Bears Explains Why He Charged Judge Ecott with Insanity.

BUBSTANCE OF THE AFFIDAVITS FILED

Several Burt County Citizens Testify That a Conspiracy Existed to Prevent His Honor Holding a Session of Court There.

TERRAMAH, Neb., Oct. 18 - [Special Telethat the train from Omaha was late this morning the only business transacted by the court with reference to the injunction in the Scott case was the order by the court to have offidavits filed by 12:10 p. m., after which court adjourned to 2 o'clock. At that time the case came on regularly before Judges Irvine, Davis and Keysor, The Burt county bar was represented by Messrs. Simeral and Estabrook, and Messrs. Webster, Wharton and Bartlett appeared for Judge Scott. The Amdavits introduced on behalf of Judge Scott were from members of the jury drawn for the present term of court, and from litigants who are interested in the cases pend-

These were for the purpose of establishing the fact that there was a collusion among the members of the Burt county bar and that it had been decided to try no cases before Judge Scott. Several litigants deposed that they were anxious to have their pases proceeded with, but their attorneys had fired stipulations for continuance. On the other hand the attorneys had made affidavits that there was no conspiracy to pre-vent Judge Scott from holding a term of sourt in Burt county, and that no member of the bar desired to interfere with the course

Not Actuated by Malice,

W. G. Sears, who made the complaint be W. G. Sears, who made the complaint before the insanity commission, made affidavit that he was not actuated by malice in his action, and that he had good and sufficient tonson to think that Scott was insane. Drs.
Tilden, Conkling and Merriam of Omaha made affidavit to the effect that Judge Scott was mentally sound. It appears that during the time since the adjournment of court last was Judge Scott was examined in Omaha week Judge Scott was examined in Omaha to his mental condition. The only sensational feature of the testimony was that part of the Sears affidavit which charged that Judge Scott, when conducting his campaign last year, told a local attorney if he would use his influence to secure his (Scott's) election he would lose

After the affidavits had been submitted in ovidence, the case was argued at length by the attorneys. Messrs. Simeral and Esta-brook contended that the court had no jurisdiction; that it could not issue an order such as that prayed for, for the reason that it could not issue punish a crime until it had been committed.

Messrs. Webster, Wharton and Bartlett Messrs. Webster, Wharton and Bartlett contended that the court had jurisdiction, and that it was clearly within the province of the court to issue such an order as that asked for. At the conclusion of the argument the case was taken under advisement. d court adjourned until tomorrow morning at the usual hour.

POISONER NEILL'S TRIAL.

It Attracts Large Crowds to the Old Bailey in Londo i. LONDON, Oct. 18 -The Old Bailey court was again crowded to the doors this morning to near the testimony in the case of Dr. Thomas Neul, the American charged with murdering a number of unfortunate young women with poison. The crowd was so great that it became necessary to erect barriers at some of the entrances to check the resh. John G. Kirby, a drugg[st's cterk, testified that since October tast he had sold Neill nux vomica, poison, several times, in quantities of one to four ounces, together with empty capsules. The sales were made to Neili on his own prescription as a doctor.

The trial of Dr. Thomas Neill, the alleged poisoner, attracted large crowds to the Old Balley this afternoon and the entrances were besieged by even larger numbers than had gathered in the morning and there was had gathered in the morning and there was much pushing and scrambling for scats.

Miss Wiley Sleaper, daughter of the land-lady of the premises at 103 Lambeth balace road, where Neill lodged, was called. She testified that Neill came first to the bouse in September, 1891. He gave his name as Dr. Neill, and said he came from Quebec. He remained until January 5 or 6. He said he was going back to Quebec when he left. He came back again on April 7, and left the fol-lowing Saturday. He appeared never to have any business or occupation. He said something about being agent for a drug mer-chant. Neill had shown her a case of pills. Neill once volunteered the statement, when the inquest on Marsh and Shrivell was on, that it was a case of cold-blooded murder, Neill had told her about his being watched She had seen a box in Neill's room contain ing galatine capsules.

Cross-examined, Miss Sicapor said Neill told her that he habitually took opium. Dr. Thomas Stevenson, one of the attaches to the home office was examined. He made an analysis of the exhumed body of Matilda Clover. By chemical analysis, he detected strychnine in the bowels and the chest cavity, and a frog was killed by strychnine so obtained. He had found strychnine in a case belonging to Neill.

John Wilson McCullough of Ottawa stated that at the end of February and the beginning of March of the present year, he was at Bluechard's hotel, Quebec. While there he made the acquaintance of Neill, whom he knew as Dr. Cream. He saw a bottle in Neill's room. Referring to the bottle Neill asked: "Do you know what that is?" Mc Cullough replied in the negative and Neill "That is poison.

McCullough asked him what he did with it, and Neili replied that he gave it to women for a certain purpose. It contained whitish crystals of irregular size and a shining ap pearance. Referring to Neill's statement as to what he did with the poison, McCullough said: "How do you do that!" Neill answered: "I give it to them in these" (producing a pasteboard box containing eighteen or twenty capsules). He spoke a great deal of women in London and mentioned Waterloo, Victoria and Westminster roads as thoroughfares in which he met At this point court adjourned until to-

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 18 .- The World, one of the strongest supporters of the Dominion government, in an editorial on the asnexation movement says: "Annexation cannot ever be without strife. A great majority of Canadians are built that way. They would sooner fight than be a part of the United States. Not that they hate the United States, but long to the British empire. The government of the United States goes into the tail twisting mania on frequent eccasions, and the conspiracy to dissever Ireland from England has its head occasions. quarters in the United States. These are hard, undeniable facts. He, therefore, who is a Canadian and argues for annexation is arguing for civil war; he is stirring up civil strife, and just as sure as annexation is per sisted in strife will come. When civil strife, breaks out it breaks of pectedly and in unlooked for places, but it will come. Let these men then understand whitnerto they are drifting. If they are wise they will cease their troubling or they will seek a place of rest under the flag they so much love. They are free to depart, to join in the much talked of evodus.
