

THE SPECULATIVE MARKETS

Yesterday's Trading Was Marked by a Strong Rally.

FREE LIQUIDATIONS IN WHEAT EARLY After the Interval of Depression the Situation Strengthened Materially—May Sold at the Lowest of the Crop—Stocks and Bonds.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 2.—A strong rally, after an interval of depression, was the feature of today's market. The strength extended into all pits, lifting both cereals and provisions. Prices changed for the last night, however, are not remarkable.

In wheat at the start there was apparently a general feeling of discouragement, and free liquidation increased. However, in December the market was not so weak. Counselman went out with a statement that all reports connect with his house with an intended sense of that month, but they were without foundation, and the market was feebly bullish on the market. This was followed by weak cables, which increased the depression and the sell was for a time unrelenting. May sold at the lowest of the crop. Later, however, operators began to feel that perhaps they had not acted wisely in selling so freely and began to take back the property.

At the same time the estimates for tomorrow were generally optimistic and this was quickly followed by Bradstreet's report of the available supply, showing a much smaller increase than expected. Under the influence of this news the market developed considerable firmness. The price of wheat advanced from 50c to 52c, and prices declined from 52c to 50c, and were steady at 50c.

Reports from the northwest are generally agreed about a heavy decrease in farmers' crops, but the country operators believe that the crop is not so small. The effect of this in Minneapolis and Duluth receipts is not yet known. The market for wheat in a good deal of December when held by Counselman & May was changed during the first hour and conditions were favorable. The receipts were nearly all cash, but estimated, and rain was reported over the northwest, which has the slump in the market. The market was not so strong, but it was further strengthened by the small estimate for tomorrow—25,000 cars. The market was further strengthened by the small estimate for tomorrow—25,000 cars. There was sharp action in the provision market, most of the afternoon. It was not unexpected. The market was not so strong, but it was further strengthened by the small estimate for tomorrow—25,000 cars. The market was further strengthened by the small estimate for tomorrow—25,000 cars.

On the Produce exchange today the butter market was steady and unchanged; creamery receipts, 20,000 lbs.; eggs, 10,000; strictly fresh, 15,000.

should this occur it would not be difficult to bring about a fair rally, as the trade would rather buy than sell the market now. In corn and provisions, the market is better than for cash grain exists and country receipts are being light. Receipts of both corn and oats are unusually small.
