, the office of collector of internal revenue for Nebraska, a position which he retained for four years, retiring with a certificate of the con that his office held rank among the best conducted in the service. Judge Crounse retired to his farm at Fort Calhoun in 1883 and, as he thought, from public life. He gave his attention to the raising of fine stock and fruits and continued to take, as he had always taken, a warm interest in the state and various county fairs in which he was at times an exhibitor and

Expressions of Gratification from Many Leading Republicans.

It didn't take long for the news of Judge Crounse's nomination to secure general circulation in Omaha. The BEE gives herewith a few of the expressions of the pusiness men and citizens, referring to the result: John T. Clarke-I am certain that the nom-ination of Judge Crounse was the very best that could have been made. I have thought for several months past that he was stronger by from 10,000 to 20,000 votes than any other republican whose name has been mentioned for governor. Judge Crounse's past record will enable the republican press of the state to make such a campaign for the re-publican party as will certainly keep Nobrassa in the republican ranks this year. I look to see business men and others hav-fog financial interests in the state, including the farmers, to array the medices for Crounse as egainst Van Wyck and the radical views of the independent party. There is another important thing to be considered. The pomination of Judge Crounse means that the Bomination of Judge Crounse means that the republican party will present a united front in this campaign, as his nomination was sought by all parties who have heretofore been separated by factional differences. I believe that the strong, clear ticket headed by Judge Crounse will appeal effectively to the judgment of the people and will be tri-nuphantly elected in November.

Judge W. S. Strawn-I think he is the strongest man we could have nominated. He actongest man we could have nominated. He is singularly free from our corporate infigences and is a man who cannot be influenced by cliques. He will rue well.

SECRETARY FOSTER PLEASED.

le Eulogizes Judge Crounse as a Man and Official,

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 5 .- [Special Telegram to THE BEE.]-Secretary Foster all citizens of the state, may have our opision, but we have no right to avail ourselves of our position to give effect to such opinion unless it accords with principle and authority. The province of the was much pleased with the nomination of Judge Crounse, his assistant, for governor by the republicans of Nebraska. Before his departure for Sandusky he said to THE BEE correspondent:

court has too frequently and too unmistak-ably been declared to be misunderstood or disregarded." "I served in congress with Assistant Secretary Crounse during the forty-third and forty-fourth sessions, and knew him quite Judge Crounse did not stand for re-election at the expiration of his term, but continued well and esteemed him highly. He came into this office as assistant secretary of the his connection with the bench for the next two years in the capacity of supreme court reporter. The only reason for retiring from treasury about one year ago, soon after I betreasury about one year ago, soon after I be-came secretary. I have been closely and in-timately associated with him during that time. I have never met a man of more personal integrity or better judgment than Mr. Crounse. His judgment seems to be unerring. I regard him as one of the ablest officers of the department, and shall regret exceedingly that for any cause he shall sever his connection with it. I congratulate the republicans of Nebraska on their very fortunate selection of a candidate for gov-ernor. I can assure them in advance that if he is elefted, of which I have no doubt, he will prove to be one of the best, if not the best, executive officer the state ever had." reporter. The only reason for retiring from the supreme court was that he had already in 1872 been hominated for congress over John Taffe, then member of the house, and Silas A. Strickiand, and had been elected by a rousing majority. He served not only through the Forty-third congress, but was also selected to the Forty-fourth congress. In the former he was assigned a place upon the committee of considerable importance by reason mittee of considerable importance by reason of the vast domain still excluded from state of the vast domain still excluded from state government. During his second term he was an influential member of the com-mittee on public lands. All through his congressional career Judge Crounse was ever active in furthering the interests of his constituents and the welfare of the nation. His first speech was in favor of the repeal of the sairy-grab act which had been passed by the previous congress, and he joined his vote with those that struck it from the statute book. He protested against any reduction of the army which would make it inadequate to the protection Highest of all in Leavening Power .-- Latest U. S. Gov't Report.
