MINOR MESTION. K Y. Plumbing Co.

Council Bluffs Lumber Co., County Auditor Hendricks is shipping out the polling booths. Mapel Watson, aged i year and 3 months, died last night at the residence of her parents on Lincoln avenue. H. Of Mead has decided to build three houses, two in the western part of the city and one in the eastern. C. Jones paid a fine of $15, 10 in the police court yesterday in settlement of a case of in-toxication and fast driving. Charles O'Neil, for being found drunk and begging on the streets will work out $10.73 with the street cleaning gang. The contracts for the building of the new Grace Episcopal church were let vesterday, Herman Brown getting the carpenter work and J. P. Weaver the masonry. The build-ing is to cost about $4,000. The running horse, Red Leo, concerning the possession of which there has been some controversy, has been found wandering about some miles in the country. Stubblefield, who was supposed to have a writ of re-plevin hitched to the steed, says the horse got away from him and he did not know where it went to. Mrs. George W. Eckhert was before the board of insanity vesterday, the examination being with the view of having her cared for in some asylum. For some time past she has been in ill health, and had been cared for in the Women's Christian Association hospital until her occentricities became so marked that it was deemed best to place her under special treatment.

In the district court yesterday the taking of testimony was ended, and today the arguments will begin. The plaintiff, Dr. Hood, claims $49,000 of the Northwestern Railway company for injuries received in a wreck. The company claims that the man is sham-ming a good deal and that his limp is largely artificial. The case is being sharply fought on both sides and will continue to hold the boards for the rest of the week.

The ballot boxes being sent out by the county auditor are large affeirs made of zinc. Each is loaded with envelopes marked for different kinds of ballots, rubber stamps for marking bailots to which objections are made or which are found to be defective, ink pads, cards of instructions and landscape gardeners' plans for arranging the polling places, copies of the law, etc. The judges will do well to enter upon their educatory

A good deal of unxiety is being expressed for the future of Bayliss park as a grass plat. for the future of Bayliss park as a grass plat. For several years past, owing to the density of the shade from the trees, the grass has been getting very thin, until there is little left, and that little is pale and sickly. It has been suggested that one of the causes is the fact that the grade of the park is so much lower than the streets that the grass has been drowned out and there is strong talk of raising the grace this winter and starting a raising the grace this winter and starting a new growth of grass.

Fire Broadway and Corner of Benton Street.

Our late loss by fire was covered by two policies, both in the COUNCIL BLUFFS INSURANCE COMPANY.

By 7 o'clock the next morning after the fire the secretary was on the ash heap, pencil in hand, ready to figure the loss down to bedrock, which he did, too, saying that' it was his duty and no small part of his business." So long as he did not go below bedrock we had no reason to complain, consequently the settlement was not only prompt, but in every way satisfactory, so much so that in addition to $9,200.00 (seven policies) carried by this company before the fire we now add to it $16,000.00.

Being intimately acquainted with the secretary and directors we cannot be persuaded that better indemnity can be obtained than that offered by our home company, besides we believe in patronhy home enterprises thing being equal, and unless we do we shall continue to be dependent on foreign capital and corporations. The pupils of the Washington avenue school were given a strong object lesson yesterday afternoon. Just at the hour of dismissal, when the streets were full of children, especially in the vicinity of the city buildings, the patrol waron came up with a woman in a shecking stage of intoxication. She made every possible effort to make a spectacle of herself and created a great uproar when she was taken from the wagon into the jail. The crowd of juvenites hied the street and watched the proceedings with horror pictured on their faces. She was booked as Blanche Bradley and will tell Judge McGee today how she happened to get so uproariously drunk.

Work of a Placky and Enthusiastic Little Woman.

HER SACRIFICES IN RELIGIOUS CAUSE

Delicate Hands Doing the Hard Work of Men-Anling Her Husband to Build a Church - Womanty Courage and Perseverance,

For weeks past, in all kinds of weather, when outdoor work was permitted at all, the people who have passed the corner of Avenue A and Tweifth streets have witnessed a sight that recalled pioneer days, when women were expected to do their full share of all kinds of manual labor. A little church and parsonage are being built there, and from the time the foundations were commenced, frequently only two persons have been at work. One was a man and the other a woman. The woman was not your frail, sickly kind, to whom the ordinary duties of life are a burden, but a rosy-cheeked matron in the prime of physical vigor, with a strong English type of face. At the start she began mixing the mortar and carrying the brick to the man, who kept steadily at work on the walls. The walls went up slowly, but it was not her fault. Sue kept up the piles of brick and mortar, and the customary cry of "mort" was never heard. The foundation was compieted in time and the superstructure of the frame parsonage has been going up with the there would be several men at work lifting imbers and natting on the boards, but all the time the man and the woman were nearing the brunt of the work and doing well what they did. Now the little pursonage is up, but not completed, and work on the nenced. Frequently at noon time and sometimes during the afternoon the rosy-cheeked little woman has been in the business houses and offices, quietly but expressly soliciting aid for the little church. Yesterday afternoon a BEE man encountered her in one of the Main street stores on her soliciting mission, and she modestly answered some of the inquiries oundation of the church has been com-

that cariosity prompted. "Yes, we are all working hard to com-plete our buildings before the cold weather sets in, but we do not expect to do much more than finish the parsonage. We will then occupy it and hold services in the large rooms. My husband's name is floy. O. H. Anton, and he is the paster of the little Free Methodist church we are building. My husband has worked every day on the building, until a few days ago, when he was taken sick, and I have worked all the time in all capacities, carrying brick and mortar and helping in every way I could, keeping house and cooking for my family and getting out whenever I could, asking assistance of the public in the way of funds to help us through with our uncertaking. I have learned to mix mortar just right, and know how to carry the brick and lay them where my huscand can get them the casiest, I go to bed at night with a clear conscience, free from aches and pains, and am just as happy as anybody can wish to be, my only anxiety now being about my sick husband. My husband gets no salary, and we live on what our electson makes, which amounts to about $18 a month. We believe in our faith that our religion is right, and we cannot make any sacrifice that is too great."

The little woman is the picture of health and matronly vigor, and goes about her work soliciting funds and making friends for the struggling little church with the same con-fluence she displays in carrying a pail of water or a hod of brick

LAST NIGHT'S RALLY.

Democrats Capture the Town for a While -Ex-Governor Crittenden's Address. Democracy had the town last night. And they kept it in a blaze and uproar as long as they retained possession, and that was not given up until pearly midnight. But not all the blaze and uproar was the result of democratic enthusiasm. A very large part of it was made by the numerous and ambitious small boy, who reaped full satisfaction for his bitter disappointment occasioned by the postponement of the republican parade on the night previous in deference to the wishes of the state and national committees as a mark of respect to the president and a tribute to the memory of the pure woman whose life went out in the white house on Tuesday morning. The class gathered from the country and surrounding towns early in the evening. The tooting of thou-sands of tin horns, pepping of shot gups and blazing of fireworks drew thousands of people from their homes, and by 8 o'clock the streets were jammed to such an extent that street car traffic had to be suspended. It was a terrifically noisy but hugely good natured crowd, but sans bead, sans tail and sans every element of order. The original plan called for the formation of the torchlight procession in front of the local beadquarters on Pearl street, but by the time the hour arrived for the start the street was blocked to such an extent that a get-away in order was a physical im-possibility, and the committees in charge did the next best thing, distributed the forches to those wanting them and let the procession form itself. Starts innumerable were made headed by bands but only succeeded in grawing off a stragging growd of torch bearers. Finally at $:30 a mounted delegation 200 strong from Lowis township forced its way through the crowd, and bands dropped in behind them. The blare of the instruments and the glare of the torches held high above the heads of the horsemen attracted attention, and the crowd com-menced to unwind itself and follow. Then made an imposing speciacle. Eighteen hundred torches were distributed a the crowd from express wagons and at the headquarters. A big percentage of them were seized by boys, but they swung into line and marched and yelled.

Missouri Valley sent a delegation of 400 quipped with torches, making a total of 200 in and out of line.

The line of march was down Broadway to Seventh street, back on Broadway to Main, lown Main to the Pearl street juncture, then ip Pearl and on to Dohany's opera house where ex-Governor Crittenden expounded the free trade theories so enthusiastically led for by the crowd. In the procession were delegations, small in number, however, from Neols, Minden, Crescent, Glenwood, Strahn and Silver The Council Bluffs Shotgun brigade, that has done duty on many previous and similar occasions, held a prominent place in the ranks and fired hundreds of blank car-Less than a dozen transparencies were carried, and none of them represented an idea worth recording. A singular oversight, which provoked some severe criticism, especially from the old soldiers, was the fact that there was not an American flag in the procession, with the exception of a few toy affairs in the hats of two or three of the mounted delegation.

They were loth to accept the explanation that it was risky business to carry a large flag in a torchlight procession, and they recalled the fact that there had never been a republican political parade in the city when Amer ican flags twenty feet long were not carried and flung to the breeze.

"We carried that old flag," said one of them, "when the fire was a d-d sight hotter than those little kerosene lamps and we protected it, too. It's rotten mean for those fellows to say they could not protect at least one flag from a few smoky tamps. A political procession a mile long with the only na-tional colors in sight stuck in a cowboy's hat and two yards of solid bunting wound around the rump of his buckskin pony don't represent, to my mind, an American party. These fellows made lots of noise tonight, but they didn't make a vote."

Ex-Governor Crittenden of Missouri addressed the denselv-packed crowd in the opera house in a two-hours' speech filled with usual campaign pintitudes and falsities. He is a pleasing speaker and knows just what to say and how to say it to fully satisfy a democratic audience.
